24 Ships Come, Flying.
Upset in Wall Street.
Repeal Seems Certain.
No Russian Anti-Semitism.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AT EIGHTEEN minutes to four, as this is written, Gen. Balbo with his twenty-four seaplanes comes roaring down the Hudson River, past the giant sky-scrapers of Manhattan, to his landing place near the ocean's edge.

High among the clouds, stretching far up the river, you see the great airships in groups of three, flying in perfect formation. You know that those ships have flown from Italy to Chicago by a route longer than 6,000 miles, have flown in a few hours from Chicago to New York and will soon fly back to Italy.

What a glory for Italy, what a tribute to the skill and discipline of her fliers. There is no other flying fleet to compare with it. Congratulations to Mussolini, Balbo and the great Italian nation.

IF GEN. BALBO would take his twenty-four seaplanes on to Washington, fly around the War and Navy buildings, and let as many as can realize that it IS possible to send a fleet of ships on a peaceful or hostile errand across the Atlantic to the United States NOW, he would do this country a favor.

We are still treating airships as "an auxiliary" of floating ships and marching soldiers, which is purest idiocy.

WHEN IT is possible to send twenty-four ships, each of which could carry explosive bombs and poisonous gas, in military formation, six thousand miles, with power to destroy inland cities at the end of the trip, what is the use of talking about any kind of war except war from the air?

Geese will remark that Gen. Balbo had to proceed cautiously Of course he did, in PEACE TIME.

But in war, instead of sending twenty-four planes, ONE THOUSAND would be sent and if half or three-quarters of them were wrecked on the way, that would make no difference. There would be enough left. And no one counts the cost in money or life in war.

And no one could count the cost in life or indemnity to this country if a hostile air fleet should reach our shores and dividing, bombard our principal cities.

They could do that today.

SOMETHING happened to the alcohol stocks in Wall street yesterday, and that frightened the whole speculative list. Perhaps "distillers" dropped because somebody decided that the people would be intelligent enough to drink beer instead of whisky. Anyhow, there was a scare all along the line, wheat dropping off ten cents, cotton two dollars, other stocks weak.

The increasing wet vote, with so many states in line and others, wet, soon to be heard from, will evidently end prohibition as the law of the land.

The country will then return to the old problem of regulating the dispensing of whisky and other alcoholic poisons, which, as Thomas Jefferson said, could best be done by encouraging temperate use of beer and light wine.

THE ZIONIST organization in America says 4,000 German Jews have migrated to Palestine within the last three months, one half self-supporting, the other half depending on the Jewish agency.

The plan is to have 250,000 Jews, mostly from Germany, settle in Palestine within a four-year period.

To carry out the project calls for a fund of $25,000,000. It appears, however, that even in Palestine the number of emigrants is restricted and Palestine, unfortunately, is a country limited in its agricultural and commercial possibilities and opportunities.

THE BRITISH, reaching out for business, are perfecting an agreement with Russia under which Russian purchases will be increased in England, especially purchases of heavy machinery. Russia is canceling her business with Germany. Stalin does not like Mr. Hitler's denunciation of Communism.

Spain, it is said, will recognize Russia and endeavor to do business with that country.

Uncle Sam feels unable to make up his mind, although it is reported that Russian agents have been clearing up their embassy and preparing to send representatives to Washington.

TROTZKY, FORMERLY head of the Russian army, exiled from Russia, has received permission to reside in France.

Trotzky's exile from Russia, however, had nothing to do with his being a Jew, for in Russia there is no official anti-Semitic discrimination.

This is well set forth admirably by a young American student, Herbert L. Abrons, son of Louis W. Abrons, of New York, who has traveled extensively in Russia. He writes:

"Under Communism the Jews have their own Yiddish courts, schools and Jewish 'houses of culture.' Full protection is given to the culture of the Jewish people.

"As regards their religion, that, like any other, is 'opium for the people' and must go. To aid in the creation of a purely atheistic state, the teaching of Hebrew is at present prohibited; but, as the crisis passes, the restriction will most likely be relaxed.

"Everything has been done under the Communist dictatorship to give the Jew a square deal. They have even gone so far as to take away from the individual peasants to

'KIDNAPING' ONLY LARK, BOY SAFE

East End Youngster Home to 'Sock' Pal For Telling Tale

"Kidnaped" Jack Woods, 15, of 18 Forbes Terrace, was back home today after a pleasant little hitch-hiking jaunt over the country.

Two days of worrying by police and family were ended when the lad was found in Downieville, Pa., near Butler, through the Sun-Telegraph identification, safe and sound after a pleasure trip to New York City.

He'd seen Broadway and the Empire State Building; he'd spent a night in a 35-cent hotel room and gone through the Holland tunnels.

He'd ridden and slept on a beer truck on his way back and he planned to "sock" his friend, Floyd McClintock, 14, of 5705 Forbes street, who started out on the trip, dropped out, and spread the kidnaping alarm.

ADVENTURE BEGINS

The two flagged the auto of a drug clerk named "Bob" at Shady avenue and Forbes street, Tuesday noon. They decided to ride with him for two hours. Jack said:

"Floyd got off in an hour. I thought I'd stay with him for two hours, I was having such a good time.

"But it was so much fun I went on with him to New York."

"Bob," Jack says, was 25—he asked him because he was such a "swell fellow." He was going home to New Haven, Conn.

It was "Bob"—Jack didn't know his last name—who paid for Jack's wire to his mother, Mrs. Maude Woods, that he was in New York, safe and sound.

POLICE SEARCH

That telegram spread a network of police vigilance throughout the New York and Connecticut district. They were looking for "Bob"—supposed to be a "dangerous criminal" and a possible "insane man."

Jack showed up today after riding back from New Jersey on a beer truck to Butler, Pa., where J. R. Purvis gave him a ride on his horse-drawn wagon to Downieville.

There Richard Welling, of Downieville, recognized him from a Sun-Telegraph picture and called the paper.

A reporter brought the lad to Pittsburgh and his relieved mother's care.

Jack's mother today was near tears tof relieff. She said:

"I certainly am grateful to the Sun-Telegraph. I thought I was going to have heart failure for a while. I'll have to wait until Jack gives us more details. You can't tell what he was put up to say by that man."

ROOSEVELT SEES REPEAL IN '33

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—President Roosevelt today expressed confidence that the Eighteenth Amendment would be repealed by Christmas as a result of the sweeping wet victories in Alabama and Arkansas.

This was revealed by Postmaster General Farley, who called at the White House today on his return from the South, where he participated in the wet victory. Farley, following his conversation with the President, said:

"We will have repeal by Christmas."

Asked by newspapermen if he had expressed this belief to the President, Farley replied:

"Yes, and he agreed with me."

Roosevelt Entertains Balbo at White House

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(INS.)—Gen. Italo Balbo, smiling hero of the massed trans-Atlantic flight, brought his Italian flying officers to the nation's capital today for a thunderous welcome and a round of entertainment.

Thousands greeted the young but bearded Italian and his younger-looking officers as their squadron of four American Army transport planes and a Navy amphibian settled gracefully on Bolling Field at 11:30 (Pittsburgh time).

Additional thousands lined the streets as the fliers were whisked to their hotel here after a brief but colorful ceremony at the field.

Later Balbo and about 12 of his 39 officers ate lunch with President Roosevelt at the White House, while the rest of the group were entertained by the Overseas Writers at a luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel.

During the afternoon a reception at the Italian Legation was held for the distinguished visitors, and a dance and reception at the Army and Navy Country Club tonight was to top off their visit.

Tomorrow morning the Italians will fly back to New York, from whence they will soon start their journey back to Italy.

Wiley Post was headed for Alaska today on his solo air race around the world, and he had a lead of more than 30 hours on the record time he made with Harold Gatty on their world flight two years ago. (See story on Page 4.)

HOOVER MAY TESTIFY IN BANK QUIZ

Ex-President Wanted Before Detroit's One-Man Jury

DETROIT, July 20.—(AP.)—The one-man grand jury, now in adjournment, which for five weeks delved into the affairs of Detroit's two closed national banks, would like to have the testimony of Former President Herbert Hoover.

Information that an effort is being made to have Mr. Hoover come here to testify was given out today, as the jury met briefly and adjourned until next Tuesday, to give a banking committee more time to complete negotiations for re-organizing or reopening the Guardian National Bank of Commerce and the First National Bank-Detroit, closed since the state banking holiday February 14.

FRIENDS APPROACHED

Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, discussing the future plans of the jury with Judge Harry B. Keidan, presiding at the inquiry, said that "personal friends" of Mr. Hoover are seeking to contact him with a view of bringing him here to testify concerning the bank holiday, which occurred while he was in office. The prosecutor said:

"We will know the outcome of these contracts by the first of next week. If Mr. Hoover should come here, we understand he has considerable information which would be of interest to this grand jury."

The prosecutor requested a second adjournment of the jury, which was scheduled to begin today its inquiry into banking affairs, after such action had been requested by Edsel Ford, Clifford B. Longley and Emory W. Clark, members of a committee now negotiating with officials in Washington for a solution to the banking difficulties. Toy said the committee had informed him it was "making progress" and requested additional time.

BANKER INTERESTED

Officials attending the brief session of the jury today said it was understood that Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the board of the First National, was one of the persons seeking to bring Mr. Hoover here. Mills, they said, was understood to have visited the former President recently at his home in Palo Alto, Cal. Mills was ready to testify when the jury adjourned a week ago.

The prosecutor also read a telegram from State Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien, in Washington, requesting another adjournment of the grand jury. The telegram requested the proescutor to "tell Judge Keidan it is possible I may produce witnesses to present the facts from the government's standpoint."

Federal officials involved in the state bank holiday and in the closing of the two national banks have declined to testify.

FIGHT ON BEER LICENSES FAILS

Three out of four efforts by county detectives to obtain revocation of beer licenses failed today when the sellers proced in court that their places were properly equipped under the law. It was a part of the effort of District Attorney Andrew T. Fark to check up on the operations of the beer law.

Revocation petitions were dismissed by Judge William H. McNaugher against George and Grace Walton, of Penn Township; the Riverview Barbecue, Penn Township, and the Lighthouse Cage, Wilkinsburg.

The first beer-retailing license to be revoked in Allegheny County is that of Pavala Bartoluzzi, of Linhart road, Rodi, Penn Township. He was disqualified after County Detective Samuel Wisner said he found less than the 300 square feet of space required by cafe, Wilkinsburg.

Witnesses for the Waltons stated that when Wisner visited their place of business, part of the tables had been taken from the room during cleaning operations.

Late Czar's Cousin Convicted of Theft

PARIS, July 20.—(INS.)—Prince Nicholas Obolensky, a cousin of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, was convicted today of the theft of 2,500 francs (about $140 at current rate) from the cash box of a cafe.

The prince was given a suspended sentence of six months.

Phila. Man Named Envoy to Hungary

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt today made two additional recess appointments. He appointed George Earle, Jr., of Philadelphia, American minister to Hungary, and W. W. Durbin, of Ohio, as registrar of the Treasury.

Judge Evans, Ill In Canada, Improves

Still in critical condition, but improving, was the description of the condition of former Judge John A. Evans, in a telegram received by Pittsburgh friends from his daughter, Mrs. Don Rose. Judge Evans, ill at the summer home of his daughter in Magnetawan, Canada, retired in 1930 as president judge of Common Pleas Court.

Picture of Kline Vanishes From Police Station

A full-length picture showing former Mayor Charles H. Kline at his nattiest had disappeared today from Central Police Station, and nobody seems to know why. The ex-mayor had sent the picture to all police and fire stations when he was in power.

In its place at Central today was a photograph of three policemen illustrating the correct uniforms.

Freed on Bail

MRS. CLINTON B. LOCKWOOD

SPAIN RELEASES U. S. CITIZENS

PALMA, Mallorca Island, July 20.—(INS.)—Mrs. Clinton Lockwood, of Springfield, Mass., and Rutherford Fullerton, two of the five Americans imprisoned here for six weeks for allegedly participating in an attack upon a civil guard, were released on bail this afternoon.

The three others, Mrs. Lockwood's husband, Edmund W. Blodgett, of Stamford, Conn., and Roderick Mead, of New York, were unable to raise bail.

Orders for the release of the prisoners were transmitted to the warden of the jail by the military judge here, upon telephone instructions from Madrid.

Efforts are being made by friends of the three men still imprisoned to raise the sum required for their release.

Bail was fixed at 10,000 pesetas (about $1,200) and efforts are also being made to have it reduced.

United States Consul Claude Dawson, who arrived here today from Barcelona to carry on negotiations concerning the arrested Americans, is remaining on instructions from Washington.

Bucs and Giants Renew Their Series

FORBES FIELD, July 20.—The Pirates and New York Giants resumed their exciting series this afternoon with a single game. Ladies' Day brought thousands of women and girls to Forbes Field at an early hour.

Manager Gibson ordered Heinie Meine and Bill Swift to loosen up for mound duty. He was somewhat doubtful of starting Meine, although it was the veteran's turn. Manager Terry, of the Giants, had Roy Parmelee primed for slab action.

The two clubs split a great doubleheader yesterday as 22,000 fans looked on. It was the largest Forbes Field crowd since 1931.

NATION-WIDE PROGRAM ON WAGES, HOURS PERFECTED

Pay Boosts Pushed by Johnson

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—Foreseeing a crisis in the recovery program unless popular purchasing power is stepped up to keep pace with rising prices, Industrial Administrator Hugh S. Johnson today perfected the plan for nation-wide adoption of minimum wages and working hour limitations.

Only approval by President Roosevlt awaits promulgation of the drastic proposition, and Johnson was ready to seek that before the day is out.

The plan would be voluntary, with reliance on pressure of public opinion to get industrial and business concerns into line.

Making the rounds of hearings being held on proposals for specific codes to raise wages and restrict working time, Johnson told the crowded meetings we are "emerging from the depths but not from the dangers" of depression.

He warned insistently that wages must keep step with rising prices, going so far in talking to a hotel session on the code proposed for the women's coat and suit industry to warn that a crisis is faced within the next month or two in bringing buying power to a par with ascending costs of things.

Johnson said:

"We have a right to be encouraged about this law; it works.

"As I see it, there are now two main problems—some device to bring in the unorganized classes and this question of prices going too far ahead of consuming power. The operation of this law has been an inspiring thing."

Dancing Teachers For 28-Hour Week

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP.)—The feet and nerves of dancing instructors will get a new deal under a code being formulated. It fixes a maximum work week of 28 hours. Arthur Murray, head of a dance studio, explaining the necessity for shorter hours, said:

"One hour an instructor will be working with a boy of 20, while the next hour she will be forced to change her pace for a pupil 93 years old."

Alphabet Soup Talk Palls After 10 Years

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rose Wach's suit for divorce charged that for 10 years she and her husband communicated with each other only through messages written on the tablecloth and letters picked from alphabet soup.

He stopped speaking, she alleged, when she poured a bottle of his liquor in a sink.

Helen Wills Returns; Dog Bites Reporter

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP.)—Accompanied by two sealyham terriers, one of which nipped a reporter on the hand as he stooped to pat the animal, Helen Wills Moody returned today from her latest tennis conquests at Wimbledon to receive the welcome and attention characteristically given to the California queen of the courts.

Mrs. Moody dismissed any discussion of the "incident" over the calling of a decision against her in the set she lost to Dorothy Round in the Wimbledon final, praised the English girl rival, and said she plans to concentrate her plans now on the Wightman Cup matches, as well as the national women's singles championship, both to be played next month at Forest Hills.

She posed with her two dogs, "Bossie" and "Bobbin," for photographers, after her husband, Frederick S. Moody, Jr., had given them an exercise walk on deck.

Employment Director Picked

Important developments in the concerted movement toward business recovery today were:

1—John McCune, Jr., of Grove City, was appointed Pennsylvania director of the federal re-employment service.

2—Pennsylvania Railroad freight car loadings increased 31.6 per cent over loadings of the same period in 1932.

3—United States Steel Corporation authorized shipment of an additional 3,000,000 tons of iron ore to meet its requirements and substantially increase employment.

4—In line with the Roosevelt administration's interest in raising salaries of "white collar" workers, the Sharon Steel Hoop Company announced 15 per cent increases for such employes.

The federal government today had set up machinery for re-employment of the jobless as business activity increased on a broader scale in the Pittsburgh district.

John McCune, Jr., of Grove City, was appointed Pennsylvania director of re-employment in the service designed to put hundreds of thousands of unemployed on jobs to be created under the National Industrial Recovery Act.

MORE NEWSIES RESUME WORK

Newspaper street sales were more general today than at any time since three days ago when some of the street-selling newsies went on strike. The resumption of sales was due to an agreement reached yesterday at a meeting of a committee of striking newsboys with newspaper publishers.

The meeting was held in the office of Mayor Herron, who helped to bring both sides together. The agreement was described as a compromise.

Sales last night and during the forenoon today brought fewer reports of trouble with indications that the situation was clearing up.

Twenty-six young men were arrested early today and yesterday for loitering near news stands or tearing up papers. Two were fined, 24 freed. A meeting of one group downtown was broken up when police arrested a half-dozen of the leaders—some not newsies—on various charges.

The meeting was held in a building at First and Water streets, and in a window was a sign, "Unemployed Council," some of whose members have been urging on the strikers.

The newsies struck after an adjustment of wholesale rates charged street sellers in East End and North Side was announced. This adjustment equalized the rates with those paid by 80 per cent of the street sellers. However, the 20 per cent affected by the adjustment objected to an increase of 25 cents per hundred papers.

Family at Picnic, Thieves Steal Gems

Mrs. E C Ludwig, wife of the florist, told the police today that while she was at a picnic yesterday, thieves stole a $500 platinum diamond ring and $60 cash from the Ludwig home at 3624 Perrysville avenue.

'POWER TRUST' CHARGED WITH ELECTRICAL CODE PLOT

WESTINGHOUSE MAN DENIES ALLEGATIONS

'Independents' Fear Lamp Manufacture Monopoly

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The "power trust" was charged today with seeking to perpetuate a monopoly in the electric lamp industry by slipping over a monopolistic "fair business" code on the Roosevelt administration.

Spokesmen for independent lamp manufacturers declared they would be driven out of business by inclusion in the code, drawn for the administration by the National Electrical Manufacturers' Association. The independents charged this association merely acted for the "power trust" and was dominated by the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric companies.

Willis B. Rice, of Jersey City, president of the Kallus Manufacturing Company, led the independent attack.

J. S. Tritle, president of the association and vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, denied Rice's charges. He insisted the code guaranteed free competition within the indutsry, but would wipe out cut-throat selling and unfair trade practices.

Glass Makers and Union Meet on Wage Scale

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 20.—(INS.) — Representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers of Pressed and Blown Glassware and the American Flint Glass Workers Union, convened here to decide upon a new wage scale, were hopeful today of completing a contract for the press ware department of unionized factories.

Disputes concerning press ware have been referred to this conference. They include disagreements involving factories at Glassport and Point Marion, Pa.; Moundsville, Paden City, Martinsville, Williamstown and Morgantown, W. Va.; Cambridge and Lancaster, O.

The wide difference between the wage demands of both groups has retarded progress. Union delegates insist the 1931-32 pay levels, reduced from 10 to 15 per cent last year, be restored.

Manufacturers are opposed to an increase.

Garment Makers' Code Bars Sweatshops

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(INS.)—Hearings on a code submitted by coat and suit manufacturers in the apparel trades were started today.

This code prohibits child labor, bans sweatshop conditions, and limits the work week to 40 hours, with minimum wages of 50 cents an hour.

Graduated rates of pay run from 50 cents to $1 an hour with certain exceptions of 45 cents an hour. Overtime is prohibited.

This code will cover workers and conditions in the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association, the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., and Merchants' Ladies' Garments Association, Inc., all said to represent 75 per cent of the industry.

CODES IMPERIL WOMEN'S JOBS

C. S. Coler, director of education of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, yesterday declared industrial codes now being prepared will result in keener competition between employes and the displacement of many women workers. Speaking at the eighth annual vocational and industrial arts conference of the University of Pittsburgh and the Carnegie Institute of Technology he said:

"If we are forced to pay more for our men we are going to try to get men who are better equipped. Perhaps we will prefer men to women and take high school trained boys in preference to those with no training."

Woman Found Dead On Railroad Tracks

FARRELL, Pa., July 20.—(AP.)—The body of Mary Dubey, 39, of Wheatland, was found early today on the Erie Railroad tracks. Apparently she had been struck by a freight train. The husband, John, and one son survive.

fer with state officials preparatory to taking up his task.

The re-employment service will be headed by W. Frank Persons, director of the United States Employment Service.

Shipping on railroads and rivers indicated a big increase in business activity in this district.

An increase in freight car loadings for the tenth consecutive week was reported for the week ending July 15 by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

FREIGHT INCREASES

There were 102,112 loaded revenue freight cars handled on the company's lines during the week. This was an increase of 12,826 over the previous week, and 24,513 or 31.6 per cent over the corresponding week of 1932.

The report said the present figures show the best movement since the week ended November 14, 1931.

River tonnage figures of the United States Engineers here showed shipping on the Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers in this district more than doubled last month, compared with the figures of June, 1932.

The steel industry, iron ore mining and Great Lakes shipping were given a tremendous impetus when United States Steel increased by 3,000,000 tons its requirements for ore.

BIG INCREASE

The increase alone was nearly equal to the total ore shipped by all steel companies a year ago. The Pittsburgh Steamship Company authorized immediate preparation for service of 40 large lake freighters. Approximately eight times as many carriers of the company will be in service as were operating a year ago.

Additional indication of steel's pickup was given in figures for consumption of ore in blast furnaces. The consumption in June was approximately 1,894,000 tons, compared with 593,024 in March.

The Truscon Steel Company and Cold Metal Process Company have advanced salaries as well as wages 15 per cent.

Executives, clerical workers and others employed by the Sharon Steel Hoop Company received salary increases of 15 per cent as announcement was made in Washington that the recovery administration is giving attention to wages of "white collar" workers.

Besides the jobs to be provided by the re-employment service, there will be new positions for the unemployed in the staffing of re-employment offices.

Secretary Perkins, of the Labor Department, has ordered the staffs recruited for placement offices shall be selected from among the unemployed of the locality in which an office is located.

Miss Perkins said jobs will be distributed among qualified workers who are unemployed — not among those who merely wish to change jobs. Local labor required for such projects as are made available should be selected from lists of qualified workers submitted by local employment agencies, she added.

GOLLMAR LAUDS DEMOCRATS

Frank I. Gollmar, Republican sheriff of Allegheny County, praised the Democratic administration, Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the National Recovery Act, and President Roosevelt in a speech before the members of the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh today. He concluded:

"You may think I'm a Democrat, but I am a Republican. However, I do have faith in the national administration, and I think it is the duty of business and the duty of labor to stand behind their government."

Gollmar was speaking about the National Recovery Act's affecting the social condition of Allegheny County. He said that he was extremely thankful for the act because it provided for uniform coal prices over the country. Otherwise, he said, the sheriff would have a very hard job handling the strikes that would occur if the prices were not made uniform.

Dancers Don Loincloths As Fair Clamps 'Lid'

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP.)—(AP.)—Loin cloths promised to become popular at the World's Fair today following an order by the management that women entertainers must don a few clothes of one kind or another.

The order, coming on the heels of the "curfew" closing hour of concessions, and threatening cancellation of contracts of violators, brought additional protests from operators of night clubs on the grounds. Texas Guinan said:

"These Fair officials are trying to put fun and pleasure on a business schedule and it can't be done.

"Now, I'm willing to let the businessmen run the business, and let the scientists take care of the bacteria, but I want to run my own show."

And as for the closing order barring admission to the grounds after 11:30 p. m. and a general locking of doors at 1:30 a. m., "Tex" said her crowds don't get interesting until just before the sun rises.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, said:

"It is not a money matter. In fact, the longer the concessions run the more money the Fair makes. The same holds true for the gates. But we wish to make the Fair a success, and a few persons can prevent that."

STEEL BONUS SUIT FILED

TRENTON, N. J., July 20.—(INS.)—A suit to force the return of millions of dollars in bonuses received by Eugene G. Grace and other officers of the Bethlehem Steel Company was begun today in Chancery Court.

The plaintiff is the Standard Investment Company, an investment trust holding 150 shares of Bethlehem preferred stock.

Between 1925 and 1930 Grace received $5,745,000 in bonuses. The payments of the bonuses was revealed in 1931 when the interests headed by Cyrus Eaton, of Cleveland, went into court and blocked the purchase of Youngstown Sheet and Tube by Bethlehem.

Since then several stockholders' suits for the return of the bonus payments to the corporation have been inaugurated in different jurisdictions. Some of them have been settled out of court.

Furniture Industry Code Sent to Capital

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP.)—A tentative code of fair competition for the furniture industry, adopted at a meeting of a committee of 30 of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, went to Washington today for final consideration and acceptance by the industrial recovery administration.

Dr. A. P. Haake, director of the association, said details of the code would not be made public until after the action in the capital.

Kittanning Pottery Raises Pay 10 Pct.

KITTANNING, Pa., July 20.—(INS.)—Officials of the Eljer Pottery here today announced a 10 per cent increase in wages to 200 employes. The increase was voluntary and with no preliminary announcements.

The plant has been running almost at capacity and is employing more men at present than at any other time since 1930.

create Jewish collective farms, which continue to survive only because of the protection they receive from the present government."

MR. ABRONS finds that the old anti-Semitic feeling, "that curse of the czars," still nestles in the stubborn bosoms of the old peasants and "it seems that the Communist government is the only fence between Jews and pogroms." That is a high and powerful fence.

Mr. Abrons writes further:

"The younger generation—brought up under an enlightened government—knows not the difference in religion, and cares little for the difference in race. Inter-marriage is very common and is in fact increasing, and the Yiddish language and Jewish culture are slowly dying.

"The young generation of Jews is doing everything it can to aid in assimilation—or, rather, to smooth out the differences between them and their compatriots. This is partly in the spirit of Communism, but mostly, I think, because they are not particularly proud of their 'Jewishness.'

"In Odessa, I asked a Jewish young Communist what was the percentage of Jews in the komsomols. He appeared rather insulted and answered that there were no longer any distinctions—no Jews, no Gentiles. He evidently wasn't too happy to be reminded of his origin.

"It appears, then, that it is by special effort of the younger generation of Jews that Judaism—its language and its culture—is dying. In time, so it seems, there will no longer be any need for Yiddish courts and schools and 'houses of culture,' for the Jewish culture will have become absorbed into the Russian—or will have disappeared entirely—thus advancing one more step in the creation of a classless society."

THIS PICTURE of Russia, written by Mr. Abrons, an intelligent young American, will encourage those who believe that civilization will begin with the ending of racial antagonisms and differences.

RIOTERS STONE POLICE RIDING ON STRIKERS

Probers to Ask Laws Against Sweatshops, Conditions 'Bad'

LANSDALE, July 20.—(AP.)—Police today rode their horses through swarms of strikers outside the Dexdale hosiery mill and were stoned in retaliation.

The disorder broke out as nonstriking employes sought to drive their automobiles into the grounds. Scores of pickets blocked the driveways, and with riot sticks swinging freely, police rode into the crowds.

Police Chief Rodney Shaver, of Jenkintown, in charge of 40 police deputized by the sheriff, was struck in the back with a rock and a girl employe was cut as another stone shattered a window in her automobile. Shaver was bruised severely by a missile yesterday.

Several pickets were arrested. One of them was a girl.

Mill officials said about 300 employes reported for work, including a score of knitters, on whom the strike depended for much of its effectiveness.

SWEATSHOPS EXIST

HARRISBURG, July 20.—(AP.)—Although it has "convincingly shown that sweatshops exist" and will recommend legislation to wipe them out, the legislative investigating committee which studied factory conditions points out that such plants are "abnormal."

"There is no reason to suppose that the industrial establishments of Pennsylvania, generally speaking, are other than wholesome and decent."

The committee's opinion is thus expressed by its secretary, State Representative Eugene J. Gorman, of Lehigh.

Gorman said the committee would recommend legislation to correct labor abuses at the next session of the General Assembly.

Answering attacks on testimony heard by the committee, he agreed that doubtless "some of the testimony was unreliable," but said:

"The committee tried to conduct fair and impartial hearings."

PARLEY CLEARS WRECKAGE

LONDON, July 20.—(AP.)—The World Economic Conference, which began its last week today, speeded up the salvaging work of numerous committees.

Experts studying the coffee, tin and sugar situations, issued a draft of reports outlining methods for continuing negotiations for a world organization to control the production and marketing of those products.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Cordell Hull was described in high American circles today as making a vigorous fight behind the scenes to preserve the general principles of President Roosevelt's truce on tariff changes.

Senator James Couzens, one of the American delegates, leaves for home today.

BELGIUM BOLTS DEFAULTERS

BRUSSELS, July 20.—(INS.)—The front of the "no more debt payments to the United States" powers was broken today when the Belgian government announced its intention of resuming payments next year.

Belgium, with France and other satellites of France, defaulted on the June 15 debt installment to the United States.

But Prime Minister de Brocqueville told the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon that the 1934 budget must take into consideration supplementary credits for foreign debt payments to America. He added:

"I hope the United States will soon offer to negotiate a new settlement."

SURVEY BARES DISTRESS IN MINE TOWNS

Invalids Denied Aid, Woman Investigator Is Informed

The little woman with a big job rushed in where angels fear to tread—and found at least two of Allegheny County's forgotten mining communities are in dire need of angels, or some other agency of charity.

Miss Elizabeth Wight, Philadelphia social service worker, engaged in a lone survey of mining conditions in Western Pennsylvania, made this disclosure today as she prepared for another reconnoitering expedition to muster material for the Pennsylvania Security League's campaign against company-owned towns, intimidation and distress of miners and their families.

She found in the two widely separated and desolate mining camps women in dire need of medical aid who cannot pay for it and who told her they had been refused state and county assistance. One woman, so weak she had to be tied into a chair, was found living in a tent and the doctor told her, she related to Miss Wight, to "go home and die."

CRIPPLE EVICTED

The woman, according to Miss Wight, is Mrs. Elena B. Wilson, wife of a Negro university graduate and a former missionary to Liberia, Africa. She is so weak and crippled with rheumatism, according to the Philadelphia investigator, that she has to be tied to a chair.

She lieves in a tent at Mollenauer, a stone's throw from the bustling Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company mine. With her husband, the Rev. Dr. Henry Wilson, graduate of Chatney University and former Methodist missionary, she was evicted from a company-owned house in the "patch" three years ago.

The Wilson's neighbors are about a dozen bachelors, negroes and whites, and another Negro married couple. Derelicts all, they subsist on county relief, begging clothing and other necessities of life.

WORKERS ON BLACKLIST

There are no jobs for them. They are on the blacklist, Miss Wight says they told her, because of their activities several years ago with the National Miners Union, a Communist organization.

Miss Wight's next port of call was Essen, "Siberian exile" of the Pittsburgh Coal Company over the hill from the county poorhouse at Woodville. There she found Mrs. J. Lawrence Dei, native Pittsburgher, exiled by the Pittsburgh Coal Company since February, probably, Miss Wight was told, because of her injury in the company-owned house.

Mrs. Dei fell on a broken step. She injured her leg and since has asked medical aid of the company. Free medical service, she declared, was refused. The county doctor, Mrs. Dei informed the Philadelphia investigator, told her to go to the poorhouse hospital. She prefers to wait until her husband gets a job and is able to provide a doctor.

Miss Wight interviewed a number of the Dei's exiled neighbors, most of them Negroes. None is able to obtain employment, they said. They live in constant terror lest the company again evict them, this time to the highway.

Miss Wight planned to visit some of Western Pennsylvania's company guarded mines today to test her right to spread the gospel of the Pennsylvania Security League, which is championing the miners' cause.

Mushball Victim

MISS MARY KLINKO, 17

MUSHBALL HERE PERILS FINGERS

Pittsburgh today was threatened with an epidemic of broken fingers from that most perilous of sports, mushball.

Latest victim is Mary Klinko, 17, of Welsh road. Mary was playing on the Armstrong Playground diamond last night when a finger was fractured as she caught the mushball.

A modest hero, Patrolman Kirley said he was sorry he had but one small finger (on his right hand) to give for his mushball team.

This brings the total of mushball victims to two. One more and the epidemic will be a success.

BAKERS UPHELD IN BREAD BOOST

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(INS.)—Bakers in 32 cities where complaints of profiteering in bread prices have been made were absolved of these charges today by Dr. Frederic C. Howe, consumers' counsel in the agricultural adjustment administration.

Following an investigation, Howe announced that the average hike in bread prices for the 32 cities between June 15 and July 13 was slightly less than 1 cent per pound loaf. Howe said:

"Most bakers appear to be maintaining fair price schedules."

Twelve stores in each of the 32 cities were visited by the agents and comparative bread prices obtained in each. These stores included both independent establishments and chain retailers. Maximum and minimum price increases were listed.

Auto Theft Jails Ellwood City Man

Samuel Huggins, 28, of Ellwood City, today was sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker after pleading guilty to transporting a stolen automobile from Cleveland to Ellwood City on May 13.

Escort 'Tired of Living,' Girl Shoots Him

LINDEN, N. J., July 20.—(INS.)—Eighteen-year-old Claudean Wheeler shot and critically wounded John (Buddy) Crumpacker, 19, after he told her he was "tired of living," but she did not know the gun was loaded, the girl told police today.

Miss Wheeler said she jokingly promised to shoot Crumpacker after he complained of life, but that she pulled the trigger of the revolver in the belief that the gun was not loaded.

No charge has been placed against her.

Miss Wheeler was in an hysterical condition when police began questioning her shortly after midnight. She said she and Crumpacker had been to a party and were sitting in his car outside his home shortly before midnight when he said:

"The sooner I croak the better."

The girl said she thought he was fooling and in the same spirit, suggested:

"If you've got a gun I'll shoot you now."

She told police Crumpacker got out of the car and said:

"Come on, I have a gun upstairs."

The girl said she walked upstairs to the second floor and into a bedroom. Crumpacker's parents were not at home, she said.

The youth handed her a revolver. She told police she asked him if the gun was loaded and he replied 'yes.'

She said:

"I thought he was fooling. I squeezed the trigger."

ROOSEVELT EYE ON SECURITIES GYRATIONS

May Act to Control Stock Exchange, Thomas Warns

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—President Roosevelt will "take a hand" in the control of the New York Stock Exchange if the violent gyrations of prices continues, Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, predicted today.

Thomas, who is the author of the currency inflation amendment which started prices on the upswing, demanded that New York Stock Exchange officials take action themselves to stabilize the market.

After sending a telegram to exchange officials urging immediate action by them, Thomas said today:

"I think the President will step in if necessary to prevent the violent manipulation and fluctuation of prices. He could close the exchange, which I do not favor and do not expect.

"The action of the past two days shows that a bunch of raiders have gone in to drive the market down. These exchanges, including the produce exchanges, are for legitimate business. Pools formed to put the market either up or down should not be permitted."

Determined to put a check on the unbridled gambling in the grain market which is interfering with President Roosevelt's efforts to raise commodity prices, the administration is studying methods of controlling grain speculation.

This was revealed in sources close to the White House. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, it was said, was making a study of the question.

GIRL STRIKERS STAB POLICEMAN

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP.)—A police captain was stabbed in the hand and 10 girl pickets arrested today in a disturbance among strikers in a garment company plant.

The employes have been on strike for more than a week, sometimes joined by social workers in a protest against the existing wage scale.

A report that 50 girl pickets were trying to keep strike breakers from the factory this morning, in some cases attacking them, brought riot squads, and after a battle 10 girls were taken into custody. Capt. Harry O'Connell received a knife wound in the hand.

Circuit Judge Joseph Surke on Monday refused to grant the company an injunction to prevent picketing.

VERONA POSTS BOND FOR TRIAL

Alderman John J. Verona, who was out of the city on a fishing trip when he was re-indicted along with a number of others on charges of conspiracy to violate the election laws, appeared at the Federal Building today and arranged for the transfer of his bond.

Out of the 108 persons indicted by the federal grand jury in the elections fraud cases, only six have not given bond, and some of them have been in touch with government officials through their attorneys.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 20.—(AP.)—Pilot Art Woodley, who left Egegik, Bristol Bay, Sunday with five passengers for a brief flight over Aniakchak crater in the Aleutian Island chain, has not returned to his base, amateur wireless stations reported through United States Signal Corps stations today. The identity of his passengers was not reported.

He had been expected to return within a few hours. An air search for the missing plane is planned.

U. S. SEIZES 5 IN KIDNAPING OF BANKER

Illinois Crime Solved As Fear for Life of O'Connell Grows

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—(AP.)—Department of Justice agents announced today that the mystery of the kidnaping of August Luer, 77-year-old Alton (Ill.) banker, had been solved with a daylight raid on the abductors' hangout near Madison, Ill.

Three women and two men were taken into custody at the reputed lair of the kidnapers, which is on a farm a half mile south of Eagle Park. Names of the prisoners were not announced by the officers.

St. Louis police aided the federal men in the raid. A dugout similar to that in which the aged banker said he was held for five days prior to his final release last Sunday morning, was said to have been located on the property.

Percy M. Fitzgerald, ex-convict, against whom a federal complaint of kidnaping for ransom has been lodged, and who now is held in jail at Murphysboro, Ill., was named as a member of the kidnap gang.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(AP.)—Victim of two assailants who took him as second choice in an attempted kidnaping, Frank A. McClatchy, wealthy real estate operator, lay near death today with a bullet wound through the chest.

Gambling with his life by putting up a determined battle after the men had informed him he was being kidnaped, McClatchy, 56, was shot down in a sample house in Lower Merion, where he had been lured.

Police said the would-be abductors originally intended to kidnap and demand ransom from his brother, John H. McClatchy, 58, millionaire real estate man and developer.

The two men fled on foot and McClatchy staggered from the house. He lay helpless by the roadside for some time before a motorist noticed him.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—The federal government is going to go after kidnapers first and ask questions afterward.

Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant Attorney General, heading the anti-racketeer move, said:

"We are going after the kidnapers. We will find out after we have found our men, with the aid of state authorities, if it is a federal or a state case."

FEAR FOR O'CONNELL

ALBANY, N. Y., July 20.—(AP.)—The hopeful attitude of the Clan O'Connell gave way to fear today. A fortnight has passed since Johnny O'Connell, the family scion, was kidnaped, but despite persistent rumors of successful negotiations with the kidnapers, the young guardsman remains a captive.

Authorities regarded the situation as serious. District Attorney John T. Delaney looked on the case as having reached the stage where it is life or death for the abducted youth. He said:

"I feel that the limit of safety for the young man's life has about been reached."

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—(AP.)—A $500,000 alienation of affections suit against M . Lillian S. Berkson, wealthy New York City resident, was filed here yesterday by Mrs. Pearl Bowen Combs, who charges she stole her husband, Albert H. Combs, stock and bond dealer, and wrecked their home and happiness.

Jack Tells Own Story Of 'Swell' Adventure

'Kidnaper' Great Guy, Only 1-Gun Man, Not 2, He Says

By JACK WOODS

(As Told to The Sun-Telegraph.)

No, I wasn't kidnaped.

We were having a good time on the road and he asked me if I wanted to go to New York.

Gee! I had a darn good time with him. He was real nice.

But the story about his having two gunds is all hooey. He only had one gun—it was in the front of the car and I only saw it once—he had a permit for his gun, too.

I though, well, I'll ride to 2 o'clock. And then he asked me if I wanted to go to New York and I said, sure, I'd love it!

He paid 50 cents to take me through the Holland tunnel.

I saw the Chrysler Building and the Empire State Building. He took me to a hotel where you get a bed and stay there—it cost me 35 cents. It was real nice.

There were a few men there—young men. Sure they were nice to me.

I had a good time all the way over and all the way back. And then I saw the paper.

I'm going to knock the stuffings out of Floyd (Floyd McClintock, 14, who spread the kidnaping alarm) when I get him—telling the guy had two guns when he only had one. It made me pretty mad when I saw the paper and all that was there.

Sure, Floyd's my special pal.

Bob was a pretty good sport and a pretty good driver. He took me up and down Broadway and through the tunnels and gave me $2 and left me at the hotel after about an hour.

I was just going to have a good time and then come back home without telling anyone. But Bob told me the telegram and made me send it.

Gee, I had a swell time.

MAROONED, SHE ENDS LIFE

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 20.—(INS.)—How they were marooned three days on isolated Santa Cruz Island with the body of a beautiful woman who had committed suicide, was told today by Attorney Ambrose Gherini, of San Francisco.

Gherini related a harrowing story of efforts by members of the party, which went to the Island 10 days ago for an outing, to attract the attention of passing boats.

Mrs. Carolyn Imbaden, 36, a member of the party, disappeared Monday, Gherini said. Her body was found hanging to the rafter of a ranch building near Scorpion Bay.

Gherini and other members of the party were unable to attract attention until seen and rescued last night by the Schooner Gitana, outbound from Los Angeles.

Mrs. Imbaden, the wife of Daniel C. Imbaden, of San Mateo, Cal., left two notes attributing her act to illness.

40,000 at Funeral Of Sea Hop Heroes

KAUNAS, Lithuania, July 20.—(AP.)—Forty thousand sorrowing persons attended the state funeral today of Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas, the Lithuanian-American airmen who crashed Monday only 400 miles from Kaunas in a flight from New York.

Walking at the head of the funeral procession were the wife, child, sister and father-in-law of Darius and the brother of Girenas.

DEMAND WEIGHT MARK ON BREAD

A committee representing the Consumers' Protective Association was to call on Mayor John S. Herron today to demand that Hill district bakeries label the weight of each loaf of bread.

More than 500 persons attending a meeting of the association last night at Webster avenue and Erin street were urged to carry on their fight against the increase in the price of rye bread. The price jumped from 10 to 15 cents a loaf since June. It was reduced two cents following the association's protests.

'CONNIE' DENIES DIVORCE RUMOR

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—(INS.)—Constance Bennett, glamorous film star, is not going to divorce the Marquis Henry de La Falaise to marry Gilbert Roland, also a film star.

Angrily the beautiful actress today denied rumors of a rift with the Marquis, whom she married two years ago after his divorce from Gloria Swanson, film star, now the wife of Michael Farmer.

Scoring Hollywood as a "hot-bed of gossip," Miss Bennett said:

"It may surprise some of these people who write of my divorce from the Marquis de La Falaise and my forthcoming marriage to Gilbert Roland to know that Henri is fully aware that I like Gilbert Roland and go out with him.

"I like Gilbert Roland very much and I'm not going to allow malicious gossip to spoil that friendship, and that's that."

NOVELIST'S SON ENGAGED

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP.)—Announcement was made today of the engagement of Mrs. Frances Goossens, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yeatman, of London, to Stanley M. Rinehart, son of Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart and the late Dr. Stanley M. Rinehart. The Rineharts formerly lived in Sewickley, Pa.

The wedding is to take place later in the month.

Mrs. Goossens is a descendant on her father's side of the thirteenth Earl of Derby. Her great-great-grandfather was physician to King George III, and her great-grandfather physician to George IV.

Rinehart was a member of the class of 1909 at Harvard and is president of the firm of Farrar & Rinehart, publishers.

STATE BLAMED IN SPAN DEATHS

ERIE, Pa., July 20.—(INS.)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict finding the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania responsible for the collapse of an Erie county bridge a week ago. Two women, Mrs. Frieda Siebert and Esther Silverman, sisters of Cleveland, were killed and four others hurt in the collapse.

The verdict read:

"Found bridge faulty and in need of repair."

WAIT HARRIMAN SANITY EDICT

NEW YORK, July 20.—(INS.)—On a report by Dr. Menas Gregory, well known psychiatrist, hinged today the question of whether sanity hearings for Joseph W. Harriman, indicted head of the bank bearing his name, will be resumed before Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey.

Committed to Bellevue Hospital for mental observation after he disappeared for the second time from a private nursing home and was absent more than 24 hours, Harriman was expected to be confined in Bellevue for another week or 10 days.

A sanity hearing, to determine whether he was capable of standing trial on an indictment charging him with felsification of the bank books, was interrupted by his disappearance from the home, and Judge Caffey said it would not be resumed until Dr. Gregory submits his report on Harriman's mental condition.

Love Still 'Complete,' Aimee Radios

Denies Paris Divorce Plan 'To Beat Dave to Punch'

By A. M. ROCHLEN

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—In an exclusive radio interview, made possible by a series of wireless communications across thousands of miles of land and sea, Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton today made another effort to sweep aside difficulties between her and Dave Hutton, and reiterated the hope that they can continue their lives together.

Somewhat recovered from the stunning blow of being sued for divorce the day after she sailed from France, the blonde evangelist gave her first coherent opinions of what led to the domestic tragedy, and told how she planned to meet the situation when she arrives in America Tuesday.

She denied ever having planned to "beat Dave to the punch" by filing a Paris divorce, the motive said to have prompted her portly spouse to take action in the California courts without notice to Aimee. She declared:

"Never have I considered divorcing Mr. Hutton."

This was in answer to questions on her plans and to Dave's assertions that "Sister" Aimee was attempting to lure him to Paris so she could serve him with legal papers.

She continued:

"The misunderstanding at Angelus Temple was regrettable.

"These misunderstandings arose after Mr. Hutton sent me on a health cruise. They discouraged him, causing him to consider other fields for his voice.

"I think he felt a theatrical line incompatible with my evangelism and embarrassing to me, hence the proposed divorce."

The evangelist was asked if she had any indication that the baritone was unhappy or no longer in love with her. She radioed in reply:

"His letters, written a fortnight ago, brim with loving devotion and eagerness for my return.

"I am still completely in love with him."

Believes Stout Mate Sued to Save Her Embarrassment

And then, in the face of Dave's silence and her direct appeals for his love and confidence, and the wirelessed information that he and his new manager have given out interviews declaring they are "through" with the pastor of Angelus Temple, she predicted:

"I console myself with the faith that when the business tangles are adjusted, the clouds will quickly roll away and we will live happy ever after."

At the close, as if to hold out the olive branch of peace, she added:

"I am entirely satisfied with David's church work and that of my splendid associates."

MISS GOOGINS NOT MARRYING ELLIOTT 'NOW'

President's Son Says Family Hasn't Banned Troth

International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Miss Ruth Googins, Fort Worth, Tex., society girl reported engaged to Elliott Roosevelt, 22-year-old son of the President, today said she would not marry young Roosevelt—"right now."

Asked whether she was going to marry Roosevelt, Miss Googins said:

"Well, not right now."

The young couple said good-bye temporarily today, as Miss Googins and her mother plan to leave the city.

SISTER ARRIVES

In the company of Miss Googins and Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, Elliott's sister, the President's son spent a brief vacation here visiting the Century of Progress Exposition.

On her arrival Mrs. Dall had denied rumors that the reported betrothal of Miss Googins to Elliott prompted the journey from New York. Questions concerning reports that she had been sent here by the Roosevelt family to halt the rumored romance met with vigorous denials from Mrs. Dall, who said:

"Elliott and I are fond of each other and Chicago was a half-way point for me to visit with him. I couldn't go all the way West to meet him."

Twice yesterday young Roosevelt was in the company of the pretty dark-haired Texas girl. On both occasions Mrs. Dall accompanied them. Mrs. Dall met Miss Googins for the first time on her arrival here from the East.

NOT 'SNEAKING'

Elliott, parrying questions of reporters, said:

"I am not sneaking out to be married. I'll give you plenty of notice if I do decide to marry. The place won't be Chicago, anyway."

When asked if there were any objections to him marrying "today or tomorrow," Roosevelt answered:

"No, I could be married today if I wanted."

President Roosevelt's daughter interposed:

"If it were just up to the family, he could marry at any time."

EX-WIFE KEEPS SON

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(AP.)—A certified copy of the decree of divorce granted Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt in Nevada on Monday from the second son of the President, was received yesterday by Francis Biddle, attorney for Mrs. Roosevelt in this city.

The decree provides that Mrs. Roosevelt shall have sole control of their child, William D nner Roosevelt, now eight months old.

Mrs. Roosevelt and the baby now are at the Franklin D. Roosevelt cottage at Campobello Island, N. B., where they will remain as a guest of the Roosevelt family for an indefinite stay.

'BOYS LOVE TO PLAY SOLDIER,' SINGER SAYS

Mae Murray Agrees That War Games Cost Too Much

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—(AP.)—A Graustarkian story of a bold plot to invade Soviet Russia, seize the tiny province of Georgia and hoist upon a double-seated throne the Georgian Princes Serge and David Mdivani was published today by the Examiner after Mary McCormic, opera singer and estranged wife of Serge, said her support of the conquest had been solicited.

The plot has been hatched in secret meetings in hidden rendezvous, the newspaper said, and recruits, promised titles and billions in oil, have been enlisted from the ranks of the unemployed.

The newspaper said uniforms have been issued to the 400 men enlisted and at least one California patriotic organization, permitted to bear firearms, has been asked to throw its fortunes in with the revolutionists.

Whether they know it or not, the Princes David and Serge, now on the high seas en route to Los Angeles to quell a marital revolution with their respective wives, Mae Murray, film actress, and Miss McCormic, have been elected "generals" in the army, the Examiner said, and will be asked to take over command when they return.

Miss McCormic commented:

"The 'boys' love to play soldier. Well, things like this have helped to cost me about $40,000."

Added Miss Murray:

"And me about $200,000."

Miss Murray recently sued David for divorce. Miss McCormic, who several weeks ago sued Prince Serge for separate maintenance, said she had been requested to make "a pep talk to keep up the morale of the forces until the Mdivani brothers arrive here." The singer said:

"But I declined the honor. I was afraid if I addressed the army at a luncheon I would get a bill for 250 lunches for the privates."

She recalled that Prince Serge wore a uniform, which she believed was representative in some way of the non-existant kingdom of Georgia, when he escorted her to Hollywood night clubs reecntly.

Names of the leaders of the revolt have been carefully guarded, but they are busy, the article stated, attempting to raise funds by negotiating with rich California oil men who have been offered the oil rights in the tiny transcaucasian province, of Russia.

DENIED CHILD, ENDS MARRIAGE

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—(AP.)—Annulment of the marriage of Janet Sheppard Graves, daughter of Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, and William A. Graves, New York real estate broker and former dramatic art student, was revealed today. The annulment was granted Mrs. Graves here last Monday.

Mrs. Graves, who is in Hollywood seeking a screen career, said in her petition that before she and Graves were married November 25, 1932, they agreed it would be desirable to rear a family.

She charged that after they were married, Graves refused to allow her to become a mother.

Their romance began when they were students at a New York drama school. She came West shortly after the marriage. Graves remained in the East. He did not contest the annulment action.

POST FLYING PACIFIC TO ALASKA

MOSCOW, July 20.—(AP.)—Wiley Post, American globe girdling aviator, took off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for the North American continent today with a lead of 30 hours and 16 minutes over the record he and Harold Gatty set in 1931.

He refueled his plane at Khabarovsk, enjoyed a meal at which he refused to take any wine, and sped toward Alaska despite weather reports of thunderstorms ahead.

The stocky, daring Oklahoman arrived at the eastern Siberia town at 3:45 a. m. today, Moscow time (8:45 p. m., Wednesday, Pittsburgh time), from Rukhlovo, 700 miles away, and was off again at 5:58 a. m. (10:58 p. m. Pittsburgh time, taking just 2 hours 13 minutes for refueling his plane, the Winnie Mae.

His haste eclipsed the speed of communication facilities, and for several hours news of his takeoff from Rukhlova and arrival at the jumping-off place was lacking.

NEARLY EXHAUSTED

His relentless pace, even in the face of almost complete exhaustion, was occasioned by his intense desire to better the mark he made in 1931 with Harold Gatty over much the same route.

He and Gatty were 144 hours 4 minutes out of New York when they started the transoceanic hop from Khabarovsk; Post alone had an elapsed time at that point of only 113 hours 48 minutes.

Post had seen his advantage whittled down to only 42 minutes because of rain and fog that he encountered on the trip from Moscow to Novosibirsk, Siberia, and later from Irkutsk to Rukhlovo, but he increased it by the fast flight to Khabarovsk and the fact he stayed there so short a time, whereas he and Gatty were grounded at Khabarovsk about a day.

Post left Irkutsk, 1,400 miles west of Khabarovsk, at 7 a. m., Moscow time, and arrived at Rukhlovo at 2:32 p. m. Wednesday, Moscow time (7:32 a. m. Pittsburgh time.) Bad weather forced him down there—he had planned to continue to Blagoveshchensk—and his plane was slightly damaged before he arrived there.

DESTINATION UNCERTAIN

He left Rukhlovo at 11:25 p. m. Wednesday, Moscow time (4:25 p. m. Pittsburgh time) and landed at Khabarovsk at 3:45 a. m. today, Moscow time (8:45 p.m. Pittsburgh time.)

While the Winnie Mae was being refueld he ate lunch with officials sitting on the grass at the Khabarovsk airport. His hosts offered him wine, suggesting that he needed it to keep up his strength, but he refused, saying:

"Give me the bottle, and I will take it to New York and after the flight's over I'll drink to your health."

Reports conflicted as to his exact destination in Alaska, Nome or Fairbanks. It was considered most likely, however, that Fairbanks was his objective.

Post told a newspaper correspondent at Khabarovsk that he expected to cut more than a full day from the 1931 record if all went well.

The Oklohoman declared he hoped to reach Nome 16 hours after leaving Khabarovsk, but he did not say whether he intended to halt there.

Shortly before reaching Rukhlovo the Winnie Mae brushed some tree tops, because fog forced him to fly close to the ground, but nevertheless he made a perfect landing despite the danger. He was very tired on arrival there, but he decided to forego the much needed rest in favor of gaining time.

Anxiety was felt for his safety at that point, for he was long overdue at Blagoveshchensk. He had announced a plan, however, of going beyond the latter place if weather conditions cleared up.

Post-Mattern Race, Alaska to N. Y., Looms

MOSCOW, July 20.—(AP.)—There was a possibility today that Wiley Post and Jimmie Mattern may race from Alaska to New York as a climax to their world flights.

Post took off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for North America today in his plane, the Winnie Mae, and Mattern prepared to leave Anadyr, Siberia—where he was lost June 14 after taking off for Nome from Khabarovsk—in a Soviet rescue plane.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—Officers of the United States Coast Guard cutter Northland advised headquarters today they believed Jimmy Mattern, round-the-world aviator, had departed from Anadyr, Siberia, for Nome, Alaska, in a Russian seaplane.

The Northland said it had picked up a radio message from Anadyr saying a seaplane flown by Aviator Levanovsky was "flying today five hours 32 minutes in Nome."

This message, the Northland said, indicated Mattern had left Anadyr with Levanovsky.

'EMIR' SEIZED AT BALBO FETE

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP.)—A resplendent figure in an olive green uniform, yards of gold braid, yellow gloves, purple fez and glistening riding boots passed across the platform in the police lineup today.

Indignantly, he discussed with Inspector Gallagher his arrest last night at the hotel headquarters of Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian air minister. He had just shaken hands with Balbo when the detective took his fancy cane and charged him with violation of the Sullivan anti-weapon law. The detective said the handle of the cane was loaded with lead.

The prisoner described himself as Mohammed Al Raschid, the "Emir of Kurdistan," although he acknowledged that he was born in Detroit. He said he has a certificate showing he was born while his parents were visiting America. The "Emir" branded as false the police record read by Inspector Gallagher, which showed convictions for fraud in London, Berlin and Paris.

ALCOHOL BLAST KILLS 3 BOYS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 20.—Three boys were dead today from the explosion of a denatured alcohol drum they used for a blowtorch.

The three and half a dozen others were playing with the drum in a garage in the rear of their homes last night. They took turns blowing in a valve and lighting the escaping fumes.

While one of the lads was blowing, the drum let go, showering the three with blazing alcohol which had remained in the supposedly empty vessel.

Walter Engel, 15, died immediately. The other two, Joseph Olieo, 6, and his brother, Frank, 7, died later of burns. Several others suffered lesser injuries.

The explosion rocked the neighborhood, breaking windows in several homes.

ROOSEVELT SEES REPEAL BY CHRISTMAS

of Tennessee marched to the polls to vote on repeal.

Wets, after surveying Tuesday's vote in Alabama and Arkansas, predicted that Tennessee would favor repeal by a margin of 2 to 1.

Arkansas liberals, jubilant over the 3 to 2 margin for repeal registered at the polls Tuesday, prepared today to legalize light wines and beer. With but a few isolated precincts unreported, the vote on the referendum was 61,865 for repeal, 41,028 against.

In Alabama repealists were confident that their majority of 30,000 would mount considerably, as final returns from their referendum were tabulated. With but 397 precincts to be heard from, the vote was announced as 92,443 for repeal, 61,202 against.

18 STATES APPROVE

Arkansas and Alabama are the seventeenth and eighteenth states to declare in favor of nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Arizona repealists, it appeared today, will be unopposed in the referendum August 8. No nominating petitions were filed by dry delegates to a ratification convention at the filing deadline yesterday.

Oregon goes to the polls tomorrow to vote on the repeal amendment, with dry leaders conceding the state to the repealists. If Oregon and Tennessee go wet, but 16 more ratifying states will be needed to void the Eighteenth Amendment. With Oregon and Tennessee in the fold, 20 states will have approved the Twenty-first Amendment.

DEMPSEY, BRIDE WANT BABIES, HAPPINESS

International News Service.

CALNEVA LODGE, Lake Tahoe, Nev., July 20.—Jack Dempsey and his bride, pretty Hannah Williams, spending the third day of their honeymoon at this famous lakeside resort, today expressed hope that "all our troubles will be little ones."

The former heavyweight champion and Mrs. Dempsey, known to Broadway musical comedy goers as the "cheerful little earful," described how they hope to make a success of their marriage.

Began Jack:

"In the first place, we want to have a baby. We don't know how soon but we are going to have one."

At this point the new Mrs. Dempsey had her say:

"Yes, maybe two or three."

That called for an embrace and then the former heavyweight champion continued:

"We want to have a home of our own. We love each other and we are married. That's all there is to it, isn't it, darling? (a nod of approval from Mrs. Dempsey). Neither one of us is going to talk about our former marriages or divorces. They are things of the past. We are going to forget about them and start all over. We want to make a go of this—we didn't get married for publicity's sake and we didn't get married to get a divorce. We came to Nevada to get married because our romance really started here."

It was recalled Dempsey was attentive to his present wife when he visited here last March and she was establishing residence to divorce Roger Wolff Kahn, son of the banker, Otto Kahn.

Mrs. Dempsey picked up the conversation:

"From now on my whole life will be devoted to making Jack a good wife. We will probably be traveling around a lot—but wherever he goes, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco or any place, I want to be with him."

Jack said they expected to leave for Los Angeles "in a day or two—I've got to go there on business."

Mrs. Dempsey said:

PITTSBURGHER ELECTED BY WALTHERS

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP.)—Walter Helmke, of Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday was elected president of the International Walther League. Helmke, an attorney and former prosecutor of Allen County, succeeds E. J. Gallmeyer, also of Fort Wayne.

The organization's convention also chose four sectional vice presidents: Phillip Enders, of Soney Plains, Alberta, Canada, Northern district; Charles Barsum, of San Antonio, Tex., Southern; Carl Steinbeck, of Oakland, Cal., Western, and Herbert Grau, Pittsburgh, Eastern.

A. F. Droegemuller, of Independence, Kan., was elected recording secretary; F. A. Schack, of Fort Wayne, treasurer, and Prof. E. H. Engelbrecht, of River Forest, Ill., field secretary.

NAMED TO BOARD

The Rev. A. R. Kretzman, of Chicago, is the newly elected pastoral member of the executive board.

Melba Wendland, of Los Angeles, won over five other finalists in the league's oratorical contest.

Omaha, Neb., was selected for the 1934 convention city. Pittsburgh was considered, but a ballot showed more votes favoring the western city.

Use of modern advertising methods and news columns to headline and "sell" the gospel to the public was urged in an address to the league by J. F. E. Nickelsburg, executive secretary of the American Lutheran Publicity Bureau.

ADVERTISING URGED

To support his contention, he quoted from the Bible, "publish and conceal not," and "what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the housetops."

He said:

"The church should use newspaper space for both items of news and insert paid advertising. Why? We have more than 63,000,000 unchurched persons in these United States. We can reach the greater number of these, all our prospects, by the public press.

"The church has a message of importance for these men, women and children. Just now, in these days of vast problems and much confusion, the church can offer the one and only safe cure for the ills of the world, the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

CHURCH SPEECH TO OPEN DRIVE FOR HERRON

Followers of Mayor John S. Herron and Senator James J. Coyne will formally open Herron's candidacy for the mayoralty with a "town meeting" tonight in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The opening shot in Herron's campaign will be the speech of nomination to be delivered by Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute.

Mayor Herron announced late yesterday that Mr. Church would nominate him. It has been known for several weeks that he looks with favor on the Mayor's candidacy, but there was some doubt as to whether he would go so far as to make tonight's speech of nomination.

SLATE FOR COUNCIL

After the speech for Herron will come the nomination of the Herron-Coyne councilmanic slate—Councilmen W. Y. English, Harry Little, George S. Oliver, Frank L. Duggan and Clifford B. Connelley. President of Council Little has announced that David I. McCahill, utility attorney, will nominate him.

Anti-Herron-Coyne forces, from all indications, intend to assume an attitude of watchful waiting until the noise of tonight's Herron boom fades. What the independents will do after that is speculation.

WIDOW KIND, JURY TOLD

SALEM, Mass., July 20.—(AP.)—Attorneys defending 32-year-old Mrs. Jessie B. Costello, mother of three children, who is charged with the poison slaying of her husband, gained from nearly all of the state's long succession of witnesses in Superior Court yesterday the admission that as far as they knew she was kind to her children, a good housewife and an able helpmate to "Bill."

Two witnesses testified that they knew she visited her fire captain husband, William J. Costello, at the station house almost every noon time.

Mrs. Costello is charged with having administered a poison to her husband who was found dead in their home in Peabody on February 17.

INDEPENDENTS PLAN 'FUSION'

Other speakers include independents mentioned for the mayoralty and the judicial candidates.

Home Construction Increases for Month

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—The Labor Department's bureau of labor statistics said today construction of residential property throughout the country increased 15.3 per cent during June as compared with May, although there was a decline of 36.5 per cent in the total of all building.

The decrease in the total was due, it was explained, to the fact that the great San Francisco bay bridge was included in the May figures. With this eliminated from that month, an increase would have been shown.

FUNDS SOUGHT TO SEND NEEDY TO CAMPS

With hundreds of needy children already enjoying the benefits of fresh air camps, the need is great for funds to take other hundreds on healthful country vacations, according to heads of four welfare institutions.

The Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, Association for the Improvement of the Poor and Kingsley House all maintain fresh air homes and camps.

At each, $10 pays for a two-weeks' vacation in the country, with plenty of good food and milk for a needy child or mother.

In almost every section of the city and county there are children and mothers who are undernourished . . . starved for sunlight, sleep and rest, social workers say. They point to the danger of epidemics if the health of these people reaches too low a point.

To amuse and interest the campers there are many activities. At Valencia, where the Kingsley House farm is situated, children learn to make and do things, act in dramatic skits, and play numerous games. Every effort is made to send the children and their mothers back to the city prepared to make the best of their life in the crowded city.

Ten dollars sends a child or a mother out to where health begins. Contributions should be mailed to any of the following: Kingsley House, 220 Larimer avenue; Salvation Army, 425 Boulevard of the Allies; Volunteers of America, 724 East Diamond street, and the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 428 Duquesne way.

Forty women, accompanied by seven big, broad-shouldered, ruddy-faced men, were among the participants last night in the second of the series of canning demonstrations in the Morse School, South Side, conducted under the auspices of the community council in co-operation with the home economics department of Penn State College.

The men who followed the instructions of Miss Lottie B. Hart, of State College, are unemployed steel workers, keeping house while their wives work.

Additional demonstrations were scheduled today at 9:30 a. m. at Thaddeus Stevens School, South Main street, and at 2 p. m. at West Liberty School, Pioneer avenue.

MAN, WIFE HELD IN ARSON CASE

James Lisanti and his wife, Nettie, were held for court last night by Justice of the Peace James W. Watson, of Ingram, on charges of attempted arson, larceny and attempt to defraud a creditor.

Constable E. F. Boyle said he arrested the Lisantis in connection with an alleged attempt to burn the man's shoe repair shop at 823 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, February 19. A levy on his goods was made to collect rent, Boyle said. The larceny charge concerned the alleged theft of a fruit press.

PEARL BUCK DRAMA -:- Columbia Guild Plays Poe Blood-Curdler -:- ON RADIO TONIGHT

Paul Robeson, Ann Butler With Rudy

Three ace dramatic bills are plotted for tonight's aerial eavesdropper.

Mrs. Buck

Following a two-week absence, the Columbia Dramatic Guild returns via WJAS at 8:30 with a radio adaptation of Edgar Allen Poe's blood-curdling chiller, "A Cask of Amontillado." Steven Fox and Ray Collins are starred.

Pearl Buck comes to the fore as a radio writer with the presentation of her drama, "The First Wife," on WCAE at 10.

* * *

"Edmund Kean," another of NBC's series of British radio plays, by the authors of the recently-presented work, "The Silver Candlestick," is listed on KDKA at 10:30.

* * *

Rudy's Show

Thursday night means Rudy Vallee . . . and Rudy Vallee means a good show. Tonight, on WCAE at 8, it means Paul Robeson, famed Negro actor-singer; Mitzi Green, child screen-stage-radio star; Ann Butler, comedienne; Peter and Aline Dixon, of "Raising Junior" fame, and the Beverly Hillbillies, Pacific Coast radio sensation.

Miss Butler

Robeson selects "Old Man River" and "Water Boy;" Mitzi goes hilarious with some of her impersonations and the Dixons offer a series of seven brief sketches similar to those offered recently on the Ray Perkins Revue.

Fred Allen Returning to Air; Ethel Waters Leaving NBC

By AIRCASTER

The serious-visaged drawling Fred Allen, whose dry humor was at first indigestible to the radio audience, possibly because it was so different, but who, after beginning his fine series with the Bath Club broadcasts, was suddenly boosted to the top of the comedy heap, is about to climb out of his retirement and amuse the customers again.

Mr. Allen

The original and dependable wit might have been playing around with the kilocycles months ago, except that he believed that gents who worry as much about programs as he does, ought to be paid their price.

Allen will resurrect himself this time by way of the National Broadcasting wires on the evening of August 4. With Allen will be Portland Hoffa, his frau, of course; occasionally, Jack Smart; a singer yet to be chosen, and Ferde Grofe's orchestra.

* * *

Showman Rudy

Rudy Vallee, who invariably turns an eye to advantageous showmanship, is considering putting himself on a sustaining program, which would, of course, have no connection with his commercial activities. It is Rudy's idea that he could mold a swell bit of divertisement by using the small army of proteges which he has gathered around him, not to mention those he has given a lift in the past.

Rudy Vallee

* * *

Ethel Leaving

Ethel Waters, the sepia songbird, closes her engagement with the NBC the end of this week for some reason or other that isn't being publicized.

It is not altogether impossible that she may be adopted by the Columbia web despite the new, though tacit agreement between the rival chains not to snitch each other's talent. In this case, the CBS camp believes, it wouldn't be snitching.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

With so much talk these days of long-distance flights in a minimum of time, it is only natural that Gustave and Henry Blaich, 15 and 13, respectively, should want a little mention about their record.

They left Spring Hill one morning last week at 8:30 and arrived at Sewickley at 10:15 the same morning, a distance of 15 miles. They were riding bicycles equipped with one boy power motors.

* * *

"Our best friend is sneaking off to get married and we can't stick him full of pins."

A couple of Carnegie automobile mechanics were frustrated by one of their co-workers, who decided to have his "secret" wedding at a time when the boys can't get off to wish him well.

They had plans to water the gasoline in the bridegroom's car and make themselves otherwise generally helpful. However, they plan to have a special "revenge" celebration for him by proxy when the couple arrives at their destination, in Ohio. Let this be a warning.

* * *

Mrs. James A. Taylor, Whitaker.—The Betsy Ross Estate has already been settled by the heirs.

* * *

Oil of sassafras and cloves have been suggested as ant preventatives.

In our opinion there's nothing so pleasing as fine tobaccos that are "Toasted". That's why more and more men and women are reaching for a Lucky—for always "Luckies Please!"

Up the beanstalk

WHEN Jack climbed the beanstalk, he got a new conception of his needs. No longer would just a hen do, but a golden-egg hen. No longer just a harp, but one that stood by itself and played. He didn't know what he wanted till he saw something better than what he had . . . though he labored hand over hand to get hold of that point of view.

Advertisements give you a high point of view without any climbing at all. They spread world products before you—servants to serve you, conveniences to please—prices low because so many thousands are using the same. They give you a new conception of what you'd like to own. No longer will a watch or food chopper do—but the most highly improved watch or food chopper. No longer just a radio—but one of purest transmission. They make you change your mind about what you started to choose, and choose something more pleasing at no higher price. They help you see the whole field of satisfying wares. They lift you to fresh joys.

HONEST FACTS ARE IN THEIR NEWS

MIDNIGHT RAIDS MADE ON TWO CLUBS

Whisky and beer were confiscated by county detectives in midnight raids on two Sharpsburg clubs.

In the hallway of one at 1115 Main street, the detectives were halted by two apparently ferocious dogs long enough for the proprietor to escape. The dogs then joined their master in his flight, according to Detective Frank Ritz, who led the raiders.

Ritz reported confiscating small quantities of beer and moonshine.

In the other club, at 1206 Main street, the detectives arrested Walter Nelson and seized beer and whisky, they said. Nelson was held on a district attorney's detainer.

The clubs and four other places in the borough were invaded simultaneously by 15 detectives, divided into squads. No law violations were discovered in the others.

IOWA FARM MOB LEADERS JAILED

DES MOINES, Ia., July 20.—(AP.)—The state wrote finis today to the revolt of agricultural Northwest Iowa during which an attorney was nearly hanged, a judge was abducted and beaten, and sheriff's deputies were forced to kiss the flag before National Guardsmen were dispatched to restore order.

An 11-week search for Morris Cope and Ed Casper, Plymouth County farmers who allegedly led the attack on Judge C. C. Bradley at Le Mars April 27, ended when the two surrendered and pleaded guilty yesterday.

Prosecution of leaders of the revolt against mortgage foreclosure actions ended with the conviction of A. A. Mitchell, 75, on a charge of assaulting the judge. Mitchell will be sentenced at Orange City next Thursday.

Cope was sentenced to one year in jail and Casper to six months.

JILTED SUITOR SHOOTS MODEL

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—(AP.)—Shot three times, she said, by George W. Kessler, 34, discharged Pasadena city employe, when she spurned his love in favor of her career, Dolores Lamar, 19-year-old dancer and model, told authorities yesterday she would refuse to prosecute him on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Miss Lamar said:

"George loved me. He loved me but I did not love him. I had career and family to think of. We quarreled and he shot me. I do not want to prosecute him. I want to turn the other cheek."

Miss Lamar, who physicians said, will recover, was shot as she alighted from a motor car in which she had been riding with friends.

Harmon and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Harmon, surrendered when police arrived. The officers quoted Harmon as saying:

"I only meant to fire over his head and scare him away. But he came seeking trouble."

Mrs. Harmon said Knobbe had annoyed her since they first met in Chicago in 1920. Yesterday, the Harmons said, Knobbe came to their home and, in a scuffle, seized Mrs. Harmon's dress, tearing it.

FREE IRELAND, PLEA OF A. O. H.

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP.)—Irish Americans here for the biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians have taken up the shilalah in the ancient fight against Great Britain.

Michael W. Delaney, of Chicago, giving his report as president of the order, said yesterday:

"We will never be satisfied until the entire island is free to work out its own destiny."

His report said the order opposed any clemency in the matter of international debts.

Delaney also criticized the Carnegie and Sulgrave foundations, along with the British-American Union and Cecil Rhodes scholarships. They were termed "more interested in the welfare of another country than of their own."

The secretary's report was made to the convention by Leo Kelly, of Pittsburgh.

Baby Parades Just 'Headache' to Asbury Park

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 20.—(Universal.)—Baby parades may make interesting topics for song writers, but they give municipalities a headache.

Asbury Park has decided it will not go "in the red" just to uphold the traditions of juvenile "cuteness."

There'll be no baby parade this year!

The city fathers so decided yesterday.

They took a look at the 1932 deficit of $3,000, and remembered with a shudder the $28,000 hole in the municipal sock from parading in 1928.

GUNMEN RAID SALOON TWICE

CHICAGO, July 20.—(INS.)—Police squads today stood guard at the saloon of Clemento Cozzi in the Italian quarter where attacks by an automobile load of gunmen have resulted in the death of one man and the wounding of three others in 24 hours.

Several hours after they had shot and killed Emil Onesto and seriously wounded two others, the squad of gunmen returned. Ignoring a lone policeman who stood guard, the six hoodlums opened fire from a leisurely cruising automobile and Frank Tiritilli, 32, fell with a revolver bullet in the arm.

Angelo Mazzo, who was shot in the head during one of three separate assaults on the cafe Tuesday night, is expected to die.

The proprietor could give police no motive for the mysterious attacks.

Piles Go Quick Or Money Back

Thousands of Pile sufferers have not yet learned that permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine that will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of the blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy, and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided to make it possible for Pile sufferers everywhere to benefit by his discovery.

HEM-ROID is so successful even in chronic and stubborn cases that we invite every Pile sufferer to try it and guarantee money back if it does not end all Pile misery.

'DIGGER' WASP INVADES DISTRICT

Several hundred Sphex Ichneumoneas "dug in" along the tracks of an abandoned railway along the Banksville road, South Hills, today.

In case you're puzzled, a "Sphex Ichneumonea" is a species of giant solitary wasp, sometimes called the "digger" wasp.

Mrs. Magnhild Greb, zoology assistant at the University of Pittsburgh, identified one of the Banksville road insects as a "Sphex Ichneumonea," their scientific name.

Residents in the vicinity, are more curious than frightened by the odd creatures. The wasps don't bother humans, they report, unless molested.

Mrs. Greb explains that the wasps are probably laying their eggs in the loose shale of the old railroad track. With the eggs, they usually place several dead grasshoppers or other insects to provide food for the young when hatched.

In appearance, they are brilliantly colored — wings purple, body a shining black and gold, and legs apple green. They measure about an inch.

They are called "solitary" wasps, according to Mrs. Greb, because they do not live in colonies.

MANY HIGHWAYS TO BE OILED

Motoring on main and secondary state highways in Butler, Bedford, Armstrong, Somerset, Indiana, Warren and Elk counties will be interrupted by oiling operations during the next week, the Touring Bureau of the Pittsburgh Motor Club reported today.

Route 220, in Lycoming County, a main highway used by through traffic from Western Pennsylvania bound for Williamsport and central and eastern New York, also will receive oil treatment. No detours of importance will be placed or removed from state highways in Western Pennsylvania during the next week.

Boy Falls From Log, Drowns in River

ALLIANCE, O., July 20.—Ferrell Cline, 12, of Alliance, was drowned in the Mahoning River yesterday. He is believed to have fallen from a log into the water. His body was taken from the river by William Snyder, 57, of Heacock road. Firement attempted to revive the youth by using an inhalator.

Rural Mail Carriers Re-elect President

MERCER, Pa., July 20.—Clarence Bristler, of Dunns Station, was re-elected president of the Pennsylvania Rural Mail Carriers' Association for the second time at the annual convention here. Indiana was chosen as the meeting place for 1934.

Earl Hollinger, Greencastle, is vice president; Max Lightner, Duncannon, secretary, and H. J. Stambaugh, Thomasville, treasurer. Mrs. Hollinger was re-elected president of the women's auxiliary.

GARAGE OWNER EXONERATED

John Slifko, Jr., of Library, a garage owner, yesterday was cleared by federal authorities of a charge of receiving, concealing and storing a stolen automobile.

Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Fritz announced that the charge, filed before the United States commissioner in August, 1932, was dismissed, as a further investigation established that the car involved had been left at Slifko's garage for repairs.

It was found there when government investigators were running down an alleged automobile theft ring that operated in Southwestern Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

PORTLAND CEMENT
Has pulled America out of the mud!

THAT GIVE MEN WORK · · THAT GIVE YOU DRIVING SAFETY, CONVENIENCE COMFORT AND LOW DRIVING COST

The United States Government has sounded the call, by giving a direct grant to the States, of at least four hundred million dollars for highway improvement. This is part of a vast program of public works to spread national employment and to stimulate business.

This work will be done through your own State Highway Department. The Federal Government asks no return except that the money be expended wisely—that the improvements be permanent, substantially built and of a type that gives men work.

CONCRETE ROADS meet every specification. They are permanent. Maintenance cost is much less than that of any other type. They give you the greatest driving safety, convenience and comfort. They cost less to drive over—saving you gas, tires, repairs and depreciation. They will give work to men now on doles in your community. Money will flow across the counters of home stores.

Insist on CONCRETE for your roads—get the most and the best road for the money—and the maximum employment for labor!

Remember the roads of 1910? Narrow strips of dirt—ankle-deep dust—quagmires of mud—The cost of moving goods was terrific!

The engineers have built, with cement, a network of CONCRETE highways throughout the nation that is nearly one hundred thousand miles in length. Cement spanned great rivers and broad valleys with concrete. Cement made the modern motor vehicle practical; made motoring a part of our daily life.

GERMANS SIGN TREATY WITH VATICAN

VATICAN CITY, July 20.—(AP.)—A concordat between Germany and the Vatican was signed today by Vice Chancellor Franz Von Papen of Germany and Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state.

Those present at the signing were Baron Von Boers, chief of the cabinet; Undersecretary of Interior Buttmann; Minister to the Holy See Von Kle; Monsignor Kaas, former Center party leader; Monsignor Ottaviani, under secretary of state; and Monsignor Pizzardo, under secretary of the congregation for extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs.

It was revealed Monsignor Kaas had intensively assisted in the negotiations resulting in the concordat.

MOVE TO SEIZE FUNDS

BERLIN, July 20.—(AP.)—In an endeavor to find Marxist parties' funds and to ascertain who have foreign bank accounts, police officials advertised today that a reward would be given persons divulging such information.

The move is preliminary to the confiscation of the sums as provided for in a cabinet decree issued last week ordering the seizure of private fortunes and even citizenship rights of "enemies of the state and the people."

The advertisements referred principally to a Socialist war chest which, it was apparent, has evaded efforts to find it.

The decree, probably the strongest weapon yet placed at the disposal of Nazi officials, only legalized methods—so far as political parties are concerned—which long had been used.

HITLER'S BLOOD DEBATED

VIENNA, July 20.—(AP.)—An angry argument is being waged by Vienna newspapers over the question whether Chancellor Hitler's grandmother was Jewish or Aryan.

For the past week the boulevard papers of the Fascist Heimwehr (a government supporter) have been splashing their front pages with articles on the Chancellor's family tree. Photographs of a tombstone, and of old family album tintypes and copies of Jewish archives have been published as evidence that Hitler's family came from a ghetto in Polna, Bohemia.

The more conservative dailies, however, pointed out gaps in the alleged lineage, and today even the Socialist Allgemeine Zeitung—which for months has been conducting a bitter campaign against Nazi Germany—made public the result of its own investigations to the effect that "there is no doubt that Hitler is an Aryan."

Munhall Man Dies In Brownsville Hotel

A heart attack was blamed today for the death yesterday of Jacob J. Weidell, 65, landscape architect of Munhall, in a hotel in Brownsville. Weidell in 1907 supervised a $1,500,000 landscape project for Mark Hanna in Cleveland.

Kreisler Wary Of Nazi Peace Offer to Jews

BERLIN, July 20.—(AP.)—Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, said today that he would continue to refuse to appear in Germany despite the announcement by State Commissioner Hans Hinkel that in the Hitlerite Germany "the free artistic activities of foreigners and non-Arayans (Jews) shall in nowise be hindered."

Kreisler, who since his return from America has been flooded with requests to appear in concerts here, said he would wait until these words of the commissioner are followed by deeds. He said:

"I appreciate Commissioner Hinkel's announcement, but before I appear I must see it established beyond peradventure of doubt that all my colleagues in the musical world, irrespective of nation, race or creed, are not only tolerated but actually welcomed.

"My friend Furtwaengler (Dr. Furtwaengler, conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra), who was chiefly instrumental in paving the way for resumption of international exchange of artists by Germany, kindly invited me to appear as soloist at the first philharmonic concert this autumn.

"Much as I appreciate Dr. Furtwaengler's compliment I do not want preferential treatment for myself but would rather appear, if at all, at the end of the season after having seen it demonstrated that Commissioner Hinkel's words have been translated into action."

Kreisler fully realizes his refusal to appear in Germany until such men as Bruno Walter, Jewish conductor who has been barred, also are welcome back, probably will be as little understood here as his efforts to persuade Arturo Toscanini to go to Bayreuth, or his financial support of entente artists imprisoned in Austrian concentration camps during the war were understood in America. He said:

"Art is international, and I oppose Chauvinism in art wherever I encounter it."

Henderson, Hitler To Confer on Arms

BERLIN, July 20.—(AP.)—Arthur Henderson, British chairman of the Geneva Disarmament Conference, was in Munich today to talk over the arms problem with Chancellor Hitler with a view to clarifying the European political situation.

Henderson conferred recently with Czechoslovakian officials in Praha and suggested a meeting of Chancellor Hitler and Premier Daladier of France might help the deadlocked arms problems.

Pola Negri Films Banned by Germany

BERLIN, July 20. — (Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—The name of Poli Negri, motion picture actress, was on a list of Jewish actors and actresses whose pictures the government had ruled today must not be shown in Germany.

The same list included 118 theatrical directors who were ordered to be dismissed from positions in Germany because they are Jews.

AID FOR JEWISH DRIVE URGED; FUND GROWS

Leo G. Griffith made a radio appeal for aid in the local relief campaign for Jews in Germany as the first report meeting yesterday in William Penn Hotel showed gifts totaling $33,000.

Griffith spoke from radio station KDKA. He said:

"I am happy to say that from pulpits of all faiths throughout the United States, that from people of all races, creeds and colors here, have come expressions of disgust that a powerful nation like Germany should punish a racial minority.

"If you help in this campaign you will have the satisfaction of having assisted in alleviating the greatest calamity which has befallen a great race in this generation."

A message from Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, of New York, chairman of the Joint Distribution Campaign Committee, received by the workers here last night, reads:

"Last minute information concerning German situation confirms that our work is desperately needed. Not a day passes without further repressions and without adding to the terrible plight of our people in Germany.

"It is a situation without parellel in tragic history of persecution of Jews. Our German brethren are being deliberately created into classes of outlaws denied even the right to earn their livelihood and educate their children in the land of their birth. I plead with you and the Pittsburgh community that these people shall not stretch out their hands in vain."

HOME AID HEADS TO BE NAMED IN COUNTIES

The Federal Home Owners' Loan Corporation will appoint an attorney and an appraiser in every county seat in Western Pennsylvania, according to word from Washington.

These appointees will also assist home owners in making applications for loans. In Pittsburgh the forms will be available in a district office which will be opened before August 1 in the Benedum-Trees Building, officials announced.

The government will loan the home owner up to 80 per cent of the apraised value of the property where clear title can be shown and where the holder of the mortgage will accept 4 per cent government bonds in exchange for his lien.

The owner will then have 15 years to repay the government, with a 5 per cent interest charge on the unpaid balance.

HITLER CHURCH BARRED IN SAAR

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, July 20.—(AP.)—Organization of Chancellor Hitler's Nazi church as the official faith was barred in the Saar Territory today by the League of Nations governing commission.

The Nazi church law was declared inapplicable because the people must be religiously and politically free until 1935 when a plebiscite is to determine whether the Saar will be attached to France or Germany.

WOMAN TRIED IN DEATH PLOT

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 20.—(AP.)—With her husband and young son sitting beside her, Mrs. Myrtle Delaney, 32, was placed on trial here charged with being an accessory in the slaying of Arthur A. Shaw, railroad machinist.

The woman is the fourth defendant in the Shaw slaying which the state charges resulted from a plot. Shaw's widow and her cousin, Harley Lemon, pleaded guilty to murder last week and were sentenced to life imprisonment. Eddie Crouch pleaded guilty to accessory to manslaughter and was sentenced to five years.

RECORD Terraplane scales Mt. Washington in HIGH GEAR

CENTER — Chet Miller in stock Terraplane Eight scales rocky peak with gear-shift lever locked in high gear—in teeth of 55-mile-an-hour gale

INSET AT LEFT — Al Miller in stock Terraplane Six lops 51 seconds off former Mt. Washington record

INSET AT TOP — At the finish—William Taylor, official A. A. A. representative — registering record-breaking time of Terraplane Eight

Holder of Pike's Peak Record Now Undisputed Champion

Mt. Washington, N.H., June 30—Two stock Essex Terraplanes, a Six and an Eight, under official supervision of the American Automobile Association, both broke the all-time automobile record up Mt. Washington today — the Six by 51 seconds; the Eight by 1 minute, 16 seconds.

As a climax to the day's work, the Terraplane Eight, starting with the gearshift lever locked and sealed in high gear, climbed to the summit in high gear all the way—a feat unparalleled in the history of the mountain. The farthest point ever before reached by any car in high gear was the half-way house.

These achievements, added to the great Pike's Peak victory in which a Terraplane Six also beat the all-time record for all stock cars, regardless of price, makes the Terraplane the undisputed champion for hill-climbing performance and ruggedness.

• • •

We believe this series of records made by Essex Terraplanes constitutes the most powerful evidence ever assembled to prove the ruggedness, reliability and stamina of any make of motor car. No owner's use of his car will ever approach the punishment given these record-breaking Terraplanes.

MENU CONTEST THRIFT AID PRAISED

In the many letters of commendation the Sun-Telegraph has received on the $100 weekly cash prize dinner menu contests, it is the general opinion no newspaper contest has brought such constructive benefits to the women of the home at a time when practical economy is essential. Prudence Penny is proud of the achievement in this unique and timely dinner menu test, proud that it has awakaned the housewife to the idea of careful, thoughtful marketing for the table.

Mrs. Tony Campagna, Manor, in a letter, says:

"The preparation of the menu was instructive and a brief lesson in home economics as well as 'home economy.' I think the contest has taught us housewives to be more careful in planning menus not only from the economic viewpoint, but at the same time from the nutritive."

BENEFITS LASTING

Miss Carrie Cochran, 871 Thorn street, Sewickley, said:

"The Sun-Telegraph Dinner Menu Contest has been interesting and its benefits will be of lasting value to all housekeepers participating in it."

Mrs. A. M. Johnston, 319 Fourth street, Freeport, writes:

"As the mother of five, the serving of well prepared and appetizing meals and doing it economically, is one of the problems of the present day family. Your contest is very worthwhile and has created in our vicinity a new interest in food selections and the buying ing and has also encouraged efforts to serve nourishing meals at a minimum cost."

INTEREST GREATER

It isn't at all surprising, considering all this, that the interest in the $1 dinner menu contest is really greater than it was in the $1.50 contest. It isn't as easy, of course, to serve a well-balanced, appetizing dinner menu for four persons at a cost not to exceed $1 as it is at the $1.50 outlay.

Housewives are consequently doing more serious thinking and more careful shopping for this week's contest based on $1 for a dinner for four. The Sun-Telegraph invitation is still open for them to get into this interesting game. There is an entry blank in this edition. Enter as many menus as you wish, but get them in before midnight next Tuesday night.

WINNING MENUS

In Contest No. 4 the tenth prize in the list was awarded Mrs. Anne Enyart, 215 Euclid avenue, Sharon, for this menu:

Daddy Rides Baby In Pram Behind His Bike

WINNIPEG, July 20.—(AP.)—An inventive Winnipeg father hitched baby's perambulator to a bicycle frame. It rides on one bicycle wheel and two pram wheels. Papa pedals along the street, baby ri smoothly in the "back seat." Father wins coming and going. Not only does he escape pushing the pram, but he evades the city bicycle license. His machine, technically speaking, is a tricycle.

BANDIT FLEES AFTER GUN DUEL

2nd Suspect Arrested As He Takes Victim For Auto Ride

A holdup man escaped after a pistol battle with a special patrolman during an attempted holdup on the North Side early today, while another, named by police as the "kidnap bandit," was arrested as he was taking his victim for a ride.

The gun battle occurred at the American Coffee Shop, 410 East Ohio street, as the robber, a handkerchief over his face, forced George Hunter, 18, of 942 Western avenue, a waiter, into the rear room.

At the door they were met by Milton Brown, 35, of 65 Fountain street, the special patrolman.

Brown broke the robber's aim as he fired. The bullet lodged in the ceiling. The thug fled, firing two shots at Brown, who returned the fire.

One of the bullets entered the window of B. White, a furniture dealer in East Ohio.

The captured man, who said he was George Sellers, 23, of 4617 Carroll street, was arrested as he drove toward Schenley Park with A. E. Ackerman, proprietor of the Squirrel Hill Auto Service Station, 3401 Beechwood boulevard.

Sellers, police said, admitted he had held up Ackerman in his garage. Police said a revolver and $40 in cash was found in Sellers' possession. The prisoner is said to have admitted the holdup and was quoted by police as having added:

"I always take my victims for a ride in the park."

The capture was made by Patrolman John Whalen and James Kerns, a radio crew, at Hazelwood avenue and Bigelow street.

U.S. FOUR TAKES BRIDGE LEAD

LONDON, July 20.—(AP.)—The American contract bridge team, led by Ely Culbertson, forged to the front today for the first time. At the end of the tenth hand of the afternoon session they were leading the British by 1,210 points.

Later the British team picked up a few points and at the tea interval the Americans' advantage was 970. The total scores were: America, 49,500; England, 48,530.

England's drop from the front position was largely accounted for by some weak bidding on the part of its team and by the fact that the Americans were making their contracts.

For instance, Michael T. Gottlieb, American player, in Room 2, called four hearts and made 11 tricks and 750 points for his side. On the fifth hand in Room 1 Sir Guy Domville, of the British team, called two diamonds and made nine tricks for 100 points. On the same hand Gottlieb made a final declaration of three no trumps and was doubled but fulfilled his contract and earned 700 points.

London Distillery Eyes U. S. Market

LONDON, July 20.—(AP.)—The Financial News said today it understood that a large block of Booth's Distilleries shares, constituting a controlling interest, which recently were reported as purchased by Wall street interests, were bought on account by Thomas Bragg.

The News said it believed Bragg proposes to extend the business to America "as soon as prohibition is repealed."

Man Killed Waiting For Train to Pass

ALLIANCE, O., July 10.—While he waited on his bicycle on the westbound tracks for a freight train to pass, Melvin Patton, 40, was killed last night when he was run over by a Pennsaylvania Railroad passenger train.

He failed to hear persons who called to warn him. His wife and four children were visiting in Pittsburgh.

WARD GETS NEW HOME NEAR MUTE PAL

Billy Saves 20 Cents To Buy Tobacco For Andy

Billy Mitchell is going home—to a new home near his great pal, Andy Myers—where he'll have two playmates of his own age.

He has a candy sucker and 20 cents to buy Andy tobacco with. He saved it all these days in the hospital, where he's been convalescing from a tonsil operation since his foster mother, Andy's mother, was burned to death.

But Billy isn't going back to the hovel, near the Saltsburg and Frankstown roads, where Judge Benjamin Lencher returned him only because of the deep and touching love between the 6-year-old ward, the mute Andy and Mrs. Elizabeth Myers. She's dead now. It's different.

Judge Lencher got a report from Chief County Investigator Leo Riordan on a fine home in Wilkinsburg, not too far from Andy's new shelter. The report termed it "the finest home I have visited." Mrs. Arthur Counsel, of 531 Montview place, a college graduate, who had done marvels with two little wards, was recommended for her keen interest in the children. Billy's little playmates-to-be appeared in court, mannerly, well dressed—and fit.

Judge Lencher expressed the opinion that here Billy would get his chance to develop and grow.

Mrs. Counsel plans to see Billy today, and to find out if the new arrangement suits both of them.

The turn of events in Billy's case had brought satisfaction to all, including Billy, who told County Investigator William Windhorst in the hospital yesterday that he would like to go there—as long as he could see Andy.

Judge Lencher also closed two more homes after investigators claimed that in one, the wards were locked in at night and the caretakers were out, and in the other, that the wards were found scrubbing floors and cleaning an apartment building near by.

Paul Stelnak, 11, is in a new home today. County investigators found Paul, his hand covered with callouses nearly half an inch thick and infected. He had been working on a farm in Washington County, where he was a ward.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 20.

Will Rogers

I guess Dempsey's got a cheerful little earful. I guess Balbo (the only young man that ever looked well in whiskers) is flying somewhere. I guess the photographers to the London Conference are breaking up all the plates they exposed there.

I guess Alabama and Arkansaw voted to show their natives that there was Bourbon as well as corn, that all whisky was not white. I guess our great little Oklahoma flyer is ahead of his record. I guess California (as usual to be the biggest) passed the highest sales tax rate of the whole 48.

I say I guess all these things, for they are not in any of the papers, nothing can get in a paper when Sister Aimee is in, so we are all practically isolated from the world for the next couple of weeks. Yours, WILL.

'Fads and Frills' Of Schooling Upheld

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP.)—What he termed "fads and frills" in public schools are more important than arithmetic, Dr. Mandel Sherman, of the University of Chicago, told a conference of administrative officers of public and private educational institutions. He said:

"I prefer to see these so-called fads and frills—art, music, athletics and such—increase, even at the expense of such a subject as arithmetic in order that nervous breakdowns later may be avoided."

WIFE BEDECKED FOR PLOT TRIAL

CHICAGO, July 20.—(INS.)—All dressed up in a stunning "go to court" frock of blue and pink and white printed flowers and with her platinum blonde hair carefully marcelled, Bessie Opas went to trial today with three youths—"punks," she once called them—for conspiring to kill her husband for his insurance.

A more than interested onlooker at the trial before Judge Harry A. Miller was Marion Opas, the husband, in whose honor the state alleges Bessie, who is 36, would now be wearing widow's weeds if the plot had not been exposed by a babbling conspirator.

The other three defendants are Dominick Zullo, 19; John De Salvo, 17, and Angelo Masso, 21. All pleaded not guilty.

Bessie looked over the "house" and picked out her husband's face from the mass of spectators. She smiled a very wifely smile, but Opas frowned and looked away.

Wall St. Pond Again Stocked With Eager Fish

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Wall street is one pond which is stocked by the fish themselves.

And it's full again. We took a look in a branch broker's office yesterday. We saw a doctor, a dentist, an artist and a college professor.

Whip up the dogs. We're off for the icy North.

They say the burned child dreads the hot stove. You never heard of the stove reciprocating the sentiment.

The boys who got those balloon blisters in 1929 aren't 17-year locusts. They made the non-stop flight in four.

Yes sir, it is only four years since they were using rock bottom for pie crust.

Nothing we can do about it. You can't stop a lesson learner from taking a post-graduate course.

PARTY CHANGES BY PROXY BALKED

County Sleuth Charges Attempted Fraud In Enrollments

A court battle over registration between the County Commissioners and the Democratic organization over registration began to take shape today.

Attorney James O'Toole, counsel for the Democrats, was planning to go into court to force the Commissioners to accept the changes in party preference of hundreds of citizens who were refused registration in the boroughs and townships yesterday.

The Commissioners' registrars refused to accept switches in registration from the Republican to the Democratic party in cases where the voter did not appear personally, but was represented only by a signed statement.

Leo Riordan, chief county investigator, reported evidences of fraud in some attempted registrations — especially in Elizabeth, Rankin and Shaler Township. He threatened prosecution.

Early returns indicated a pronounced change in registration from the Republican to the Democratic column. In Rankin, Braddock and Swissvale this was especially noticeable.

Officials declared that even though bids had been opened or called for, the Treasury Department could not be sure whether contracts would be signed.

Bids have been opened for the Pittsburgh Marine Hospital; an addition to the Hazelton postoffice, and a new postoffice at West Chester.

Tropical Fish to Vie For Honors at Show

In 150 tanks, mild-mannered guppies, darting daneos, lovely angel fish with their trailing draperies, and dozens of other varieties will provide a show of flashing color and action.

At the meeting of the society last night in the Hotel Henry, where plans for the exhibit were discussed, James Koks, veteran member, threatened to oppose the exhibition by appealing to the city authorities because, he charged, some of the members were using the show to sell fish.

After voting to exclude non-members from exhibiting, the society decided to prohibit sales at the show.

Later the fliers "strafed" the Army medical field service school at Carlisle.

Advance details of five units which start their two weeks' training on Saturday, arrived yesterday. They included the 112th Infantry from Northwestern Pennsylvania and 107th Field Artillery from Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, under Col. Eric Wood.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO PUT A DRY FLY WHERE YOU WANT IT — EVERY TIME

● ABOVE— MILDNESS COMES FIRST in a cigarette, according to Mr. Neu, for enjoyment and for the sake of your nerves. Camel's rich, inviting flavor always seems to say, "Have another."

● ABOVE — ARTHUR J. NEU, of East Orange, N. J., pulls in a nice one! Few men know the importance of healthy nerves better than Art Neu does. He is national champion in dry-fly casting for accuracy. Just as a stunt, Mr. Neu has frequently flicked the ash off a friend's cigarette with a fly at 35 feet!

● RIGHT — A DAY'S SPORT is more enjoyable with plenty of Camels along, because you can smoke all you want—and still be ready for more when evening comes! Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves...never tire your taste! Camels are better for steady smoking. It is more fun to know!

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

ARTHUR J. NEU, champion fly-caster, says:

"Dry-fly fishing is a delicate art that takes the best a man's got in steadiness of hand and eye. To win the championship in accuracy at casting a dry fly, I had to have healthy nerves. And yet I smoke steadily—all I want to—without disturbing my nerves. That's because I prefer Camels. There is no question but that they are milder. And their rich, inviting flavor seems to say, 'Have another.'"

Turn to Camels. Like Mr. Neu you will find that Camels are milder...that their flavor suits your taste... that steady smoking never jangles your nerves. So begin today!

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. The more you smoke them, the more you'll like them. Costlier tobaccos do taste better.

BANK PROBERS TO COLLECT OWN DATA

HARRISBURG, July 20.—(AP.)—The legislative committee investigating liquidation of closed banks had set out today to gather for itself the information it seeks.

Dissatisfied with the data submitted by the Department of Banking, the committee yesterday arranged to get what it wants directly from the department's central office, branch offices and closed banks.

The work was delegated by Senator Harry J. Bell, Fayette, chairman, to a sub-committee of Senator Harry J. Shapiro, Philadelphia, and Representatives Robert J. Cordier, Lackawanna; Elwood J. Turner, Delaware, and David R. Perry, Blair.

Public hearings, temporarily halted yesterday, will be resumed when the group has completed its work.

CHARGE CASH HELD UP

The course was adopted after a session at which Shapiro and Turner criticized the slow liquidation of closed banks under the direction of Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary.

They said large sums are available for cash payments to depositors, but are not being distributed. They further asserted the money has been placed as demand deposits at 1 per cent interest, instead of time deposits at 3 per cent.

Dr. Gordon, who reiterated that the committee is "gunning" for someone, said the cash is required for bills payable or other preferred claims and, in some cases, is tied up by litigation. He said the demand and time deposit interests rates are the same, 1 per cent, in Philadelphia where $1,500,000 of cash is held for closed bank accounts.

NAMES PITTSBURGH BANK

Shapiro charged 71 of the 142 closed banks in the state have cash available to pay 5 per cent or more to depositors. He named the banks specifically. Estimates of the percentage he said could be paid included the Bank of Secured Savings, Pittsburgh, 10 per cent.

Shapiro attacked the policy of depositing the $1,500,000 with Drexel & Co., a private bank not under state control, but Gordon declared the institution is "safe" and the deposits are backed by Liberty bonds. He said he could not get similar security in many banks and emphasized that the department has lost no closed bank funds through the closing or restricted operation of present depositories.

At the close of the hearing, the committee urged Gordon to permit members to collect data independently. Gordon said he would issue the necessary orders.

The picnic attracted a large crowd. Benjamin F. Nowak, police lifeguard, and Miss Mary Velich, of Millvale, whom he saved from drowning several months ago, were married last night at a public ceremony.

The committee in charge of the picnic included DeForest W. Ludwig, Frank Mangold, Harold Kuhl, Dr. M. R. Alderman, E. Buettner, Ray E. Schneider, P. A. Freyvogel, Earl Hanna, Jerome Rosenbloom, W. A. Stoehr, Dr. C. Strassley, John Heimbuecher, Frank Bauer, Ben Moore, Dr. P. G. Rudin and S. Malin.

At the same time the Central Executive Committee issued an acknowledgement that weakness of the railroad transport was menacing the whole economy and that the weakness showed alarming symptoms of becoming acute.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Pax

I will be proud, I thought, and draw away;
And let love die as love has died before—
I had forgotten that your voice would stay
Here in my heart when I had closed the door.
I will be cruel, I thought, and she will know
The aching torment of a fresh defeat.
Oh, who was I to sense your eyes would glow
Half-gay, half-wistful, down each darkened street?

Well, I have lost and crept once more to you,
And then, if this is losing, I am glad—
Glad that surrender makes the town seem new
And rout befits this strangely happy lad—
Who knows at last that victory is this:
The rapture and the heartbreak of your kiss!
—Don Wahn.

Novelette

Myron Selznick is Hollywood's richest booking agent. Seven years ago, however, he was broke. He urged an old friend, a famous movie magnate, to give him a break—a job at anything. The magnate suddenly went blind in one ear. No dice. Myron later started his own booking agency, and, good grief—how the money's rolled in!

The other day the same magnate, clipped by the market, needed ready coin to save his studios from collapse. He went to a bank and almost wept for a quick loan.

"Be glad to oblige," said the banker, "providing you can get—Myron Selznick's indorsement."

A Critic Herself!

It happened during rehearsals of a revuesical in Los Angeles, and a newcomer couldn't quite get the director's idea of how to applaud. They went through the scene 10 times and then she was dismissed.

"My dear," almost wept the director as he fired her, "even a seal can applaud!"

The Retort Swelegant

Recently Barbara Stanwyck decided to have John Decker do an oil of her. Decker has done most of the stars in oil and when he mentioned $1,000 as his price, Barbara exclaimed:

"All that money, and all you spend for pigments and brushes is about $20!"

"Well," said Decker, "how much do you make Warner's pay you—when you put $1.50 worth of grease-paint on your face?"

You've Met Him

And Bert Hanlon describes a certain unpopular fellow this way:

"He's the kind of a guy you'd rather meet back to back."

Durling, I Am Growing Bolder

We've reprinted so many of the scallions tossed at us by so many commentators that we figure we can reprint this—from E. V. Durling's pillar—an opposition paragrapher, yet!

"It is right and proper," wrote Durling, "for the Writers' Club to banquet him. He is the living refutation of a crack which has been directed at the journalistic trade as long as most of us can remember, namely and to-wit: That there is no future in the newspaper business for a reporter.

"It was not his recording of the imminence of blessed events or the presence of the extramarital affairs of the celebrated which attracted widespread attention. Lots of people erroneously think that, including his innumerable imitators, who wonder why they do not get anywhere in particular . . . They confine their items to biological-urge items, while he keeps scooping city desks on events of national importance."

Imagine

One of the MGM executives, after testing several types "who were like Gus Edwards" for the "Stage Mothers" movie, decided they wouldn't serve.

"We must get somebody," groaned the executive, "who is more like Gus Edwards!"

We wonder why they don't get Gus Edwards—who could use a job!

Newspaperman Stuff

His name is Lee Shippey. He columns for a Los Angeles gazette. About 27 years ago in Kansas City he tried to connect with a newspaper there—but with no luck. One day he left a heavy amount of verse and comments on current events on the ass't managing editor's desk and went away.

A week later Shippey woke up one morning blind! The oculist said that it was from inhaling the wood alcohol he used to clean his pipe.

Two mornings later Shippey's sister read his first column to him! The Kansas City paper's star columnist, C. L. Edson, it appears, had taken suddenly ill—and the ass't managing editor, remembering the stuff left on his desk—rushed it into print—to save the day! For four months Shippey dictated his daily column—until his sight returned.

He says it was easier to write it than read it, but this is obvious perjury, for nobody can fool editors for 27 years.

In Other Words

A group of sharpshooters were tearing people apart. One of them said that Kate Smith's feature movie, which didn't excite large audiences, was misnamed.

"Instead of being called: 'Hello, Everybody!'" groaned a lad, "it should have been called: 'Hello Anybody!'"

Merciless Truth

Norman Sullivan just thought of the perfect epitaph for an actor, to wit:

"His heart was as big as the holes in his shoes."

Uh-Huh

Bert Levy, after a long career in show business, was day-dreaming last night.

"Walter," he said, "take it from a veteran—take it easier. When I sit on the porch of my home in those Hollywood hills, all I think about is how much time I wasted—worrying about the second bow."

Oop!

They were talking shop again over at the Vendome rendezvous on Sunset Blvd. and someone remarked that a writer was planning to prepare Carl Laemmle, Jr.'s, life story.

"What!" niftied a clown, "on a piece of confetti?"

Gable to Star In Torrid Story

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Good news comes to Clark Gable from all hands. Doctors assured him that he would be all right after his tonsils were removed, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announces his long-awaited starring picture, "How to Treat a Lady," an original tailor-made for the tall star, will be the film in which Clark achieves solo billing.

Clark Gable

From advance rumors, "torrid" is the word to describe the story. It tells the romantic adventures of a man of many conquests. Three or four leading women will be required to represent the hero's various affairs of the heart.

According to present plans, this picture will be started during the summer. The studio still wants Clark to play in the Joan Crawford picture, and if his health permits he'll probably do it.

Meanwhile, John Farrow adapts "How to Treat a Lady."

The sight of the week, I assure you, is Harpo Marx with his head shaved. Years of wearing that wig haven't helped the comedian keep a full head of hair. He'll try letting it grow back from an even start.

Serge Eissenstein's supporters still militate against the release of "Thunder Over Mexico," the picture filmed by the Russian director but cut in Hollywood by the representatives of Upton Sinclair and the other backers. Seymour Stern leaves Friday for New York to talk it over with eastern objectors.

Mr. Eisenstein

The Fox studio is urging Will Rogers' Girl, Mary, to use the family name instead of Howard, but she still refuses. . . . Balbo Landing In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Completing the greatest mass flight in history, Gen. Balbo and his air armada are pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News arriving at the Chicago World Fair. A vast throng of more than a million persons greeted the Italians. Later Balbo is shown at the Century of Progress being hailed as a conquering hero. Other pictures show the fleet lying in the bay at Cartwright, Labrador, the first stop on the American continent where Gen. Balbo delivers a message through Hearst Metrotone News expressing his thanks for the reception there. Animated maps and pictures show their course over Canada and thence to Chicago with a description of the historic achievement by the Globe Trotter.

Another phase of air adventure, this one with a tragic side, comes from Floyd Bennett Field with scenes attending the starting of the round-the-world flight of Wiley Post. The intrepid Oklahoman talks about his plane, the Winnie Mae, and then is off to break many records. Next are pictures of the ill-fated Lithuanians, Darius and Girenas, who later fell to their deaths in a Prussian forest. There is a talk by Darius in which he expresses confidence in reaching their native land.

Postmaster General Farley finds Dixie strong for repeal. In a talk delivered in Memphis, Tenn., he expresses full confidence in the South joining the vote against the Eighteenth Amendment.

Firing at a target in the ocean 12 miles away, Maine National Guardsmen, at Fort Levett, show amazing marksmanship with 10-inch disappearing guns.

In Tourelles, France, 200 school children are taught to swim in mass formation to music and give a surprising drill.

The tennis upset at Wimbledon, England, when Ellsworth Vinos, of the United States, lost his British championship to Jack Crawford, new star from Australia, is shown.

(Note—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.)

By MARK HELLINGER

'It's Fun to Be Fooled'

IN THE case of Mrs. Mollie Carroll and Randy Thomas, the flower of romance was a gin blossom. They met at the Club Select, where Spring and the odor of stale beer are always in the air. Mrs. Carroll—pretty, petite and partly plastered—was a discontented wife. Randy—dapper, dramatic and definitely dizzy—was a singer at the club, and specialized in discontented wives. Result: Trouble.

Or maybe it wasn't trouble; maybe it was love. I don't find much difference, but that's neither here nor there. The very first afternoon that Mollie met Randy he sang eight risque songs to her in a row. On the theory, I suppose, that "nothing risque, nothing gain."

Mrs. Carroll was highly insulted and proof lies in the fact that she begged him to sing eight more. He sang the same eight all over again. But by that time, Mrs. Carroll had had her fifth old-fashioned, so it didn't really make any difference.

After he had choked on his last note, proving that the choke was on him, Mollie begged him to sit down. Randy sat, although he wasn't particularly interested. Another discontented wife meant as much to him as another vote for Hoover in the last campaign.

But as the lady talked, the gentleman began to listen more attentively. Her husband was in the theatrical business, and was away most of the time. Right then, he was in Europe. More, he was an excellent provider—and Mrs. Carroll really had more money than she quite knew what to do with.

The singer asked her to repeat that last remark, and Mrs. Carroll did so. And ah, my friends, how quickly romance blossomed after that!

He held her hand while Mollie held her breath, and—well, it wasn't long before both of them were well out in front in the Romance Handicap.

At this point, I must interrupt my narrative long enough to tell you that I am skipping the events of the next few hours and the next few weeks. You know that portion of the novel where you get nothing but dots and asterisks? Well, you've just completed the very same territory in this story.

Sufficient to tell you that, by this time, Randy Thomas was singing his songs exclusively for the ears of Mrs. Mollie Carroll. I might add that he was being paid handsomely for his services, but I'd hate to go into that type of sordid detail. So you just forget I said anything about it.

Mollie was very happy—and so, after a fashion, was Randy. Quite a few discontented wives had been calling the Club Select during the past few weeks. But the boss was a friend of Randy's and he wouldn't divulge any addresses.

Which was very lucky for Randy . . .

Came the mourn. A cablegram from Mr. Walter Carroll to his darling wife announced the return of the darkie in the woodpile. And when Mollie showed the message to Randy, he gathered her in his arms.

"Ah, my sweets," he crooned, "how terrible it is going to be without you."

He might have added—"and your dough." But he didn't. Once a crooner, always a gentleman.

"But it's all in the game," he went on. "Our love was a pure and wonderful thing. But now that your husband is returning, I suppose it is best for us to part. Kiss me tenderly, my wonderful one, and then if you'll give me my expense account for last week, I'll pack my things and—"

Mollie placed a finger on his lips and three fingers in a glass.

"You'll do nothing of the kind, my love," she told him, "because I have an idea. No matter what happens, I am not going to lose you—but I am not going to lose my husband either. I have an idea."

Randy was a trifle nervous, and I don't know as I blame him. Three times he had listened to ideas from discontented wives—and three times he had wound up in an ambulance. Nevertheless, he listened. This was too good a touch to be tossed away without a struggle.

Mollie's notion, like Mollie herself, was simple. Mr. Carroll knew nothing of Mrs. Carroll's relatives, which made him a pretty lucky guy. When hubby arrived, what was to prevent Randy from being introduced as a cousin from out of town? Mr. Carroll would be in town but a short time and wouldn't have the opportunity to grow suspicious. So why not?

The singer wasn't too strong for the idea at first. Why go to all that trouble when hubby would only be in town a short time? And besides, just what kind of theatrical producer was Mr. Carroll? He had never heard of him.

Mollie hastened to interrupt. 'He does a special type of producing," she said quickly. "He uses another name. But it doesn't make any difference anyhow. And oh, by the way, another check came in yesterday from him. Will you cash it for me, darling?"

That cinched the deal . . .

When Mr. Carroll arrived the little deal was put through. Randy Thomas was introduced as Mollie's cousin, and the husband was so nice to him that the situation was absolutely criminal. After one or two meetings Mr. Carroll insisted that Randy move into the house with his wife and himself. He couldn't show enough hospitality, he said, to a relative who had been so courteous to his wife in his absence.

And so it went on for the 10 days that Mr. Carroll was in town. When Mollie had one of her imaginary headaches, the two men went out together. They got along beautifully. And it was with genuine sadness that the husband packed his bags on a Thursday evening and prepared to leave.

Mollie couldn't go to the station. One of these headaches again, she said. So husband and lover journeyed to the station together and shook hands warmly before the gate.

"I want you to take good care of Mollie for me," said Mr. Carroll. "I love her very dearly, and I'm happy to know that she's in such good company. Stay on as long as you can, Randy, because—even though you are a relative—she seems to like you. You will take good care of her, won't you?"

Randy nodded. He could afford to.

"That's fine," the other man went on. "It's a relief to leave her in the hands of a man I know I can trust. I only wish I could stay with her myself—but the act must go on. I play the Northwest for the next two months and then I may be booked in Australia. Who knows?"

The singer stepped back.

"You—an actor?" he queried. "I never knew that. What type of actor?"

Mr. Carroll smiled indulgently.

"Of course you didn't know, my boy," he returned proudly. "My work and my other name are hidden from everyone, and even my dear wife is forbidden to mention them. But I can tell you because your eyes tell me that you are to be trusted."

He drew himself up.

"I am the great Petruska," he said. "The world's most famous mind reader." . . .

Bowery Film Planned

Carrie Nation and John L. Sullivan are among colorful characters who will step from the pages of history in Twentieth Century's first picture, "The Bowery," to be released by United Artists.

Wallace Beery will play the famous Chuck Connors, George Raft will be seen as Steve Brodie, Jackie Cooper as a newsy and Fay Wray as Rose Calhoun.

Carrie Nation, who started the militant prohibition crusade by demolishing saloons with her hatchet, will be played by Blanche Frederici. John L. Sullivan, the old-timers' choice as the greatest fighting man who ever lived, will be played by George Walsh, former star of silent films. Another player will be Pert Kelton, who has just scored a personal triumph in "Bed of Roses."

The story is a tale of Bowery life at the time Steve Brody became famous by jumping off Brooklyn Bridge. It is from the novel "Chuck Connors," by Michael L. Simmons and B. R. Solomon. The screen play is being prepared by Howard Estabrook and James Gleason, with the assistance of one of the authors, Mike Simmons.

First Chance Easiest

By JAMES E. MITCHELL
Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Contrary to general belief, it is not the first opportunity at a stage or screen career that is the most difficult to obtain.

It is the winning of the second chance that is the real trial. At least, that has been the experience of Walter Abel, Broadway actor, who has just arrived in Hollywood to appear in a picture.

"Given a bit of talent, almost any man or woman will get a first chance at an acting career," Abel said. "Stage managers as well as motion picture producers are constantly on the alert for new personalities.

"I found it no trouble at all to get a foothold in New York. My first piece had a long run.

"But when it closed I tramped from agency to agency for months until another's misfortune gave me my second chance. An actor, employed to go out on tour with a stock company, was taken ill at the last moment, and I was shoved into his part."

Plays and Players :: By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

C. L. Wooldridge, Jr., is directing the production of Alfred Savoir's "He," which will be the third production of the Summer Playhouse in Shadyside Academy Theater, Fox Chapel, each evening throughout next week. Robert Gill, whose work in "Second Man" last week was well liked, will be seen in the coming production. The play was a Theater Guild attraction in New York, but was not given here as part of its subscription list. It is a satirical comedy, adapted from the French by Chester Erskin, who also directed the production for the Theater Guild.

The second presentation of "A Symphony In Two Flats" by the Stage Guild will take place at the Willows, Oakmont, tonight, the curtain being timed for 8:45 o'clock.

For some reason or other a play titled "A Trip To Pressburg" appears to get into the papers frequently, for one that never has been produced in America except experimentally. A season or so ago it was among the Shubert plans, and, as such, was announced for presentation here. After many false starts it really was tried out last March. It is an importation from Europe, and it is now announced that it will be revised by John Colton for production next season. Mr. Colton is the playwright who, with the aid of Clemence Randolph, made that great money-maker, "Rain," from Somerset Maugham's short story, "Miss Thompson." And "Rain" made the late Jeanne Eagles.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

-With-

Patricia Pitt

The betrothal season is still on; I do believe there've been more engagements this spring than in several years. Today the engagement of a young East End girl was announced, that of Liberty McCrea Ewing.

Her parents, Judge and Mrs. Robert M. Ewing, made known her engagement to Robert Evans King, of Harrisburg, at a bridge luncheon in their home, Rosemary road, East End, this afternoon.

Miss Ewing

Liberty is a graduate of Western College for Women, Oxford, O., and is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority at Denver University; her fiance is a graduate of Penn State College and is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

And they are planning an early fall wedding.

* * *

And late this morning I received news of still another betrothal of note. The Joseph A. Becks, of Lytton avenue, are announcing today the engagement of their daughter, Martha Beck, to Alfred D. Reid, son of Judge and Mrs. Ambrose B. Reid, of the D'Arlington Apartments, Bayard street.

Announce Betrothal

Martha will be one of our autumn brides—she's planning an October wedding, to take place in the Sacred Heart Church. She's a graduate of Trinity College, Washington, and her fiance, of Georgetown University and Carnegie Institute of Technology. He also studied abroad for some time.

In honor of their daughter and her fiance, the Becks will give a dinner this evening in their home for the two families. A French bouquet of summer flowers will decorate the table.

The Drayton Heards, of Sewickley, are at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and so are the Thomas J. Crumps, of Orchard Hill Farm, Allison Park, Pa., and Jerome G. Farquhar, of Beechwood boulevard.

Syrian and French Delegates Clash In Chicago

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP.)—Charges that the great powers in directing mandates were preventing the union and development of Arabic peoples were made yesterday by Miss Alice Kandaleft, head of a girls' school at Bagdad.

Referring specially to the French mandate over her homeland, Syria, Miss Kandaleft said:

"The new imperialism over the mandated regions is merely a new form and technique of the old historic atrocity of confiscation and exploitation of one people by another."

She spoke at the International Congress of Women—which has called itself the first international women's economic conference in history. Her remarks prompted a ready defense of the French mandate by Mme. Marthe Oulie, French writer, who said the reason the mandated countries had been placed under protection of the powers was because they so far had not demonstrated that they could govern themselves.

Threatens Kingdom

Miss Kandaleft said that the dream of a new Arabic kingdom to include Egypt, Syria, Palestine, Iraq, and other territories of like cultures and desires is forestalled and theatened by the new imperialism.

The subject is one greatly played with propaganda to suit the imperialists, but there is another side to the story, she continued.

The policy in the mandates, she said, was fostered by industrial desires for new markets and sources of raw materials and added that the imperialists promoted internal strife, religious and racial prejudices, and interference with internal affairs for their own interests.

Mme. Oulie, in answer, said while she was not an admirer of imperialism, since France has had the mandate over Syria, her country has built schools, hospitals, and roads and no longer are the black people from the Sudan taken into captivity as slaves as they were before the French came.

Promise Strife

Mme. Oulie, who recently returned from a visit to the territories discussed, said she had been assured by Arabic chieftains that, should the French leave, wars among themselves again would break out and that they would kill the Christians.

As far as Syria is concerned, she said that the natives do have a voice in their government. Members of their Parliament are elected by themselves. Even in the French-controlled schools, natives, if qualified, may teach.

Cecilia Hasselstrom, noted Finnish journalist, said the world would be better off if the nations replaced wars, in which participating countries always came out poorer, with international research to promote the wealth of every country.

In recalling that Finland had paid her war debt promptly, Miss Hasselstrom offered the suggestion that the remaining debt be used for study in this country, a procedure the United States adopted in regard to the Chinese Boxer indemnity.

Thornburg Club Gives Benefit Tea, Supper

Sixty persons attended the garden bridge tea given yesterday afternoon by the Thornburg Community Club and more than 100 were guests at the hot buffet supper last night. Both affairs, which were held at the home of Mrs. J. K. Wright, Stanford road, were benefits for the club's welfare fund.

Much welfare work has been accomplished by these women. Emergency cases in the neighborhood and throughout the Chartiers Valley have been taken care of, milk has been furnished for children, coal and groceries have been delivered where needed, and even now the club is having semi-monthly sewings for the blind and for the Pittsburgh Home for Babies.

Tonight a program will be given for the entertainment of the guests. Miss Adelaide Hunter will dance, Mrs. Elizabeth Jordan, accompanied by Peter Van Duyl, will sing and the Crafton High School Orchestra will play at intervals.

Mrs. N. S. Riviere, chairman of activities, whose committee has arranged today's double affair, is assisted by Mrs. A. K. Grubbs, Mrs. J. E. Wright, Mrs. William Boggs, Miss Jane Harper, Miss Mildred Crist, Miss Rosemary Daschbach, Miss Ruth Gibson, Mrs. Craig Reynolds and Mrs. Spencer King.

Mrs. F. T. Edwards' Work For Fountain Rewarded

Children at the Hillsdale avenue school playground are enjoying a drinking fountain this year and credit for this new acquisition belongs largely to Mrs. Francis T. Edwards, chairman of the community service committee of the Dormont New Century Club.

Mrs. Edwards agitated the question of a fountain until, through combined appropriations from the borough council, the school board and the club, the fountain was finally installed.

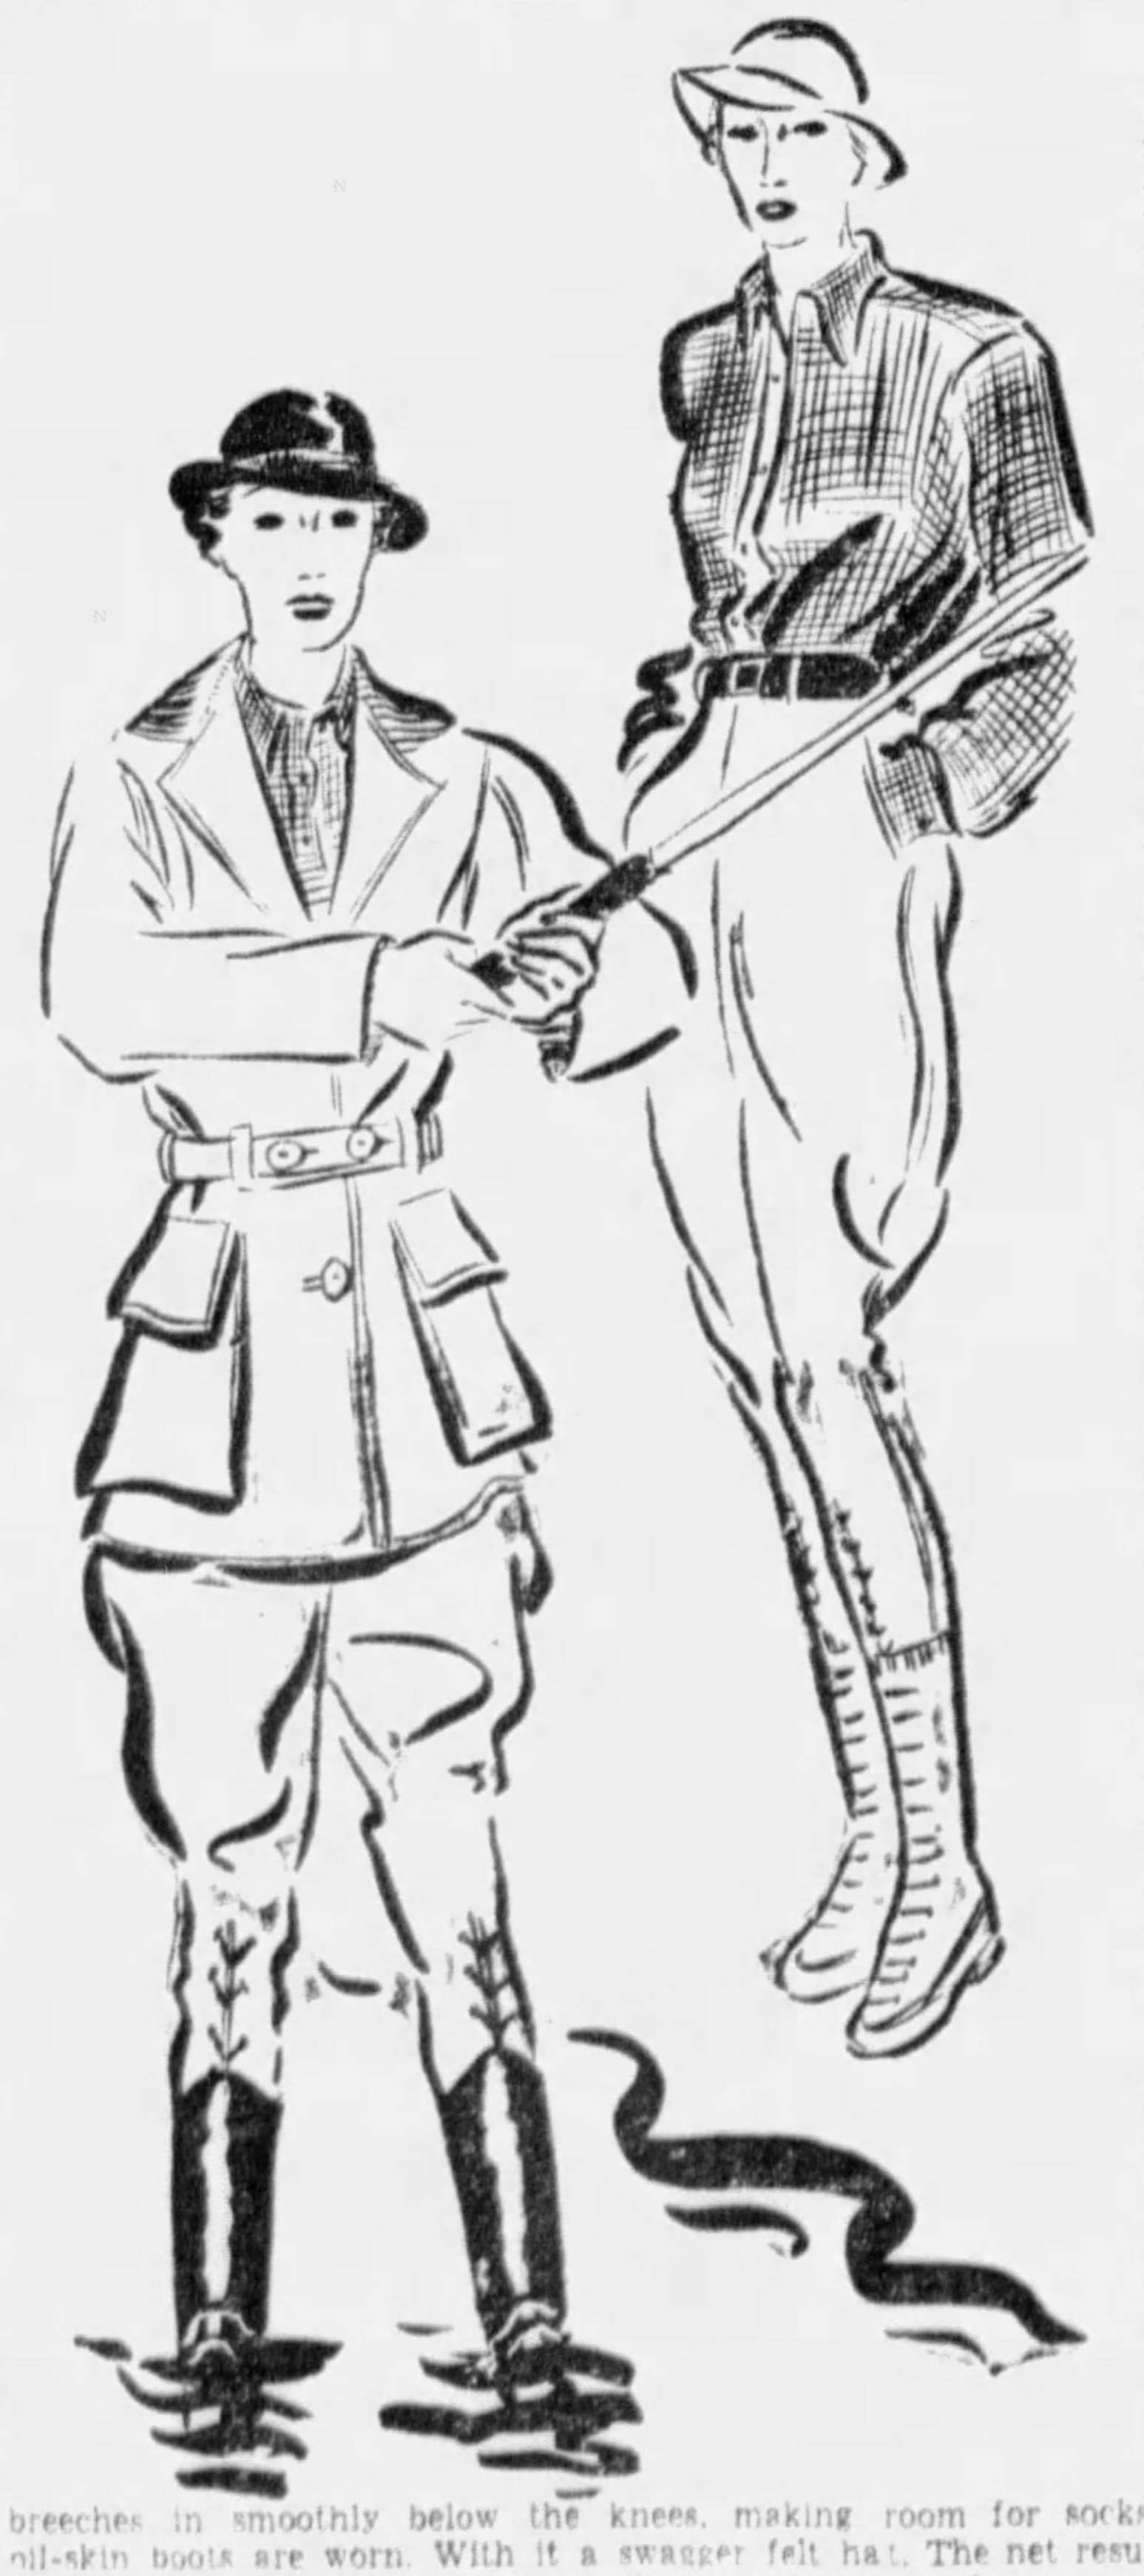
Mrs. Reno Resigning Place as Manager At Congress

Mrs. Milton C. Reno is resigning as clubhouse manager of the Congress of Clubs, a bit of news that will be received with regret by the many friends whom this popular manager has made in the 16 years that she has been associated with the Congress.

Mrs. Reno was elected to the board of the Congress in 1917 and 12 years ago was made financial secretary. This office she retained when she became house manager seven years ago. She is a past president of the Sheraden Woman's Club.

Mrs. Mildred Davidson, who has served as private secretary to three Congress presidents, will succeed Mrs. Reno as financial secretary, but a clubhouse manager has not yet been named.

HIKING, FISHING CLOTHES VARY ONLY IN FABRICS



DOES a cool mountain lake call you? Do you yearn for the relaxation that comes with lazy days, fishing? Does a dude ranch promise you the kind of fun you want? Do you long to swap your present city background for the grandeur of a rocky mountain scene? Unless your vacation plans include lolling on silvery sands, you'll want to hear a thing or two about the type of costume to take with you for fishing, hiking and camping. The set-up is a rather professional sounding one, but the consoling fact is that females look so completely charming when outfitted in these sturdy, mannish clothes.

* * *

THE TYPICAL costume is almost regulation. The fabrics vary and the appearance may be changed with different shirts, but otherwise all fishing and camping clothes look pretty much alike. Coats are always cut loosely, shirts have large roomy armholes that never bind, and slightly fitted breeches. There are several types of boots—hip-length waders for deep-stream, moccasin boots for those who cast their lines from the shore, and heavy laced "hikers" for climbing over rocks.

* * *

WHAT, then, is the key to successful fishing and camping clothes? It is the gift for choosing sturdy fabrics, easy-fitting clothes, and the genius for seasoning the costume with correct accessories. All lovers of the great-out-of-doors know this secret instinctively. They give every phase of the costume the serious attention it deserves.

* * *

THIS IS A classically perfect outfit. Necessity is ever the mother of invention, so to begin with, the cotton sailcloth of the coat and breeches is waterproofed, and in order to store away a few handy fishing tackles, the pockets are made like roomy bags. The shirt, worn open at the throat, sportsman's fashion, is of finely checked Tattersall flannel. (Emulating man again!) Laces pull the breeches in smoothly below the knees, making room for socks over which moccasin-type fringed oil-skin boots are worn. With it a swagger felt hat. The net result is a triumph of correct attire. One look at the accompanying picture will prove that at a glance.

Girls of Grandmother's Time Were More Appreciative

Why can't the modern girl find "Mr. Right"?

Here's one of them wondering.

According to Ida, she has done everything a Nice Girl Can Do to fall in love. She's willing and eager. Every time she meets a new man she thinks to herself, "Maybe he'll be the one!" But he never is! Nice? Yes. But there's always something lacking.

And so she just can't seem to fall in love. Why? Does Fate play tricks like that on some girls? Or have the Desirable Men all disappeared?

It wasn't like that in Grandma's day. Why not?

Dear Elsie:

I'm coming to you because things seem to be all wrong, and I don't know what is the matter—whether I'm to blame, or what it is.

My mother says she can't understand me at all, and I don't blame her. I can't understand myself. The trouble is, I just can't seem to fall in love and I honestly want to.

I have dreamed of having a nice little home of my own, with a nice husband and a baby or two, and I'm not missing them for lack of chances to marry. I have lots of men friends. I meet lots of nice men where I work. Men like me. But it just seems hopeless. I meet someone new. He seems interested. And for a little while I am thrilled, thinking, "Now, maybe, I have found him."

But it seems to be no use. I like them, but I can always get along without them. Yet there is no use, either, in trying to kid myself into thinking I am happy the way things are. I am not. I have a good job. My home life is happy enough. But most of my friends are married, and they seem to be getting something out of life that I am missing.

LIKE MANY OTHERS

I just look at the men I know, and they don't seem to satisfy me. Most of them seem so tame; so—well, not exactly dull, but not in any way exciting, either.

I don't know what on earth is the matter with me. Am I doomed to be an old maid? Are some people born without the ability to care for anyone? Should I just marry some one of these men I know, and stop looking for Mr. Right? Somehow, I can't get interested in that idea, either.

And I am not the only one who is this way. I know heaps of other girls in my same circumstances who can't find any man who really interests them. They're pretty and full of fun; they go around with men, and get plenty of proposals; but when it comes to marriage, nothing doing! I wonder why. Our grandmothers seemed to fall in love easy enough. Have men and women changed? IDA.

Men and women haven't changed, Ida, but jobs have. And that, I suspect, is your trouble.

You have probably met a score of fine fellows whom your grandmother would have married without a second's hesitation. But marriage was quite a different proposition to your grandmother than it is to you. It meant a great deal more to her than it does to you. It was her one way out of a life of obscurity, drudgery and humiliation; her one chance at a place in the sun.

MODERN GIRLS SPOILED

And so, though spunky little Gramma didn't "just take anything." She was duly appreciative when a nice chap came along—and not too picky about his peculiarities.

But you modern girls have been spoiled. You've had so much freedom and privilege—so much money to spend on yourselves—often so much luxury—that nothing less than a gold-plated hero will come up to your expectations.

So, when a regular human comes along, you reject him scornfully. And if you do marry him, chances are you discard him promptly, for no marriage can ever be the soft snap that your job has been and can be again.

So, if you really want a husband, you'll have to snap out of it, sister. No man is ever going to fit your fancy specifications. You must take them as your grandmother took them—with a blind eye to their faults, a grateful heart for their virtues, and a little wholesome speculation about your own shortcomings.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Two Grand Slams in One Rubber

Mrs. Alice Maxwell Winham, of Texarkana, Ark., in a recent communication states that she had the thrill that comes once in a lifetime when, with her partner, she bid and made two Grand Slams in one rubber, the climax of three days of wonderful luck at the Bridge table. The result of the two-Grand-Slam rubber was, she states, the largest score for a three-hand rubber she had ever seen.

On the first hand Mrs. Winham and her partner bid and made seven diamonds. On the second hand their opponents, in order to stop the making of a rubber with two hands, incurred a 700-point penalty. And on the third hand they bid and made seven spades. Her successful Grand Slam bidding Mrs. Winham attributes to the use of the Four-Five Notrump Convention, sometimes called "the bid that has made a million Slams." The last hand was possibly over-ambitiously bid inasmuch as the contract required for its success two finesses. The partnership hands were:

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

♠K63

♣AQJ1084

North
West East
South

The bidding:

2♠(1)	Pass	3♣(2)	Pass
3NT(3)	Pass	4♣(4)	Pass
5♣(5)	Pass	5NT(6)	Pass
6NT(7)	Pass	7♠(8)	Pass
Pass(9)	Pass

1—While South does not have adequate support, the hand contains 3½ honor tricks and some strength in clubs.

2—Of course, North shows the rebiddability of the club suit.

3—South now denies anything further than the original Forcing Takeout.

4—Disclosing a probable six-card length as well as top strength.

5—South proceeds cautiously on account of the balanced distribution of the hand.

6—Showing three Aces and the King of a bid suit.

7—Knowing that North has three Aces and a King, which must be either the club King or the spade King, and a long club suit, South correctly contracts for six.

8—North now belatedly shows support for the spades.

9—Of course, South should now bid seven notrump, as it appears quite possible that at spades it will be necessary to take 2 tricks through finesses. It is almost certain that the seven spade bid shows the spade King, and unless clubs are solid, South knows it must be necessary to finesse in that suit.

The Grand Slam was made because South was very fortunate in two respects. The spade Queen was only twice guarded in the East hand the club King was located in the West hand and was captured through finessing.

Today's Question

North-South vulnerable.
The bidding:

You, South, hold:

♠K84 ♡AK1092 ♢AQ3 ♣K5

What do you bid?

Answer—Four notrump. Here is an example of a hand ideally suited for the new Four Notrump Slamtry convention. The South hand has two Aces and the King of the bid suit, plus sufficient additional strength to justify this very strong invitation for a Grand Slam contract.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Informal Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I am having a 1 o'clock wedding at a restaurant, with only the immediate family present. I would like to know just what would be appropriate for my bridal outfit.

2—Should a corsage be worn, and what flowers would you suggest?

3—What would you suggest for the groom to wear?

4—We would like to buy flowers for both the mothers, and for the matron of honor. What, flowers would you suggest? S.

1—Perhaps, since your wedding is to be so very informal, you would like to wear an ensemble that would be appropriate for your traveling costume. This could be an ensemble, of dress and jacket, of a dark, but not too dark, light weight crepe. Or, if you wish to make these separate costumes, you might have your ensemble of a charming flowered chiffon or a printed crepe de chine.

2—A corsage of three or four gardenias is a perfect corsage for this kind of costume and wedding. Or a corsage of lilies of the valley, alone, or combined with the tiny pink sweetheart roses, is lovely. Or green or yellow or white orchids.

3—A dark blue business suit would be the appropriate attire for the groom.

4—Each bouquet for the mothers might be of sweet peas, of a shade to harmonize with the costume of each. The corsage for the matron of honor might be of roses, small yellow Talisman roses, for instance.

Morning Wedding Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please be good enough to tell me what would be proper to wear to a morning wedding? Would organdie be proper? K.

Organdie would be most appropriate and this year very fashionable to wear to a morning wedding.

"Also I had a double chin before taking Kruschen but not now. I have never dieted except once during the time I was taking Kruschen and I tried eating brown bread, boiled eggs, no potatoes or fat meat for a week or two. I got myself down to 151 lbs. but as I have a healthy appetite and like to eat everything that's going, I stopped dieting and always stay at 156 lbs. Even better than all this is the fact that Kruschen Salts have brought me through the difficult period of life without even so much as a headache."—(Mrs.) W. I.

Try one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—in 3 weeks get on the scales, and note how many pounds of fat have vanished. Kruschen will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

If one inexpensive jar (lasts 4 weeks) doesn't joyfully satisfy, money back from any drugstore. Make sure you get Kruschen—prescribed by many physicians and recognized the world over as the SAFE way to reduce and at the same time gain in health and physical charm.

By FAY KING.

It has always been a popular custom for great ladies of wealth, title and social position to entertain and encourage famous men.

In the days of the salons there was considerable rivalry among these distinguished patronesses in gathering about themselves popular poets, artists, authors, actors and musicians.

But we hear little or nothing of the wives of these famous men. They were seldom included in the invitations, and if so were so obviously merely tolerated or used as a blind for an affair, they preferred to be entirely ignored.

Jane Caryle, brilliant herself, has left a frank record of her feelings while her famous husband was being lionized by Lady Harriet Baring.

Wives of famous men seldom share their husbands' popularity with his admirers.

Given in Marriage -:- A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary Changes Her Mind About the Wedding

Lillian stared at me as I told her that Noel knew nothing as yet of the plans for his marriage to Mary. Then she chuckled delightedly.

"Why don't you hang out your shingle as a Schachten?" she asked. "Plan a pretty home wedding for a young man, and not let him know anything about it until the arrangements are all made! That's nifty work for any marriage broker! But suppose he's suddenly changed his mind?"

"Hush!" I said in a panic, as I looked apprehensively at the door through which Mary had gone to her room. "Don't for the world let Mary hear you say that. She is delighted at the prospect of marrying Noel, but she stipulates that I must not let him know she suspects anything of my plan. She wants me to tell him of his father's plan; then I think she hopes Noel, without any prompting, will see that marriage is the only solution."

Lillian threw her hands high above her head in burlesqued exaggeration.

"Can you beat it? Can you tie it?" she demanded. "Noel's been on his knees to that girl ever since he first laid eyes on her. Marrying her is just the one thing 'he don't want nothing else but.' And she throwing a coy, I-must-be-pursued stunt!"

DEFENDS MARY

"It's genuine, though, Lillian," I sprang stoutly to the defense of Dicky's lovely young niece.

"Of course it is. That is what makes it so amusing. Unless—" she stopped, and her eyes narrowed.

"Unless what?" I ventured, after waiting interminably, or so it seemed to me, for her to finish.

"You may not like to hear it," she warned.

"What does that matter, if I ought to hear it?" I countered.

"It probably is nothing," she said, "but I have been wondering if Mary's sub-conscious mind might not be back of her coyness."

"I've been thinking the same thing," I said. "It may have been fancy, but I thought there was unconscious wistfulness in Mary's eyes and voice when she spoke of that Paris trip."

NOEL VISITS

"You can't blame her for that," Lillian said with a grin. "I'd pretty nearly sell my soul for a year in Paris this minute. You have to slip it to old Phil. He knows how to bait the traps. But isn't he the determined old devil, though. I thought he'd given up his determination to give the boy back what he so fantastically considers his royal birthright."

"He certainly has an idee fixe. I imagine he really figures that if Olina were estranged from Georges he would be able to revive the old infatuation she had for Noel."

"Quite!" Lillian said. "Old Phil's got the old bee buzzing around in the bonnet again. I hope this marriage stunt you've planned will cure him. There!"—as the house phone buzzed—"I'll bet that's Noel now. Shall I answer it?"

"Please." And when she had taken down the receiver she nodded in vigorous pantomime that Noel was downstairs in the lobby. Mary flew into the room as Lillian said, "Show him up."

"Oh, Auntie Madge," with tremulous voice and nervously fluttering hands, "don't you breathe one word to Noel about that marriage thing. Just tell him what his father has proposed, and see if he has sense enough to think of the only way out."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

In the little cup-like cavity in which the hair root rests are tiny muscles. To this little house the blood streams bring groceries on which the hair thrives and has its being. Both muscles and capillaries are stimulated by a gentle pulling of the hair; it is an excellent form of scalp treatment. When the beauty seeker has a moment to spend on self adornment and improvement let her grasp her glorious locks, strand by strand, pull them gently. She should conclude her treatment with a heavy massage along the hair line at the back of the neck, work on the arteries that are located there.

By no possible chance can the sallow complexion be mistaken for the lovely rich olive tegument. No. It is a horrid, greenery-yallery surface and it looks sick. No external application will do a bit of good; you have to work from the inside out. In some manner the system is picking up poisonous wastes. The lovely ivory-rose texture is restored by stimulating the avenues of elimination, flushing the lungs with fresh air, drinking six or eight glasses of water a day, scouring the entire skin surface of the body with soap and water and a heavy brush, keeping the intestinal tract active. Women who suffer from a sallow complexion note that the condition varies. Changes may be due to changes in the diet; the right one calls for fruit juices, green salads, vegetables, not much heavy food.

Pneumonia a Summer as Well as Winter Disease

Pneumonia is a disease which may occur during the summer, as well as the winter months. This disease is often referred to as "captain of the men of death;" it respects neither age nor sex, nor season of the year.

Pneumonia used to be called "inflammation of the lungs" and usually follows a minor cold or some infection of the nose, throat or ears. It is most common during cold days and in changeable weather. But, as I have said, it oftens occurs during the summer months when there is apt to be greater carelessness about a cold.

It is a good plan never to allow your body to become chilled. If you are harboring the germs of pneumonia, or are exposed to these germs, you are liable when chilled to contract the disease. This warning should be observed particularly by children and elderly persons who are extremely susceptible to this dreaded disease.

Chilling of the body lowers the resistance of the body against disease. It leads to irritation and congestion of the lungs, which is the first stage of pneumonia. Such congestion frequently occurs when bathing on cold days, or from lying on the ground or on any cold surface after becoming overheated. It may be traced to carelessness in passing from a warm room to colder air outside without wearing the necessary protective clothing, or it may follow sitting in a draft after exercise.

Of course, one form of pneumonia may be a complication of some infectious disease. This is especially common in children who are underweight and undernourished and are stricken with some childhood infection. For example, it may follow measles, whooping cough or scarlet fever. Acute infectious diseases of children should never be ignored and considered as a "normal event" of childhood.

Bear in mind that pneumonia is a contagious disease. Persons afflicted with this disease should be isolated and other members of the household kept away from the sick room. It is always a good plan, if possible, to take the afflicted individual to a hospital. Here he will be made comfortable, receive the proper care and attention, and not be a menace to the health of those at home.

Pneumonia is a serious disease. Its oncoming is sudden and often overwhelming. Its prevention is far easier than its cure. Protect against pneumonia at all times of the year. Do not neglect colds and infections. Avoid drafts and, above all, never allow yourself to become chilled.

Pain in the chest, irritating cough and fever are signs that must never be overlooked. Immediate medical attention is essential. Neglect may lead to a serious siege of pneumonia, with a stormy and difficult convalescence.

Household Hints

A teaspoonful of marmalade will be found a splendid substitute for mixed candied peel in cakes.

When making the kitchen curtains cut a good-sized hem, about thre inches, at both the top and bottom. They always shrink and this will take care of that; at the same time the even hems permit reversing the curtains and causing general wear on both ends.

MORE than a year old and still a "best" blouse! Chipso loosens dirt at elbows and cuffs and saves hard rubbing that wears clothes thin.

GOOD for another season—this last year's yellow pique dress has not faded in the many times it has been washed in Chipso.

YELLOW dotted swiss with Irish lace collar looks bright and new after each Chipso washing.

BRILLIANT red and white cotton print that has come up smiling from many washings in Chipso.

ROSY ORCHID pongee sports suit a year old and still good for this summer after dozens of tubbings in Chipso.

"Chipso leaves my hands smooth—no wonder it's safer for clothes!"

says devoted mother of four

Serene, smiling, young in sympathetic understanding of her four growing children—Mrs. Raymond Murphy of Watertown, Mass., is a good sport about her housekeeping. If, for instance, the children want to drag most of their clothes to the basement to use as "wardrobe" for their new "play"—well, clothes will wash, in CHIPSO, and no harm done!

There are two great advantages in washing with Chipso, Mrs. Murphy finds. Chipso suds are brisk enough to soak dirty playclothes, aprons, towels, clean without the destructive wear of hard rubbing. Yet Chipso suds are gentle. They don't make your hands rough . . . they are safe even for silk stockings and the nicest colored clothes.

It is certainly convenient to be able to use one kind of soap, safely, for everything in the wash. SAFELY—that is the big item! "Chipso hasn't faded this last-summer's dress a mite," Mrs. Murphy told us happily. "And the children have sweaters that are fully two years old—outgrown, but still soft and unshrunken after many Chipso washings."

Chipso is not adulterated with the harsh substances contained in inferior soaps which gradually weaken fabrics and dull their color. Chipso loosens dirt harmlessly by RICHER SUDS. That is why Chipso-washed clothes stay new-looking for years.

Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong granulated soaps and powders. Get Chipso from your grocer. At its low price, Chipso is the biggest value in rich, safe soap on the market today!

HUBBELL'S PITCHING KEEPS GIANTS' LEAD INTACT

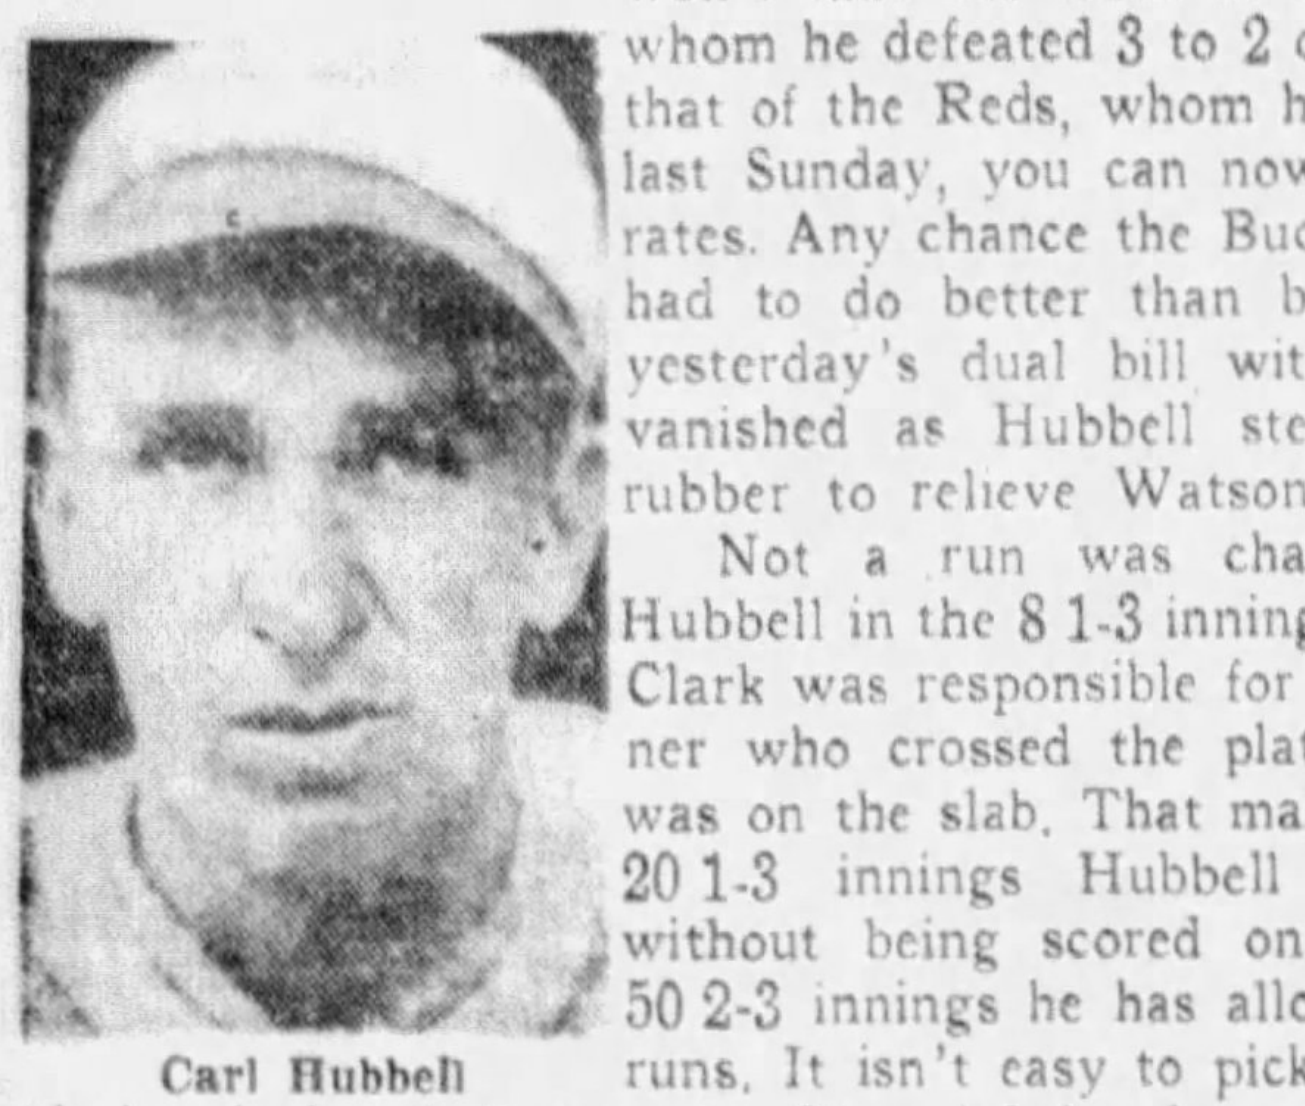
SPORTS

—By JAMES J. LONG—

Hubbell Keeps Up Pace.
Four Wins Pirate Limit.
Pilots Hit Since 1931.

Almadas Like Wagners.
Bonthron Aids Lovelock.
Hard Net Fight Looms.

GIANT STAR UNHARMED BY LONG GAME



Carl Hubbell

IF THE STRAIN of hurling that 18-inning 1-to-0 victory over St. Louis on July 2 affected the pitching form of Carl Hubbell in any way, it was only to improve it. And if you won't take the word of the Cardinals, whom he defeated 3 to 2 on July 13, or that of the Reds, whom he beat 1 to 0 last Sunday, you can now ask the Pirates. Any chance the Bucs might have had to do better than break even in yesterday's dual bill with the Giants vanished as Hubbell stepped on the rubber to relieve Watson Clark.

Not a run was charged against Hubbell in the 8 1-3 innings he worked. Clark was responsible for the lone runner who crossed the plate while Carl was on the slab. That makes a total of 20 1-3 innings Hubbell has pitched without being scored on. In his last 50 2-3 innings he has allowed only six runs. It isn't easy to pick out a better pitcher in baseball than the Giant left-hander.

Incidentally, by stopping the Pirates after they had won four games in succession, Hubbell kept the locals from breaking their season's record. The Gibsons never have won more than four in a row this year. They have captured four straight six times.

THE RESIGNATION OF Bill Killefer as manager of the Browns, if not suggested by Owner Phil Ball, only hastened a change that was certain to be made in 1934. The appointment of Allan Sothoron probably is only temporary. That's the second managerial shift in the American League during the course of the present season. Cleveland made the first.

Managerial changes have been unusually numerous in the major leagues in the last two seasons. Ten of the 16 clubs have made shifts since the close of the 1931 campaign, five in each league. Jewel Ens, John McGraw, Rogers Hornsby, Wilbert Robinson and Dan Howley were unseated in the National, and the American saw the ousting of Donie Bush, Walter Johnson, Roger Peckinpaugh, Shauno Collins and Killefer. Bush and Johnson have since been appointed to new leadership posts.

AN OLD STORY in baseball has to do with the time 40 years ago when the late Al Wagner, established as a professional in the minors, was asked by the manager of his club in Ohio where another player could be obtained in a hurry to meet an emergency. Al replied that he had a brother who was "pretty good."

The brother was Honus, back in Carnegie. Instructed by wire to report at once at the club's expense, Honus didn't wait for a passenger train. He went out on the first freight. How he speedily eclipsed Al and the rest of the club, and went on to become the greatest player baseball ever has known, is history.

ALMOST A PARALLEL case, as far as the first part of it is concerned, involves the Almada brothers in the Pacific Coast League. For three years, Louie Almada, playing for Seattle, was considered one of the best outfield prospects in the far West and big league scouts were watching him. In the spring of 1932 he took his younger brother, Mel, to the Seattle club's training camp at Santa Cruz, introduced him to Owner Bill Klepper and requested the latter to find a baseball job for the boy, explaining that Mel was without experience. Klepper knew of no opening, but decided to let the youngster work out with his own club. After a trial of two weeks, Mel won an outfield job with Seattle and Louie was released. Recently Mel was purchased by the Boston Red Sox and Louie remains in the minors. Such is baseball.

Guy Bush

WHAT PATIENCE AND practice will do for a pitcher is demonstrated by the results that Guy Bush, of the Cubs, now is getting with the screwball. Bush always has been a good pitcher. Except for his first full year, 1925, he never lost more games than he won in a major league season. In 1932 he rolled up 19 victories.

But right now Bush is better than ever, and it's all due to his having gained control of the screwball. He has used the delivery for more than a year, but never was quite sure that he could make it behave. Guy kept working away at it, however, and now it appears that his long struggle for control of it has been rewarded.

JUST HOW WELL Bush now is able to make the screwball do his bidding may be judged from the fact that in his last 39 innings he has given only two bases on balls. In the first part of that stretch he went through 22⅔ innings without walking a batter.

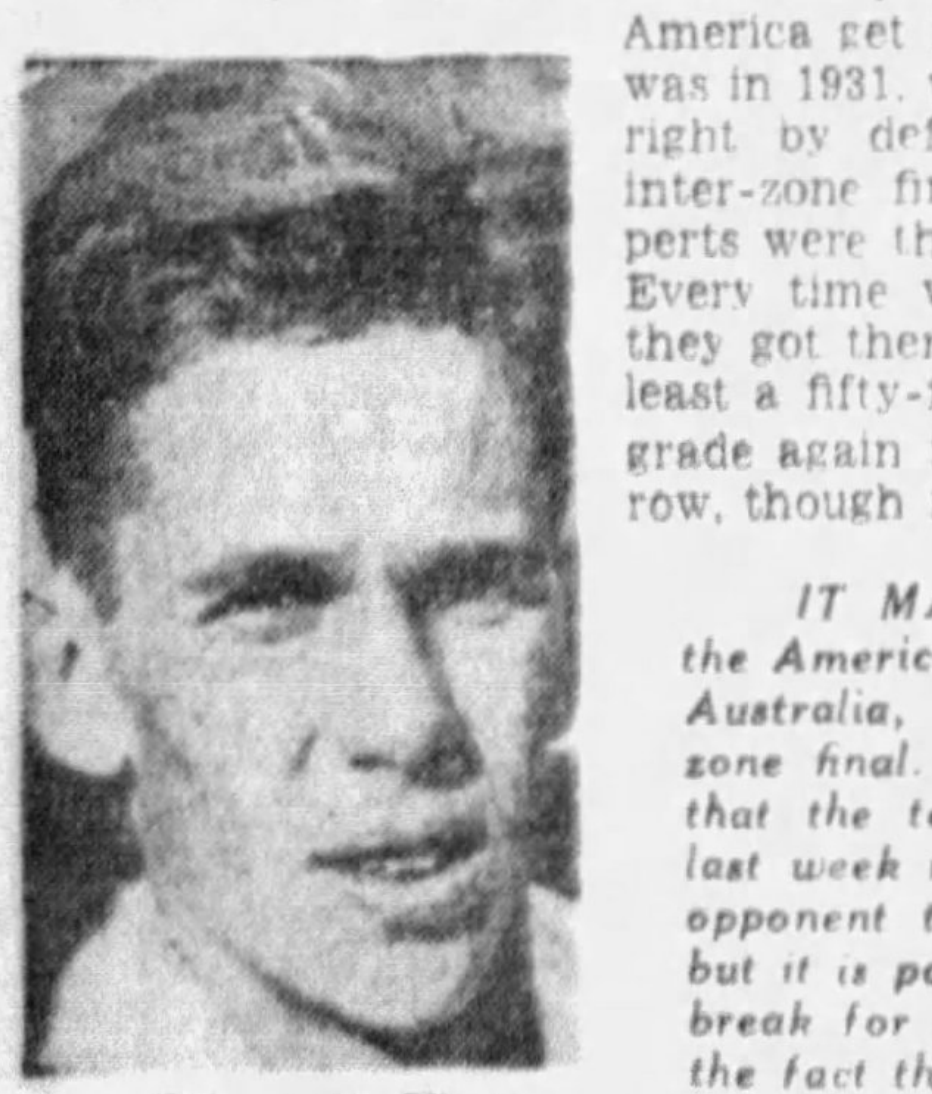
The delivery may enable the Cub right-hander to beat his 1932 record of 20 wins. He has 11 victories to his credit at present.

AMAZING AS WAS Jack Lovelock's world record mile in 4:07.6, track experts think Oxford's great runner would have done better if he had had the same competition and had been running at Cambridge instead of at Princeton. For while the Princeton track is fairly fast, it is held to be slower than that at the Harvard Stadium. Yet, on the faster track at Harvard one week earlier, the best that Lovelock could do was 4:12.6. The answer is to be found in the pace and competition that he was given at Princeton. He didn't have any Bill Bonthrons to run against at Harvard.

IT WAS THE terrific pace set by Bonthron, the way the Princeton star made him let out everything he had to win, that spurred Lovelock on to the fastest mile ever run by a human being. Bonthron not only beat the former world record himself with his 4:08.7, the best mile in history by an American and the second best by any one, but made Lovelock's unheard of figures possible.

Lovelock does not believe he has reached his limit. He thinks a mile in 4:06 is not beyond his powers. "With a faster third quarter, I think I might do the mile in 4:06," he said. "Always I have been lucky to have a fast kick in the last 440 yards, and if I could reach the three-quarter in 3:06, I feel sure I could cover the last quarter in an even 60 seconds."

WHETHER OR NOT the United States is to be the challenger for the Davis Cup this year for the fifth time since France lifted the famous tennis trophy, emblematic of the world team championship, in 1927, will be determined in the inter-zone final against England, starting tomorrow at Auteuil, France.



Ellsworth Vines

In only one year during that period did a country other than America get into the challenge round. That was in 1931, when the English team won the right by defeating the Americans in the inter-zone final. Uncle Sam's racquet experts were the challengers in 1928-29-30-32. Every time without success, it is true, but they got there, nevertheless, and there is at least a fifty-fifty chance they will make the grade again in the matches opening tomorrow, though not without a hard fight.

IT MAY BE a favorable turn for the Americans that England, rather than Australia, is to be met in the inter-zone final. On paper it would appear that the team that defeated Australia last week naturally would be a tougher opponent than the Anzac combination, but it is possible to figure out a helpful break for the United States players in the fact that they will not have to cope with Jack Crawford. There is a psychological reason, if nothing else, for the Americans might not be able to forget that Crawford had defeated Ellsworth Vines, this country's main prop, at Wimbledon, and the recollection would hardly serve to help their confidence or their play. The English beat Australia, it is true, but they didn't beat Crawford, who won both of his singles matches, and it's just as well that the United States players won't have to worry about him. Defeating England will be no easy contract, for Fred Perry, Bunny Austin, Pat Hughes and H. G. N. Lee are worthy foemen for the best in the game and the team is one of the best balanced ever to appear in Davis Cup competition. But in their right stride, Vines and Wilmer Allison look good for at least two of the four singles, and there appears to be an edge for George Lott and John Van Ryn in the doubles, which may be the determining factor.

LOVELOCK FAILS IN NEW TRY AT RECORD

HAMILTON, Ont., July 20.—(AP.)—Although he twice bettered 4:14 for the mile in the United States, Jack Lovelock, the sensational New Zealander, who made the distance in 4:07 at Princeton last Saturday, headed back to England with the rest of the Oxford-Cambridge track team today without the Canadian record for eight furlongs.

Lovelock's shot at the Canadian mark of 4:14, established in 1930 by Reg Thomas, of England, was no more successful than the English team's efforts against the Hamilton Olympic Club in the final meet of their American visit last evening. Hamilton won the meet seven firsts to four, and Lovelock, hampered by a heavy track and the absence of stiff competition to push him along, was clocked in 4:17.4 as he won his event with yards to spare.

Hornsby Mentioned As Pilot of Browns

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—(INS.)—The resignation of Bill Killefer as manager of the St. Louis Browns may bring Rogers Hornsby back into the managerial ranks, it was intimated today as President Phil Ball scanned a list of prospects.

On receipt of a telegram from Vice President L. C. McEvoy in Washington that Killefer had resigned, Ball announced that Al Sothoron, coach, would take charge for the remainder of the Eastern trip.

Ball declined to discuss who he had in mind as the next manager of the last-place Browns, but the name of Hornsby, now second-baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals, was mentioned. The Cardinals would agree to the transfer, it was said.

UMP'S REVERSAL OF DECISION STIRS FANS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Hubbell rhymes with trouble, which is neither here nor there but Hubbell IS trouble in the bright lexicon of George Gibson's Pirates, who, today might be right on the heels of the league-leading Giants were it not for the self-effacing southpaw who has earned the right to be called one of the greatest left-handers baseball has produced.

It wasn't the fact that Carl recorded his fourteenth victory of the season as the Pirates and Giants split even in yesterday's spectacular doubleheader. And Hubbell's feat of running his shutout string to 20 odd innings is beside the question. The big issue is seen in the significance of Hubbell's performance at a time when an impending double defeat might mean the demoralization of a flag-hunting ball club.

TERRY RESOURCEFUL

Manager Terry figured it was imperative for the Giants to win one of yesterday's games. When he dropped the opener he ordered Hubbell to the bullpen for any emergency of the nightcap. The emergency developed in a jiffy and the quiet Hubbell was on the mound before the first inning was over.

The perfect pitcher, Carl proceeded to serve screwballs, curveballs, fast balls, change of pace balls. Backed with great control and the ideal pitching temperament the offerings threw a wet blanket on the whole picture. The 22,000 fans, the largest crowd since 1931 at the Oakland Orchard, sat quietly as the great pitcher shut the door in the faces of the Pirates. His team had made four runs in the first round and he reached the scene just in time to prevent a deadlock. The Pirates scored three runs in the first, but the Giants won handily, 7 to 3, as a result of Hubbell's pitching.

Larry French was not far below Hubbell's stature as he defeated the Giants, 4 to 1, in the opener. It was Larry's eleventh victory.

WILD SCENE IN OPENER

The fourth inning of the opener seethed with excitement after Umpire Barr had ruled a fair catch by Lindstrom on Fitzsimmons' liner to center with runners on third and first and two out. After a wild wrangle of 10 minutes, Umpire Moran upheld the foe as he reversed his colleague. The excitement started anew in the Pirate side. The scene was the most hostile of the season in Oakland. New York players insist that Lindy actually did trap the ball. In any event his play was the greatest in many years at Forbes Field.

The Bucs won the opener in the sixth when they scored two runs on two singles, a long fly, a stolen base and Mancuso's wide throw to second. The Pirates added single runs in the seventh and eighth.

The Giants made six hits and as many runs off Hal Smith and Bill Harris in three rounds to clinch the second scrap.

George Hooper, director of boys' activities at the Soho Community House, is chairman of the picnic committee.

CLARKSBURG WINS

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 20.—(AP.) Clarksburg's American Legion Juniors yesterday defeated the Petersburg Juniors, 21-1, here, to win the Northern West Virginia baseball championship. Huntington has won one game from Parkersburg in their series. The second game will be played tomorrow and Clarksburg will face the winner for the state championship early next week.

VINES-AUSTIN IN OPENER

DRAW IS MADE FOR CUP PLAY TOMORROW

PARIS, July 20.—(AP.)—The draw today for the Davis Cup inter-zone tennis competition pits Ellsworth Vines, the American champion, against Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, of England, in the first of two singles matches tomorrow on the Roland Garros Stadium court.

Wilmer Allison will play Fred Perry, the British No. 1 star, in the second singles match of the series, which is to decide the challenger of France for the international trophy.

Neither team disclosed its doubles line-up formally, but John Van Ryn and George M. Lott, Jr., the American combination, expects to oppose Perry and George Patrick Hughes.

DOUBLES SATURDAY

The doubles will be played Saturday, followed on Sunday by the closing two singles encounters, in which Austin opposes Allison and Vines meets Perry.

Although the Van Ryn-Lott team has been showing fine form in practice, Bernon S. Prentice, chairman of the American Davis Cup committee, hinted after the draw that Keith Gledhill and Vines, the national champions, might be substituted for the original selection. Gledhill was named an alternate when the American team was announced a few days ago on the closing of entries.

AMERICANS FAVORED

The United States ruled a decided favorite in French betting circles. Some uncertainty still exists as to the condition of Perry, the British ace, who strained a shoulder muscle in the matches with Australia last week.

Prentice announced the receipt of a cablegram of encouragement from President Roosevelt. It said:

"Good luck to Davis Cup team. (Signed) Franklin Roosevelt."

Prentice, who said the President's message to the team had acted like a tonic, sent the following acknowledgement to the White House in Washington:

"Many thanks. Your cable great inspiration to our team."

Movies Shown In Strong's Suit

DETROIT, July 20.—(INS.)—Ken Strong's $250,000 damage suit against Dr. Alfred D. La Ferte neared its conclusion in Federal Court here today as attorneys for the former all-America football player called rebuttal witnesses.

Motion pictures of Strong playing professional football last fall were introduced by defense attorneys yesterday to disprove Strong's contention that an operation wrecked his athletic career. Four doctors also testified for the defense that Strong's days in baseball were numbered whether or not the wrist had been operated on.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A lot of good stuff has been written about Roosevelt's "new deal," and that's all right. But I would like to introduce my audience today to what I call the square deal, which has been going on for the last dozen years or so.

Nick Altrock

Back in the good old days of 1929 when a seat within hearing distance of a good Broadway show cost $7.70, if you could by any chance buy it at the box office, and when folks were wearing 16-cylinder automobiles for watch charms and spinach cost $1.98 a peck, baseball didn't get a dose of rugged individualism and raise its prices up into telephone numbers.

In 1929, you could see a big league ball game for the same price you could have gazed at Napoleon Lajoie, old Cy Young and Tinker to Evers to Chance. And today, when things are tougher, I guess the fans still remember because they turn out the way they did in Auld Lang Syne. If I'm wrong, just check up the attendance at our game with the Yanks last Fourth of July when only 77,000 New York citizens came out to see the goings-on.

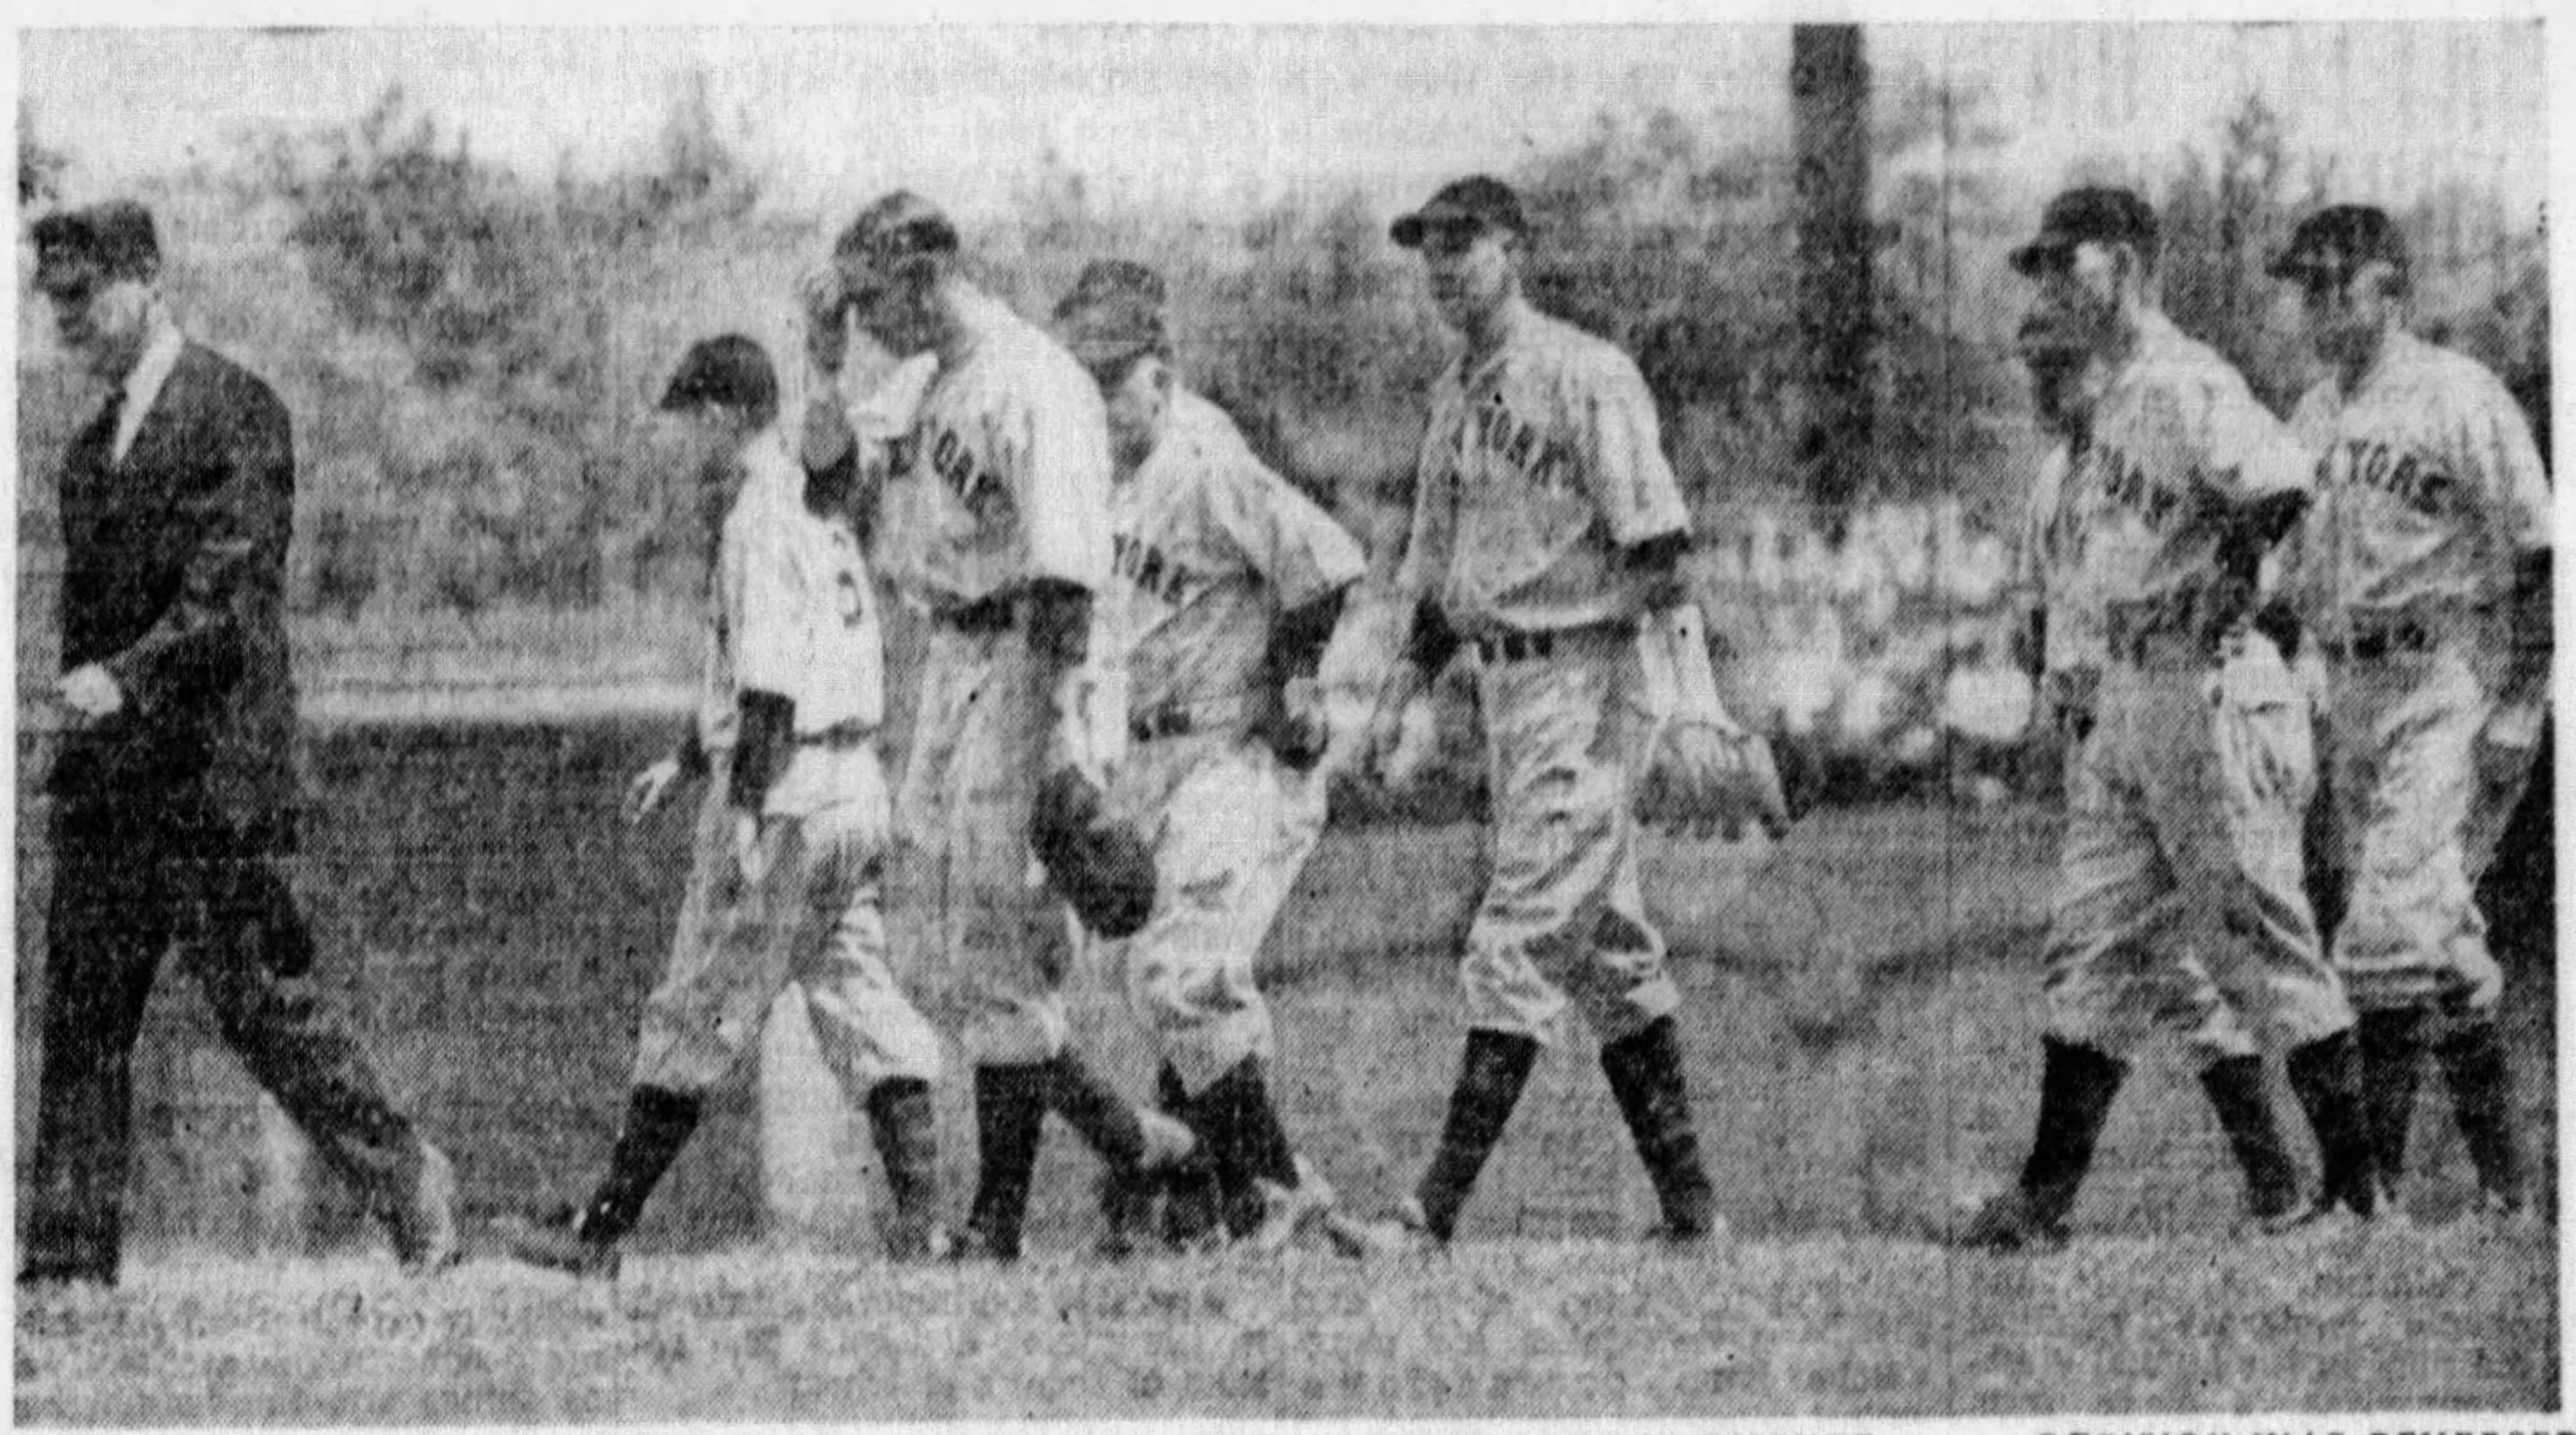
'Well, We'll Ask the Other Ump What He Thinks'



MANAGER BILL TERRY, OF GIANTS, LEADS TEAMMATES AFTER UMPIRE BARR IN DISPUTE . . . . . DECISION WAS REVERSED

Crucial moment in the argument at Forbes Field yesterday when Umpire Barr first ruled Freddie Lindstrom, of the Pirates, had made a great catch of a liner, was talked into believing he might have been wrong and put it up to his colleague, Umpire Charley Moran, who reversed him, with the result that New York scored a run. The Pirates finished out the game under protest and the fans were at a high pitch for the remainder of the afternoon. In this Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture, we see Barr and members of the Giants trooping over to Umpire Moran for his ruling. The game was delayed for more than 10 minutes.

KING TO BOX SLAUGHTER

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Amateur bouts, Roosevelt Club of Shaler Township, Hickey Park, Millvale.

Charley Retzlaff vs. Jack Pallat, 10 rounds, and Young Geno vs. Johnny Fitzpatrick, 6 rounds, Chicago.

Maxie Rosenbloom vs. Fred Lenhart (non-title), 10 rounds, Tacoma.

Roy Wallace vs. Rosy (Kid) Baker, 10 rounds, Indianapolis.

Sammy Slaughter, Bud Taylor's hard-hitting Negro middleweight, who recently boxed Ted Yarosz in Cleveland, will make his local debut one week from tonight against Jack King, of Little Rock, in the North Braddock Bowl.

King, who is being managed by James (Red) Mason, and has grown from a welterweight into a full-fledged middleweight, plans to make his home here if he goes over in winning style against Slaughter.

Bunny Buntach is bent on revenge in sending his Sunny Jim McVey against Charley Belanger, the Canadian veteran, in the windup at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night. Belanger knocked out George Panka, a Buntach fighter, at the Arena during the past winter. He figures to win over McVey, too, unless the Negro left hook artist can nail him with a finishing punch, for he is one of the smartest boxers among the big fellows.

Between Rounds

A feud is flaring in the Hill district between the adherents of Max (Kingfish) Elling and Bobby Ray, and these two welterweights are bound to meet shortly. According to Ray, Elling started it by telling folks he was a bum, and Bobby countered by declaring that if that is so Elling is two bums and he can lick both of them. So what?

Patrick Henneley, midleweight of the Irish amateur boxing team, was greeted at the Pennsylvania Station by his uncle, P. J. Carroll, of 2815 State street, North Side, as the Irish team stopped off en route to Chicago to meet the Chicago Golden Gloves champions in Soldier Field on the night of August 2.

Honus Wagner, Pie Traynor, Larry French, Bill Swift, Steve Swetonic, Tony Piet, Heine Meine, Arky Vaughan and other members of the Pirates will be guests at the amateur boxing show of 10 bouts to be staged by the Roosevelt Club of Shaler Township at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight.

The card for the Millvale show: Al Quail vs. Joe Green, Leo Sweeney vs. Eddie Katfish, Bill Schwerin vs. Zeke Walker, Phil Trrmmenell vs. Joey Backo, Art (Tarzan) McGivern vs. Steve Kobeda, Johny Tirpak vs. Frank Rickard, Joe Sulk vs. Johnny Burke, Johnny Schuster vs. John Petro, Frankie Wingo vs. Frankie Salak and Wade Stevens vs. Billy Miller.

Jimmy Reilly has been substituted for Charley Baxter as the opponent of Louie Severo in the first 10-round bout at Hickey Park next Monday night. Elmer Wilson boxes Johnny Hazel in the second bout.

August 7 has been tentatively set as the new date for the Ted Yarosz-Vince Dundee bout at oFrbes lFeld.

Regis Leheny, after a fling in the minor leagues, comes back to the local sandlots tonight. The southpaw will be the battery mate of Jack Cummings, when the Parmelee club, of the Greater Pittsburgh League, clashes with the Bloomfield Civics at Dean Field.

In the City League an important battle is scheduled. The Whitaker club and Books will battle it out for the league leadership at Olympia Park. Books are hitting a sensational gait in the second-half race, and should they push Squire Ackerman's club back a notch in this game, the second-half title probably will go to Olympia Park. Homewood travels to Brentwood to meet the Gillespies in another City League game.

Whitaker defeated the Cochranes, 8 to 5, in a City League game in which it garnered 19 hits off Spencer.

FIGHT RESULTS

AVOID SHAVING IRRITATION URGES SKIN CLINIC!

SERIOUS skin trouble is traced to faulty shaving by the Gillette Skin Clinic. This department, headed by an eminent dermatologist, was founded because of the prevalence of disorders caused or aggravated by shaving.

"Avoid irritation, if you would keep your skin clear and free from blemishes," warns the Skin Clinic. "Irritation lessens the self-protective action of the normal skin and favors skin troubles. Be sure to use a sharp blade, because a sharp blade is not irritating to normal skin."

This advice, issued by the Skin Clinic, is based upon independent research and a nation-wide survey conducted among doctors and dermatologists. The "BLUE BLADE" is made to meet the requirements of skin specialists. It is extremely sharp—23% to 42% sharper than other blades examined by photo-electric method in a recent competitive test.

To avoid skin irritation—and enjoy a degree of shaving comfort you may never have experienced—we urge you to try the "BLUE BLADE". Gillette Safety Razor Company, Boston, Mass.

SENATORS TIE YANKS FOR LEAD

RUTH'S ERROR PAVES WAY FOR DEFEAT

Associated Press.

New York's two league leading ball clubs, the Giants and the Yankees, both are having real battles on their hands, but in yesterday's round at least they were of entirely different varities.

While the Yanks were being shoved back into a tie with Washington's Senators through the medium of an 8-4 defeat at the hands of the Chicago White Sox, while the Senators were nosing out the St. Louis Browns, 8-7, the Giants very nearly went into fisticuffs with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

RULING CAUSES NEAR RIOT

A disputed decision in the fourth inning of the opener, when even the umpires failed to agree, caused an argument that just stopped short of a riot and delayed the game 15 minutes. The question was whether Freddie Lindstrom had caught Fred Fitzsimmon's liner or not. Umpire Barr first ruled it an out, then after a consultation with Moran, at third, decided it was a hit and Gus Mancuso had scored the first run of the game.

Both teams joined in the dispute and the police were kept busy for a while restraining the throng of 22,000. When things calmed down, the Bucs went on to bunch their hits behind Larry French's fine hurling and win 4-1. The Giants opened up early in the second clash, scored four runs in the first frame and won, 7-3, when Carl Hubbell pitched great relief ball after Watson Clark had been thumped off the slab in the first inning.

ERROR BRINGS DEFEAT

The Yankee's troubles all came in the seventh inning as the Pale Hose got started after Babe Ruth muffed an easy fly and walloped Walter Brown and Wilcy Moore for seven runs. The defeat ended the Yanks' nine-game winning streak.

St. Louis, under the guidance of Al Sothoron after Bill Killefer's resignation as manager yesterday morning, came from behind to tie the score against Washington, but succumbed to a three-hit, two-run rally in the eighth.

The Cleveland Indians had to go 13 innings to beat Boston's Red Sox, 8-7, scoring the winning run on an error by Bob Seeds at first base. But the victory left them only a half game away from fifth place as Detroit split a double-header with the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's won the opener, 7-3, with a five-run outburst in the third inning, then the Tigers hammered out 18 hits and a 10-5 victory in the second clash.

The humble Cincinnati Reds shoved Brooklyn into seventh place in the National League by edging out a 6-to-5 victory. The defeat put the Dodgers a point behind the Phillies, who, with the St. Louis, Boston and Chicago Nationals, had an open date.

BROIDA MEETS EDDIE JACOBS

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 20.—(AP.)—Five out of seven seeded players in the West Virginia open tennis championships enter the quarter-final rounds today with two unseeded entries who have furnished the only upsets so far.

Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, No. 1 seeded player and defending champion, mets Frank Broida, Harvard player, who lives in Pittsburgh, in today's matches. Jacobs has not been pushed to defend his title, winning yesterday's match from his townmate, Henry Barclay, 6-1, 6-2.

Broida was forced into three sets by Twink Starr, Huntington (W. Va.) veteran, but rallied to win, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Harvey Lake, of Ocean City, N. J., furnished the only big upset of the tournament by blasting Alex Keiles, of Baltimore, No. 4 seeded star, into retirement, 6-2, 6-4. Others in the quarter finals are Elmer Rudy, of Baltimore, playing Barney Welsh, Duquesne University (unseeded); Paul Kunkle, of Cincinnati, seeded No. 2, playing W. R. Thompson, of Washington and Jefferson College (unseeded), and Sam Cohn, of Beckley, sixth in the seeding, who meets Lake.

Women's singles contestants also play the quarter-finals today, Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, defending her title against Miss Bobsy Gurney, of Washington. Reba Kirson, of Baltimore, meets Dorothy Anderson, of Butler, Pa. Frances Grimes, of Morgantown, faces Louise Hofmeister, of Chicago. Muriel Adams, of Indianapolis, who triumphed over Kathryn Pearson, of Houston, Tex., gets a bye in the quarter-finals.

LOCAL GOLFERS BATTLE ON FOUR LINKS

By TOM BIRKS

Golf tournaments are being staged on four Pittsburgh district courses today.

One-day medal play competitions are on the program at the Field Club, where members of the Traffic Club of Pittsburgh are staging their annual links battle; at Alcoma, where Pittsburgh district Y. M. C. A.'s are battling, and at Stanton Heights, where the Sons of the American Revolution are the contestants.

The fourth tournament on the day's slate is the Nemacolin Country Club's invitation affair. First and second rounds of match play, for which a big field qualified yesterday, are being staged. George Cochran, of Nemacolin, won the medal with a 79.

Highland, the defending champion, Oakmont, St. Clair and Shannopin yesterday qualified for the final in the annual Western Pennsylvania's men's team championships. Allegheny and Longue Vue failed to enter teams in the play.

MRS. THORN VICTOR

Mrs. J. Thorn, of the Wildwood Country Club, captured low gross in the Valley Heights Country Club invitation tourney yesterday with a 90.

Mrs. F. Barrett, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, won low net with a 77, and Mrs. J. Masury, of the South Hills Country Club, took home second prize with a net 79. Mrs. Hansell won the low net tourney for the home players with a 92.

With only about $500 gathered together it is likely that only Tom Barr and Jerome Rosenberg will represent Pittsburgh in the National public links tourney at Portland, Ore., in September. A team of public linkers will travel to New Castle on Sunday to meet a team of the New Castle Field Club.

Mrs. M. Foster, of the Fairmont Country Club, turned in a net 76 to win the second annual women's invitation tourney at the Greene County Country Club. She had a gross of 100.

The crack Edgewood Club, pressing once more into position of chief threat to the P. A. A. supremacy in the P. T. A. Inter-Club League chase for the Davis Keg, last evening swept the first four jousts of the playoff of its postponed fray with the Shannopin on the Edgewood and Pittsburgh Golf Club lots. Capt. Smith showed good form beating Harry Wald, runnerup for the Pittsburgh Parks trophy in 1932, in a hard-fought 6-3, 6-2 debate.

In the meantime, Charley Lockhart and McCook Reed were carrying Suburbanite colors to singles and doubles wins over Lampus and Bud Leyda. Lockhart won, 8-6, 6-4, over the Shannopin boss, while Reed ran afoul of an unexpectedly hot time with Leyda, who went under, 6-4, 11-13, 6-2. Lockhart and Reed, forcing the net, sped through the doubles, 6-2, 6-1. Edgewood now lurks eight and one-half matches to the rear of the pace-making P. A. A. array. The remainder of the Shannopin session is fixed for the morrow.

In Division II of the P. T. A. loop, Ralph Snively, Rockwood Reserve tilter, dropped an extra-canto melee with Bill Rose of Westinghouse Seconds, 5-7, 6-3, 6-1. The result lengthened the Westinghouse victory over the Rocks, 6-3, eight of the nine scrimmages having been reeled off previously, the East Pittsburghers thus progressing to within three notches of the top-place Belmonters. The postponed Emsworth-Minnetonka affair will be staged on the Verona courts Sunday.

HITCHCOCK'S TEAM LOSES

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., July 20.—Thomas Hitchcock, Jr.'s Sandy Point Club was given a surprise defeat last night by the Wartnaby team, losing 12 to 8. Gerald Balding, brilliant British internationalist, led the Warinaby team in victory. It was the first round game of the National Junior Polo championship series.

ENTRIES CLOSE TUESDAY

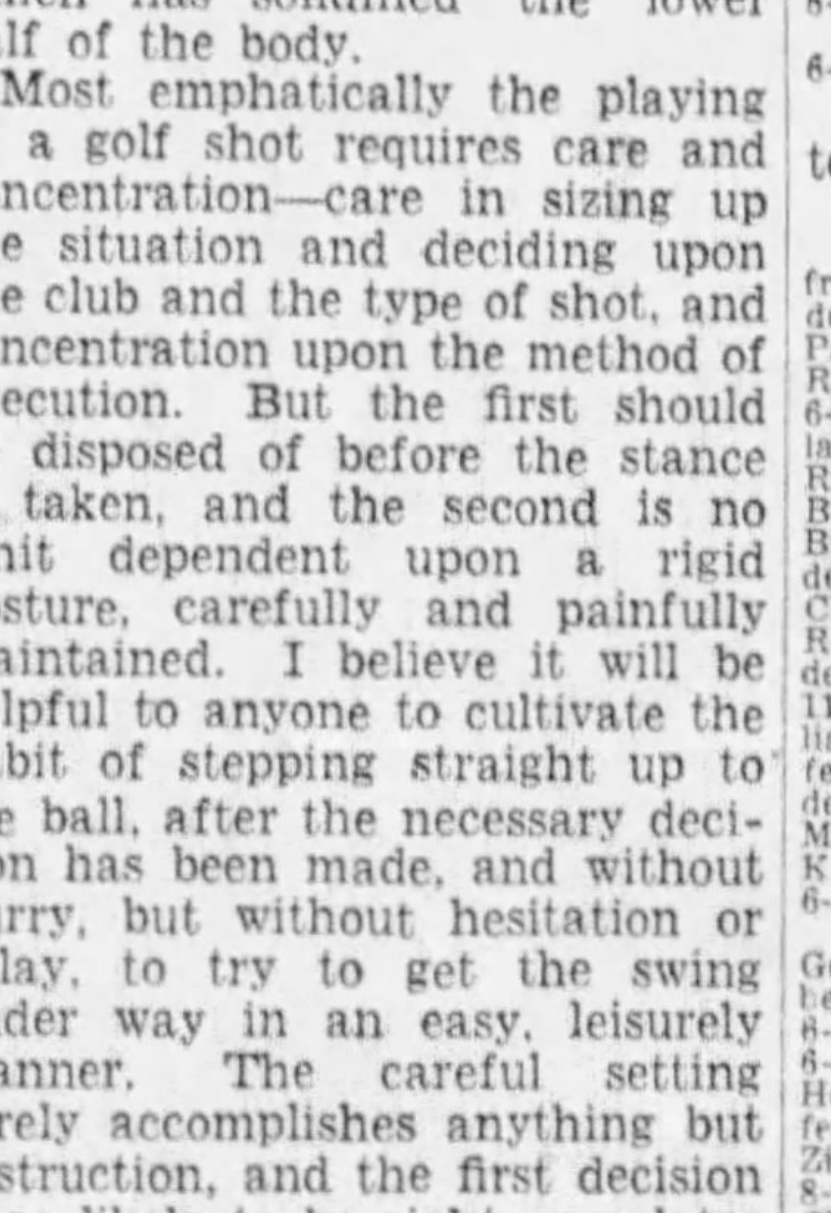
The entry list for the Pennsylvania junior baseball tournament, sponsored by the Honus Wagner Company, will close next Tuesday night. Teams desiring to complete in this event may mail their entries to the Tournament Director at 813 Liberty avenue.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year.

One of the most common of all the faults to which the average golfer is heir is the failure to swing the club back in a full arc. The usual method is to pick or lift it up over the shoulder, or to swish it back around the legs. The big sweep of the backswing, characteristic of the expert, is utterly strange to the dub.



Bobby Jones

Almost always the failure to swing can be traced to the fact that the action is made to originate in the hands instead of in the body; and this mistake in turn is in large measure attributable to the tension and rigidity produced by the player's effort to set himself too carefully. In most cases, he stands over the ball too long, waggles his club too rapidly and too often, and takes too many precautions against something going wrong. By the time he becomes ready to commence his swing he has worked himself into a state from which not even a genius could produce a rhythmic effort.

SHOULD BE TRUE SWING

The backward movement of the club from the ball must be in every sense a true swing. So many things are dependent upon this characteristic of the stroke. Only this can produce the broad sweep and rhythmic movement which provides power and timing. And this sort of swing cannot be started from a fixed, tense posture which has solidified the lower half of the body.

Most emphatically the playing of a golf shot requires care and concentration—care in sizing up the situation and deciding upon the club and the type of shot, and concentration upon the method of execution. But the first should be disposed of before the stance is taken, and the second is no whit dependent upon a rigid posture, carefully and painfully maintained. I believe it will be helpful to anyone to cultivate the habit of stepping straight up to the ball, after the necessary decision has been made, and without hurry, but without hesitation or delay, to try to get the swing under way in an easy, leisurely manner. The careful setting rarely accomplishes anything but destruction, and the first decision is as likely to be right as a later one. I do not believe in undue haste, but I do believe that there is a very real advantage in beginning the swing before the movement incident to taking the stance and addressing the ball has entirely subsided and the muscles have begun to tense.

ASSUMING THE STANCE

Almost every golfer develops a certain habitual way of falling into his position over the ball. In my own case, this consists of approaching the ball from behind or from the left rear, then first grounding the clubs, next after a look to the objective, swinging the left foot into position, then dropping the right foot back into place while the one waggle begins. Almost as soon as the right heel touches the ground the swing is away.

I do not mean to say that this is all studied and a definite ritual which I am careful to perform. On the contrary, it is quite unconsciously done, but it does assist in maintaining a relaxed posture at address, and is swinging into the rhythm of the stroke even before it has actually begun. Sometimes I find this broken into by some uncertainty or anxiety. After the first waggle I am not quite ready to take off and want to have another one. When this happens and the customary routine is interrupted, it is much better to leave the ball entirely and begin all over. I don't always do this, but I usually regret not having done so.

I should advise every player to try to form some such habit. It need not be precisely in this form, but it should be simple and direct, and above all, it should eliminate the pauses and poses during which tension can be built up. It is much easier to keep relaxed while there is movement. So let the movement of taking the stance and addressing the ball flow into the movement of the swing itself.

U. S. Track Stars In Lead Abroad

STOCKHOLM, July 20.—(INS.)—Resuming competition today with athletes of 11 other nations in the first meet of its European tour, the all-star United States track and field team was in front by a wide margin.

The Americans captured four of the first day's five events. Glenn Cunningham, stocky Kansas star, nosed out Erik Ny, of Sweden, in the 1,000 meters in the fast time of 2 minutes 23.9 seconds, only three-tenths of a second slower than the world record.

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University Negro sprinter; Ivan Fuqua, Indiana middle-distance runner, and Johnny Morriss, Louisiana hurdler, also were victorious. The only American loser was Henri Laborde, of Stanford, who finished seventh in the 16-pound shot put.

ARMOUR SCORES LEADING PROS

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP.)—America's veteran golf professionals, notably Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen, are attempting to kill the trusty goose that laid their golden eggs, Tommy Armour said today in a blistering attack against those players who threaten to pass up the annual national pro championship at Blue Mound, Milwaukee, next month.

Sarazen, Hagen, Craig Wood, Joe Kirkwood and Denny Shute, new British Open champion, have advised the Professional Golfers' Association that they probably won't compete in the big pro show this year because the date, August 8 to 13, is too early. Armour said:

"Say, if it wasn't for golf and an organization like the P. G. A., fellows like Hagen, Sarazen, Shute, Wood and myself probably would be lucky to have ordinary paying jobs today instead of strutting around like heroes with plenty of cash in our pockets. And yet those fellows, sent over to England with all expenses paid to lose the Ryder Cup, say August is too early for them to compete for the National Professional championship. What do they mean, too early? I know for a fact that they have been squawking for years to have the P. G. A. championship played earlier than September so they could make some money out of it. Now they balk. They're just trying to kill the goose that laid their golden egg, that's all.

"The P. G. A. and the Milwaukee tournament boosters would be smart to forget all about us and go after the younger players, play 'em up and give them the play."

Manchester Tennis Play in Semi-Finals

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 20.—(AP.)—All four seeded singles players were lodged safely in semi-final brackets today as the Essex County Club's women's invitation tennis tournament neared a close.

The program called for a singles match between the top-seeded Carolin Babcock, of Los Angeles, and Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, during today's sessions and a doubles match between the all-California teams of Josephine Cruickshank and Alice Marble and Dr. Esther Bartosh and Elizabeth Deike.

OXFORD-CAMBRIDGE TIES

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(AP.)—Though beaten in their singles contests, Capt. Samuel B. Gilpin and R. Norris Williams yesterday enabled Merion Cricket Club to break even with the combined Oxford-Cambridge tennis team, 3 to 3, by taking the final doubles match from Acting Capt. Grady Frank and William F. Mos. The 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

MORE REACTION IN MARKET FORECAST

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, July 20.—As indicated in my last article on stocks, the market has recently been in a critical position as regards the next move. There have been technically weak spots, sufficient to upset the equilibrium and allow a sharp reaction. On the other hand, there has been enough bullish sentiment and operations for the rise to make it possible that no large reaction might occur.

For the last few days my position has been one of watching from the sidelines, with the idea of advising holding selected purchases if the leading stocks show real strength; but advising sales if they break down through the lower levels of the recent trading range.

ANALYSIS DIFFICULT

Frankly speaking, if this were an ordinary market and economic conditions were natural, I would certainly expect a stiff intermediate decline in the averages. But as things are, the normal bases of forecasting have not been applicable.

That is part of the "new deal" situation. With so many people using the very proper desire to hedge their dollars by buying stocks as an excuse for speculation, it is hard to size things up.

The wild speculation in alcohol and related stocks, however, has been a serious menace to the stability of the market. These recent "favorites" started to fall out of bed Tuesday, and did so thoroughly yesterday. Of course, such a performance, while inevitable, is disturbing to the whole list.

OTHERS FIRM

In fact, the relative firmness of many of the sounder issues may well be considered reassuring. Logically, however, it should take some time for the market to recover from such a jolt. Naturally some will wonder what might happen to other issues which have been run up abnormally.

At this writing (Wednesday afternoon) the real leading stocks have still held close to the critical lower limits to which I referred on Monday. These were Steel, 60, American Can, 93; DuPont, 79; Telephone, 129; Tobacco B, 90; Consolidated Gas, 60; Atchison, 73, and Union Pacific, 123. As long as these levels are held, I would not be too sure that any big reaction is under way.

RALLY PROBABLE

But in view of the general position of the market, I would hesitate to jump in on the first signs of a rebound. Stabilization will come. A rally will set in before long, no doubt.

My present thought is that after the spree in alcohol and the sobering effects of today's margin calls, it will be a good while before the care-free rise of the not distant past can be resumed.

A reasonable guess is that the first rally from this setback will not carry to the old highs, and that there will be some further reaction which seems likely to bring the averages still lower.

In short, it seems fairly probable that a reaction which will be greater than any yet seen since April is in the making. Even if this be true, it may not come all at once. It may be interrupted by more or less frequent rallies. (The averages may be carried back close to their recent highs). But a good reaction is due, and the longer it is prevented the worse it will be ultimately.

MUCH DISTRIBUTION

Some recent indications have been the wild stuff in alcohol, big volume with little progress in prices, mark-ups at the opening and sell-offs at the close on increased volume, and failure of leading stocks to hold above clear-cut resistance levels. There has been much distribution. Yesterday brought some forced liquidation.

Talk of currency stabilization, irregularity in commodities, our poor wheat crop, factory payrolls only 43 per cent of 1926, and relatively backward retail trade, were doubtless among the things which touched off the break yesterday.

Brains Going To Supercede Stock-Swaps

By B. C. FORBES

ONE OF America's very large enterprises, General Foods Corporation, announces a modest increase in its dividend.

Mr. Forbes

That's significant news.

How has this company acted during the long storm?

The inside story is interesting, includes novel features, reveals a far-reaching change under way in the expansion methods of large organizations.

Also, in view of the recent upward price trend, many executives may be prodded into aggressive action by this observation made to me by Executive Vice President Clarence Francis:

"Past experience has indicated that on a rising market the old slogan, 'it pays to advertise,' is unusually apt."

EVER SINCE John D. Rockefeller first began creating his mammoth Standard Oil, ever since the late J. P. Morgan undertook to form America's historic "first billion-dollar corporation" (United States Steel Corporation), the accepted method for building up a colossal, towering "trust" has been to gobble up a lot of smaller concerns, paying for them in stock.

We have seen this happen not only in oil and steel, but in the motor industry, the chemical industry, the copper industry, the brass industry, the food industry, the telephone industry, the shipping industry, the woolen industry, the electric industry, the building industry.

We have seen it in the retail field. We have seen it in the public utility world on a breathtaking scale. We have seen it in railroading from the early days of James J. Hill and E. H. Harriman.

Note, too, how far this gobbling-up, merger, consolidation movement has gone in banking—the Chase National, the National City of New York, Chicago's leading banks and many others are the culmination of amalgamations.

BUT A new way of achieving growth, a new way of gaining dominance has been born and is beginning to make headway. Research is the mother of this lusty economic infant.

LET MR. FRANCIS explain:

"The building of large food mergers through the purchase of smaller units has been halted, but the 'merging' of new products has proceeded in another form.

"Formerly, new products were acquired through purchase of other food companies, generally through exchange of stocks.

"During the depression very few food companies have been merged by larger units.

"New products are now being created within the company itself . . . in its own laboratories, factories and distributing systems.

"The new product is soon flourishing nationally. The only expense is the usual cost of research and development, and the cost of introducing the new product into the already established selling outlets.

"By 1929, General Foods had gathered more than 20 nationally advertised products into its line. No new stock has been issued since that year, yet the company has successfully introduced several valuable new products.

"About 50 new products are constantly under the microscope, or on the conference table, or in trial markets all of the time."

HEREAFTER dominance promises to be achieved more by brains and less by stock-swapping.

Unionization Efforts In Steel Trade Progress

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

EFFORTS TO UNIONIZE the steel industry are meeting with some degree of success. This is admitted by steel executives. Particular progress is being made at mills in the Ohio Valley.

It is generally believed that the prompt action taken by steel companies in increasing wages immediately upon adoption of their code and before action was taken on it by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial czar, represented an effort to forestall the attempts of the union.

The action to be taken by Gen. Johnson on provisions in the code aimed at confining employe representation to company unions rather than to the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, will have a far reaching effect on the future progress of the organizers. The usual impression is that Gen. Johnson will favor giving workers an entirely free hand in deciding whether they wish to become affiliated with a national labor organization or with the company sponsored groups at each plant.

* * *

Unionization May Be Now or Never

THE INTENSE campaign to unionize the steel industry is motivated by two influences, one of which is not generally appreciated. It is widely realized that the Industrial Recovery Act gives unions a free hand to organize plants which have been on an open shop basis. But it is not widely realized that if the unions do not organize workers before the new codes become operative, their chances for future success may be limited.

One steel mill executive points out that the Industrial Recovery Act and the codes being formed under its provisions will provide workers with every advantage which labor organizations can offer them. It insures representation, limits minimum and maximum working hours and establishes a means for making any adjustments needed in the future without recourse to strikes. The executive declared that the codes will provide this for workers without any expense to them while labor organizations involve substantial expenditures for dues. This, of course, is the viewpoint of an employer.

This situation makes it quite obvious, however, that unless the unions work fast, they will lose their best selling points.

* * *

White Collar Men Neglected

ONE SURPRISING feature of the workings of the Industrial Recovery Act up to the present time has been the complete disregard of the office workers. All attempts have been directed at increasing the earning power of shop forces while individuals in minor office positions are being given no relief even though their incomes have been sharply reduced.

It is quite probable that some action to remedy this oversight will be taken by the administration in the near future.

STOCKS RALLY AFTER TAKING SETBACK

NEW YORK, July 20.—Financial markets tried to steady today, after the sharp relapse of yesterday, but nervous twinges added considerable uncertainty to the attempted convalescence.

After some irregularity in the early hours, most of the badly battered stocks of the previous session rallied 1 to around 3 points. Even the weak alcohols attempted a mild comeback, although they again turned heavy after noon and other groups sympathetically cancelled most of their early advances or replaced them with losses.

The principal gains sagged, rallied, and then dropped sharply, wheat getting below $1 a bushel. Cotton was easier as were silver futures. The dollar turned upward in foreign exchange markets, gaining nearly 10 cents against the pound sterling at one time. Bonds were irregular.

The so-called "repeal" shares that added some 4 to 14 points to their previous slump included American Commercial Alcohol, National Distillers, Commercial Solvents, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, and Crown Cork. Declines of 1 to 3 or more were eventually suffered by Du Pont, Case, Union Pacific, U. S. Steel, United Aircraft and Goodyear. Alaska Juneau, U. S. Smelting, Santa Fe, Johns-Manville, McIntyre Porcupine, Chrysler and a number of others were up 1 to about 3 before easing with the rest of the market.

Some of today's early recoveries in stocks were attributed to covering by several operators who went "short" at the beginning of yesterday's tumble. Market observers pointed out that, just prior to Wednesday, active bears were few and difficult to find. With the first indications of a corrective movement, however, these came out from hiding and cashed in sizeable profits around the opening.

Along with the caution engendered by the recent wild advance of stocks and commodities, various merchandising associations are reported to have sounded mild warnings against a too sudden rise in retail prices. It was said the public, thus far, has received moderate increases without expressing any serious objections. At the same time, efforts are being made to keep advances within bounds.

A sharp rally of the dollar in relation to foreign currencies, especially the British pound sterling, was attributed by bankers here partly to the announcement of a conversion offer for the United Kingdom 5½ per cent gold ponds. The conversion plan, it was explained, brought an increase in arbitrage business. Dealers said there was little evidence of official intervention in either the pound or French franc rates.

WHEAT FALLS TO 90 CENTS

CHICAGO, July 20.—Wheat fell to 90 cents a bushel today on the Chicago Board of Trade, and dollar wheat became only a historic reminiscence.

Three separate outbreaks of panicky selling of speculative holdings of wheat took place, one at the opening, another about noon and a third just as the market closed. The severest break was in September contracts, off 17 cents from yesterday.

Coincident with the latest downward plunge of the grain markets were reports that the administration was considering measures for the regulation of the country's exchanges.

Wheat closed excited, at prices ranging from the day's bottom figures to 3¼ cents above. Last quotations were 12 to 16 cents under yesterday's finish for wheat, with corn 11¾ to 14¼ down, oats 6⅝ to 8½ off and provisions showing 35 to $1.05 decline.

Gasoline Market Shows Firm Tone

NEW YORK, July 20.—Any further stiffening in the wholesale gasoline markets of the country particularly those in the midcontinent and southwest, should be reflected in an advance in retail quotations along the Atlantic Seaboard. An advance of ½ cent per gallon would appear logical, and there is a possibility it may be made as early as next week.

COAST OIL STORAGE OFF

During May the storage of all oil products held by the principal marketing companies at all points in the Pacific Coast territory, including British Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii, declined 251,580 barrels. At the end of the month the amount on hand was 165,326,528 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute estimates.

A. C. SPARK PLUG

A. C. Spark Plug Company's business in June set a new high record showing an increase of 104 per cent over June, 1932, the previous high, and was 20 per cent ahead of May this year. More unfilled orders were carried into July than for any previous month in history.

FIRST HALF FINANCING

New public financing in the United States during the first half of 1933 totaled only $125,560,000, a decrease of 48 per cent from the same 1932 period, according to a compilation by National Statistical Service, Inc. The aggregates exclude domestic and Canadian municipal offerings.

LOCAL STOCKS IN NARROW RANGE

Prices moved over a narrow range on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with volume somewhat lower than the recent average and the business fairly well distributed throughout the market. Only fractional changes registered in the recently active issues during the early trading. Lone Star Gas which has been the leader in point of volume this week quieted down perceptibly and remained within small fractional range of its close last night. Western Public Service was firm but quiet.

The heavy industrials were inclined to lag, reflecting the uncertainty on the "big board" where yesterday's big shake-out upset the apple cart and put many traders on the side lines. Harbison Walker dropped sharply in the late market, but the general list held steady in the face of the "big board" slump.

NORMAL STATE OF U. S. HELD PROSPERITY

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

Mr. Rukeyser

NEW YORK, July 19.—Prosperity is the normal state for the United States, and there is more to the recovery than artificial political stimulants.

The index of world industrial production picked up in April. Recovery in this country has been paralleled by increases in economic activity in Germany, France, Great Britain, Sweden and Japan.

Much of the lifting power of the "new deal" economic program came from the fact that it was well timed. It was synchronized with normal impulses making for recovery at home and abroad.

The Harvard Economic Society makes a timely reference to the political difficulties of applying the brakes to an inflationary movement.

CONTROL NECESSARY

Yet, if the present stimulated recovery is to be kept under control, public opinion in favor of sobering influences must be built up.

In alluding to the problem of keeping the managed currency managable, the Harvard sages point out:

"When the present objective is reached, let us suppose at a price level equal to that of 1926 and with something like a 60 cent dollar, the same situation will be confronted, and in aggravated form. This results from the very nature of inflation.

"If the present currency experiment is really to be kept under control, the administration will be obliged at some point to deprive markets of their accustomed stimulant; and the immediate consequences will be unpleasant. In June it was feared that the industrial recovery then under way would be rudely checked.

DECISION DIFFICULT

On the next occasion it will appear that farmers are prosperous, industry is again profitable, stocks are at a figure that makes their owners feel rich and therefore inclines them to spend money; so that it will be hard to reach a decision that the supply of stimulants must be cut off.

There will be fear that the reaction upon stock prices, upon business profits, upon employment conditions and upon lagging industries will be unfavorable; and of course it will be impossible for any one to tell how far the unpleasant reaction will go.

Moreover, those who have to make the difficult decision will face certain unpopularity, personal and political, from the very people who are now enthusiastic in their support. Yet, at this point and under these conditions, a difficult and very unpopular decision will have to be reached if the managed system of currency with which the country is now experimenting is to be prevented from becoming unchangeable."

PLANS NEEDED

It seems to me that the responsible leaders should formulate plans for letting up on the monetary stimulants. They are useful at the start to help move business from a dead center, but once the spiral of recovery is strongly under way continuous depreciation of the dollar seems unnecessary. The re-employment of the unemployed, the relative rise in agricultural prices as a result of curtailment of crops and the taking care of accumulated shortages give a sounder basis for economic progress.

The constitution forbids protective tariffs as among the American states, yet the industrial codes, under the national recovery act, offer a legal means of protecting the socially advanced states of the industrial North from competition of sweated labor in the South. Recognizing geographical differences and variations in labor efficiency, the administration has approved differentials in wage rates in the two sections. Even so, some progress has been made in putting a bottom to wage rates in the South. To the extent that this is done, the change should contribute to a rise in living standards throughout the country.

New Break in Whisky Stocks Upsets All Markets

Another smash in the repeal shares, which broke out of a clear sky shortly after noon, today upset the stock market, though without yesterday's demoralizing effect. Grains were again carried down in the selling wave, with wheat slumping 15 cents a bushel to break $1 for the first time in weeks. Cotton and other commodities broke in sympathy. The break came after the market had staged a brisk rally from yesterday's decline.

The grain market had apparently steadied after an initial break at around yesterday's closing levels, but trade was nervous. The sudden break today came as did yesterday's with almost no warning. A few fairly heavy selling orders found the pits bare of buying orders and a panicky rush to unload holdings quickly followed. After the sudden sharp break, the market was "jittery" with traders tense and watchful.

The tendency of the banks to tighten up on collateral loans probably had no little part in fostering the renewed selling which hit the market at midday. Last Saturday banks were marking down sharply the value of the liquor stocks as collateral for loans. Since then, however, the tightening process has spread to embrace more or less the general run of stocks. One of the larger institutions, according to report, is not fixing a schedule of prices at which securities are acceptable as collateral, but rather has adopted the procedure of treating the matter in the light of the ideas of the value of specific issues.

Another deluge of margin calling swept the wheat prices down. This slump came after the market had displayed fairly substantial rallying power, sufficent at any rate to more than fully recover the overnight losses of 3 cents shown at the outset. At the day's lows, from which sharp rallies were in order, wheat was down for cumulative losses of 27 to 30 cents from the peaks for the movement established last Monday, when September sold as high as $1.20½, contrasted with today's low of 95½ cents.

A spectacular opening in United Kingdom 5½s was the market's response to the overnight news of the plan for conversion of that issue into four-year sterling notes carrying a 2½ per cent coupon. Under the offer each $1,000 par of the dollar bonds would receive £260 in new sterling obligations at the rate of $3.85 to the pound. The sharp rise in the open market value, the issue starting the day 12 points higher, reflected largely the adjustment of the market to the current levels of sterling exchange. With sterling around $4.74 the bonds had an indicated value at that time of $1,232 for each $1,000, face amount.

Revenue freight loadings of the first 13 major railroads to report for the week ended July 15 amounted to 262,614 cars, on their own lines, compared with 217,520 in the previous week, which included the Independence Day holiday. This is an increase of about 6 per cent over the figures reported by these roads in the week ended July 1, the previous loading peak for 1933. On the basis of early reports the carloading total last week for the entire country is estimated at about 650,000 cars, which would exceed the comparable figures for the 1932 period by nearly 30 per cent.

U. S. Lead Supplies Smaller on July 1

NEW YORK, July 20.—Stocks of lead in the United States at the end of June totaled 193,005 short tons, compared with 197,109 at the end of May and 181,044 at the end of June, 1932, according to the American Bureau of Metal statistics. Production in June was 30,727 short tons, against 28,488 in May and 28,709 in June, 1932. Shipments in June came to 34,825 tons as against 28,197 in May and 22,295 in June, 1932.

Nations in Race To Get Soviet Business

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—A three-nation contest for up to a billion dollars worth of sales to Soviet Russia finds the United States attempting today to finish the necessary negotiations before Great Britain or France.

The problem is, primarily, one of credit. It is said here that the winner in the contest will be the nation that offers the best terms.

RESERVE HEADS CONFER ON POLICY

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP.)—The committee of the Federal Reserve system, composed of the governors of the 12 Federal Reserve banks, met today in an extraordinary session with the Federal Reserve Board.

The committee decides the open market policies of the system and puts them into effect through the 12 banks after they have been approved by the reserve board.

This committee was the one that in May initiated the purchase of government securities to bolster up the reserves of Federal Reserve member banks and to initiate President Roosevelt's program of expansion permitted under the farm relief act.

Under the Thomas amendment to the act the government is permitted to sell up to three billion dollars of bonds of its own or government-owned corporations to Federal Reserve Banks under agreement that they be held for a certain length of time.

Before the open market committee inaugurated the policy of increasing purchase of government bonds in May the Federal Reserve Banks had held, from March 29 to May 17, $1,837,000,000 in government securities. Since the latter date such holdings have jumped to $2,007,000,000, an increase of $170,000,000.

No member of the board or the governors would give any hint as to what was to be discussed at the meeting today.

It has been the policy of the board and the governors never to make any statements concerning their discussions unless it was something of immediate interest to the public, in which case at rare intervals they have issued a brief formal statement explaining expansion in their open market policy.

DOLLAR STAGES SHARP RALLY

NEW YORK, July 20.—(INS.)—After plunging momentarily to an alltime low yesterday, the dollar staged a sweeping advance against all European currencies today on further rumors of impending stabilization.

The pound was quoted at $4.71½ in the local foreign exchange market, after reaching $4.85½ here yesterday and crossing par in London, while the franc sold at 5.57½ cents.

On today's quotation the dollar was worth 70 cents gold compared with a low of 68.1 cents at its low points yesterday.

The European gold currencies dropped sensationally in terms of dollar exchange, the Dutch guilder breaking 125 points to 57.4 cents, the Swiss franc tumbling 68 points to 27.45 cents, and the belga dipping 42 points to 19.85.

The German mark also was under heavy pressure and sunk 85 points to 33.75 cents. The Spanish peseta was off 26 points at 11.9 cents, the lira off 13 points at 7.54 cents while the Scandinavian currencies were off more than 50 points in sympathy with sterling.

The Japanese yen tumbled 63 points to 29.62 cents while the Canadian dollar dropped 1.18 cents to 95.625 cents.

LONDON OFFERS BOND PLAN

LONDON, July 20.—(INS.)—Holders of the 5½ per cent 20-year gold bonds issued in the United States by the British government in 1917 were offered a conversion scheme today which represented Britain's method of handling the situation created by abrogation of the gold clause by the United States.

American holders of the bonds a $250,000,000 issue, were asked to accept cancellation of the gold clause, which they contain, and to convert them into new bonds on an exchange basis of $3.85 to the pound. (Today's opening quotation on the pound was $4.79½.)

Each $1,000 5½ per cent bond would become a 2½ per cent security of £260.

It was emphasized the conversion is entirely voluntary, the plan being mainly for the benefit of American holders who stood to be deprived of protective benefit clauses in view of the abrogation of gold provisions by the American government. The issue was sold widely outside the United States.

EXCHANGE MUM ON WARNING

NEW YORK, July 20.—(INS.)—The New York Stock Exchange was silent today on the telegram from Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, which warned officials that a repetition of yesterday's collapse in the market would bring summary action by the administration.

Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, is out of town. None of the other officials would comment, declaring this was up to Whitney.

Inquiry at the curb exchange revealed that it had not been included on the list of exchanges receiving the telegram.

The market's sensational break was due to the action of the stock exchange, working with the banks, in forcing brokers to jack up margins on the over-bulled liquor shares to the 1929 level of 60 per cent. This caused wholesale unloading by traders and the public on a thin market, and carried the whole list down with commodities as well.

ARMOUR'S PLAN FACES FIGHT

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP.)—A group of stockholders of Armour & Co. (Illinois) will oppose adoption of the company's capital readjustment plan, according to Eugene Frederick Roth, a New York attorney, and spokesman for the dissenting holders.

Roth, in a statement, declared that "the net result of the proposal is to transfer the voting power and complete control of the present A and B common stockholders to the present holders of the preferred stock."

On the basis of asset valuations, Roth contended, the A and B stockholders should in any recapitalization, receive a very much larger amount of new stock than was offered under the company's plan.

The plan announced a few days ago is to be voted on by stockholders on August 22.

OIL MEN ASKING IMPORT CURB

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(INS.)—With proration of oil production now an accomplished fact, American independent producers today were reported ready to urge a curb upon the importation of foreign oil.

Broad power to limit imports is given the President under the Industrial Recovery Act. A limitation on foreign oil imports could be invoked after approval of a code of fair competition for the oil industry, scheduled for early hearing here.

Reports received by Secretary of the Interior Ickes indicated the presidential order against "hot" oil has already had a far-reaching effect. Under the order shipment of oil beyond state borders in violation of state proration law or regulations is prohibited.

A sharp curtailment of production in the vast East Texas oil fields, where investigators have been sent, was reported to Ickes.

CHAPTER VII.

Leni's complete change swept through Cavanaugh's warm mood like a rush of cold air. Her smile dazzled him, but, suddenly, she seemed as remote and unattainable as her own moving photograph on a silvered screen.

He knew women as men of his type inevitably know the other sex, but there was a fathomless quality in this golden creature that filled him with a school boy's sense of awkwardness. If he persisted he had the uncomfortable conviction that she would begin laughing at him and end with scorning. Already he had had more from Leni Luneska than he had any right to expect.

Synopsis

Attending the premiere of her latest motion picture, beautiful Leni Luneska, the star, is confronted by a shabby man, who emerges from the crowd crying "Leni! It is I, Karl Kruger!" Leni turns white. Lucky Cavanaugh, a gambler, saunters into the theater. He prevents Kruger from making a scene. During the performance Douglas Gates, Leni's elderly escort, proposed to her. In the office next to where Kruger waits, thieves are robbing the safe. Leni leaves her box and goes to Kruger, whom she married in Vienna when 14 years old. He wants recognition as her husband. She is given time to think it over. Cavanaugh becomes friendly with Leni and they go out for some fresh air. She tells him the history of her life. In an unguarded moment, Leni allows Cavanaugh to kiss her.

Now Go On

The devil of it was that she had lit a flame that he could not quench with the water of common sense.

She sat in the box again beside Douglas Gates, straight and immobile as though a steel skeleton within her flesh held her body in place.

On the screen the plot of the photoplay flitted past her vision like scraps of paper blown by the wind. It was all utterly meaningless now.

Where her heart belonged was a motionless lump of cold and heavy lead.

"This is the end of everything for me," Leni Luneska told herself,—"the end of everything."

The audience sitting enthralled by the picture were merely so many living corpses. Tomorrow Karl Kruger would reach with his clutching hands and strip her of all fame, all respect, all everything. With her mind's eye she saw what would happen—the cancellation of her contract, the burning publicity, the mock sympathy as she stood outside the barred studio doors.

Douglas Gates leaned close to her.

"A great picture, dear," he whispered. "There is no one like you on the screen. You are supreme."

A BLACK FUTURE

She did not answer him. What did it matter? Tomorrow it would be all over. Her taste of glory had been so very brief before the cup had been dashed from her lips. Douglas Gates, with his eyes on the screen had not noticed her pale and set face.

Tomorrow would be the end. As quietly as possible she would slip out of Hollywood and return to the obscurity from which she had risen.

There was not even the consolation of wealth. Like most new stars her debts were evenly balanced against her possessions.

Life, like a gigantic sponge, was wiping her off a slate and leaving a blank and black future.

Remotely she remembered a man upstairs named Lucky Cavanaugh, but the recollection brought no warmth to the lump of lead in her breast. It was all over—Gates, Cavanaugh, Karl Kruger. Her mind was made up. Kruger could tell his story wherever he pleased. She would not be present in Hollywood when the mud began to spatter.

* * *

For a man of his height and weight, Lucky Cavanaugh moved with a singularly light and elastic step. In the carpeted corridor behind the balcony he encountered a grim sentinel in an usher's uniform.

"Is Slug around?"

The man's face was as expressionless as a death mask.

"I don't know what you're talking about," Mr. Cavanaugh.

SEES KRUGER

Cavanaugh stepped closer and extracted a short length of iron from his inside coat pocket.

"When you see Slug, give this back to him and thank him. He lent it to me a little while ago."

"Okay," said the other. The jimmy disappeared adroitly into his clothes.

Without haste Cavanaugh walked to the door behind which Karl Kruger was waiting. His instinct told him that the eyes of the watching man in usher's uniform were following him. It did not matter. Cavanaugh's business was not in conflict with that of the grimly determined men in disguise.

Just for an instant Cavanaugh hesitated before he twisted the knob and stalked into the room. His profile, dimly revealed in the faint light behind the last row of seats, had the sharp outline of a portrait stamped on bronze. There was time yet for him to turn back from this projection of self into the affairs of other people. Leni Luneska had virtually told him to keep his hands off.

A remnant of that quality called common sense urged him to forget the whole business. It was not a pleasant thing to get mixed up in. Nevertheless, the knob turned under his sinewy hand and Lucky Cavanaugh stepped into the room and closed the door behind him.

Karl Kruger stared at him belligerently from the depths of an oversized leather chair. In this room of soft lights and theatrical luxury the murky looking man glowered silent defiance.

"Get up," said Cavanaugh harshly, "and bring that filthy hat along with you. You're leaving here!"

Two hectic spots began to burn in Kruger's cheeks. His claw-like fingers clutched the fat arms of the chair.

"Oh, no," he cried with a soiled voice. "I'm not to be gotten rid of so easy! You might be one of those big rich friends of Leni Luneska's but you don't get rid of Karl Kruger. A man like me has his rights and I'm going to stay right here till I get them. I'm not afraid of you—I'm not afraid of anybody! You can beat me, but you can not silence me unless you kill me."

DESPERATE MAN

Cavanaugh's eyes were steel. What Karl Kruger had said was the exact truth. Only murder would guarantee his silence. Deliberate murder was something that Cavanaugh was not prepared to administer.

"It's your own life you're gambling with, Kruger," he said evenly. "Nobody has said anything about murdering you, but you're not going to stay around here and humiliate Miss Luneska. Furthermore, you're not going to spill your rotten story about her to anybody. You can be silenced so quickly it would make your head swim."

Kruger's narrow lips drew back over yellow teeth. Perhaps the grimace was meant for a smile. The flanges of his thin nostrils widened as he drew in breath with a weedy whistling sound.

"You smell like the perfume she had on," he said derisively. "You've been close to her tonight—maybe you're one of her sweethearts. That means nothing to me. You do not bluff me, mister, because there is nothing left for me to be afraid of. You are dealing with a desperate man I tell you—a very desperate man, mister. It will do no good to beat me and kick me. You do not know how to combat such a person as I am. I am very much your superior in spite of your fine clothes and fine airs. In my own way I am absolute!"

DRAWS REVOLVER

For a moment Cavanaugh had the idea that he was dealing with a drug addict but this thought was obliterated by the logic Kruger was employing. His philosophy—from his own view point—was perfectly reasoned out.

"Exactly what is it," demanded Cavanaugh, "that you want?"

"I want money—I want Leni Luneska and everything that goes with her!" was the brazen answer. "If you represent her, I do not mind in the least telling you exactly what she is. She is a plain common—"

The sentence was never finished. Lucky Cavanaugh's fist, hard and solid as a rock, smashed against Kruger's teeth. It was not a hard blow, yet the man collapsed under the impact and sprawled shapelessly on the floor.

Slowly he began to pull himself up into a sitting position. One hand grasped the edge of the table. Without any haste he attained his feet by degrees. For an instant his right hand was hidden from Cavanaugh's gaze. When it reappeared it held the glittering shape of a cheap revolver.

Cavanaugh's eyes moved slowly from the menacing revolver to Kruger's face. Curiously enough he did not read his fate in the burning eyes of the other but in the twisted lips drawn back over saffron teeth. It was a mouth reeking with murderous hate.

For a moment neither man spoke. It was significant that the armed man was trembling while the empty-handed Cavanaugh stood motionless as a statue.

At the same instant in the adjoining office, three men crouched around the black bulk of the theater safe. One of them held a small, feeble flashlight. For what they were about to do not much light was required.

The safe was prepared with technical perfection for its explosion. They were so silent they could hear their watch ticking off the few remaining seconds. The forehead and hair of one was wet with sweat. The other two, who were older, breathed evenly with only a slight acceleration of their pulses. Kruger's voice from the next room was faintly audible.

"What we gonna do about them guys next door?" whispered the sweating one.

"Shut up!"

"It ain't so good having people next door," insisted the worried voice that rustled like a dry leaf. "Maybe they're coppers waiting to swarm in on us. How do we know?"

"If you don't shut up I'll brain you!"

"Okay—but I don't like it . . ."

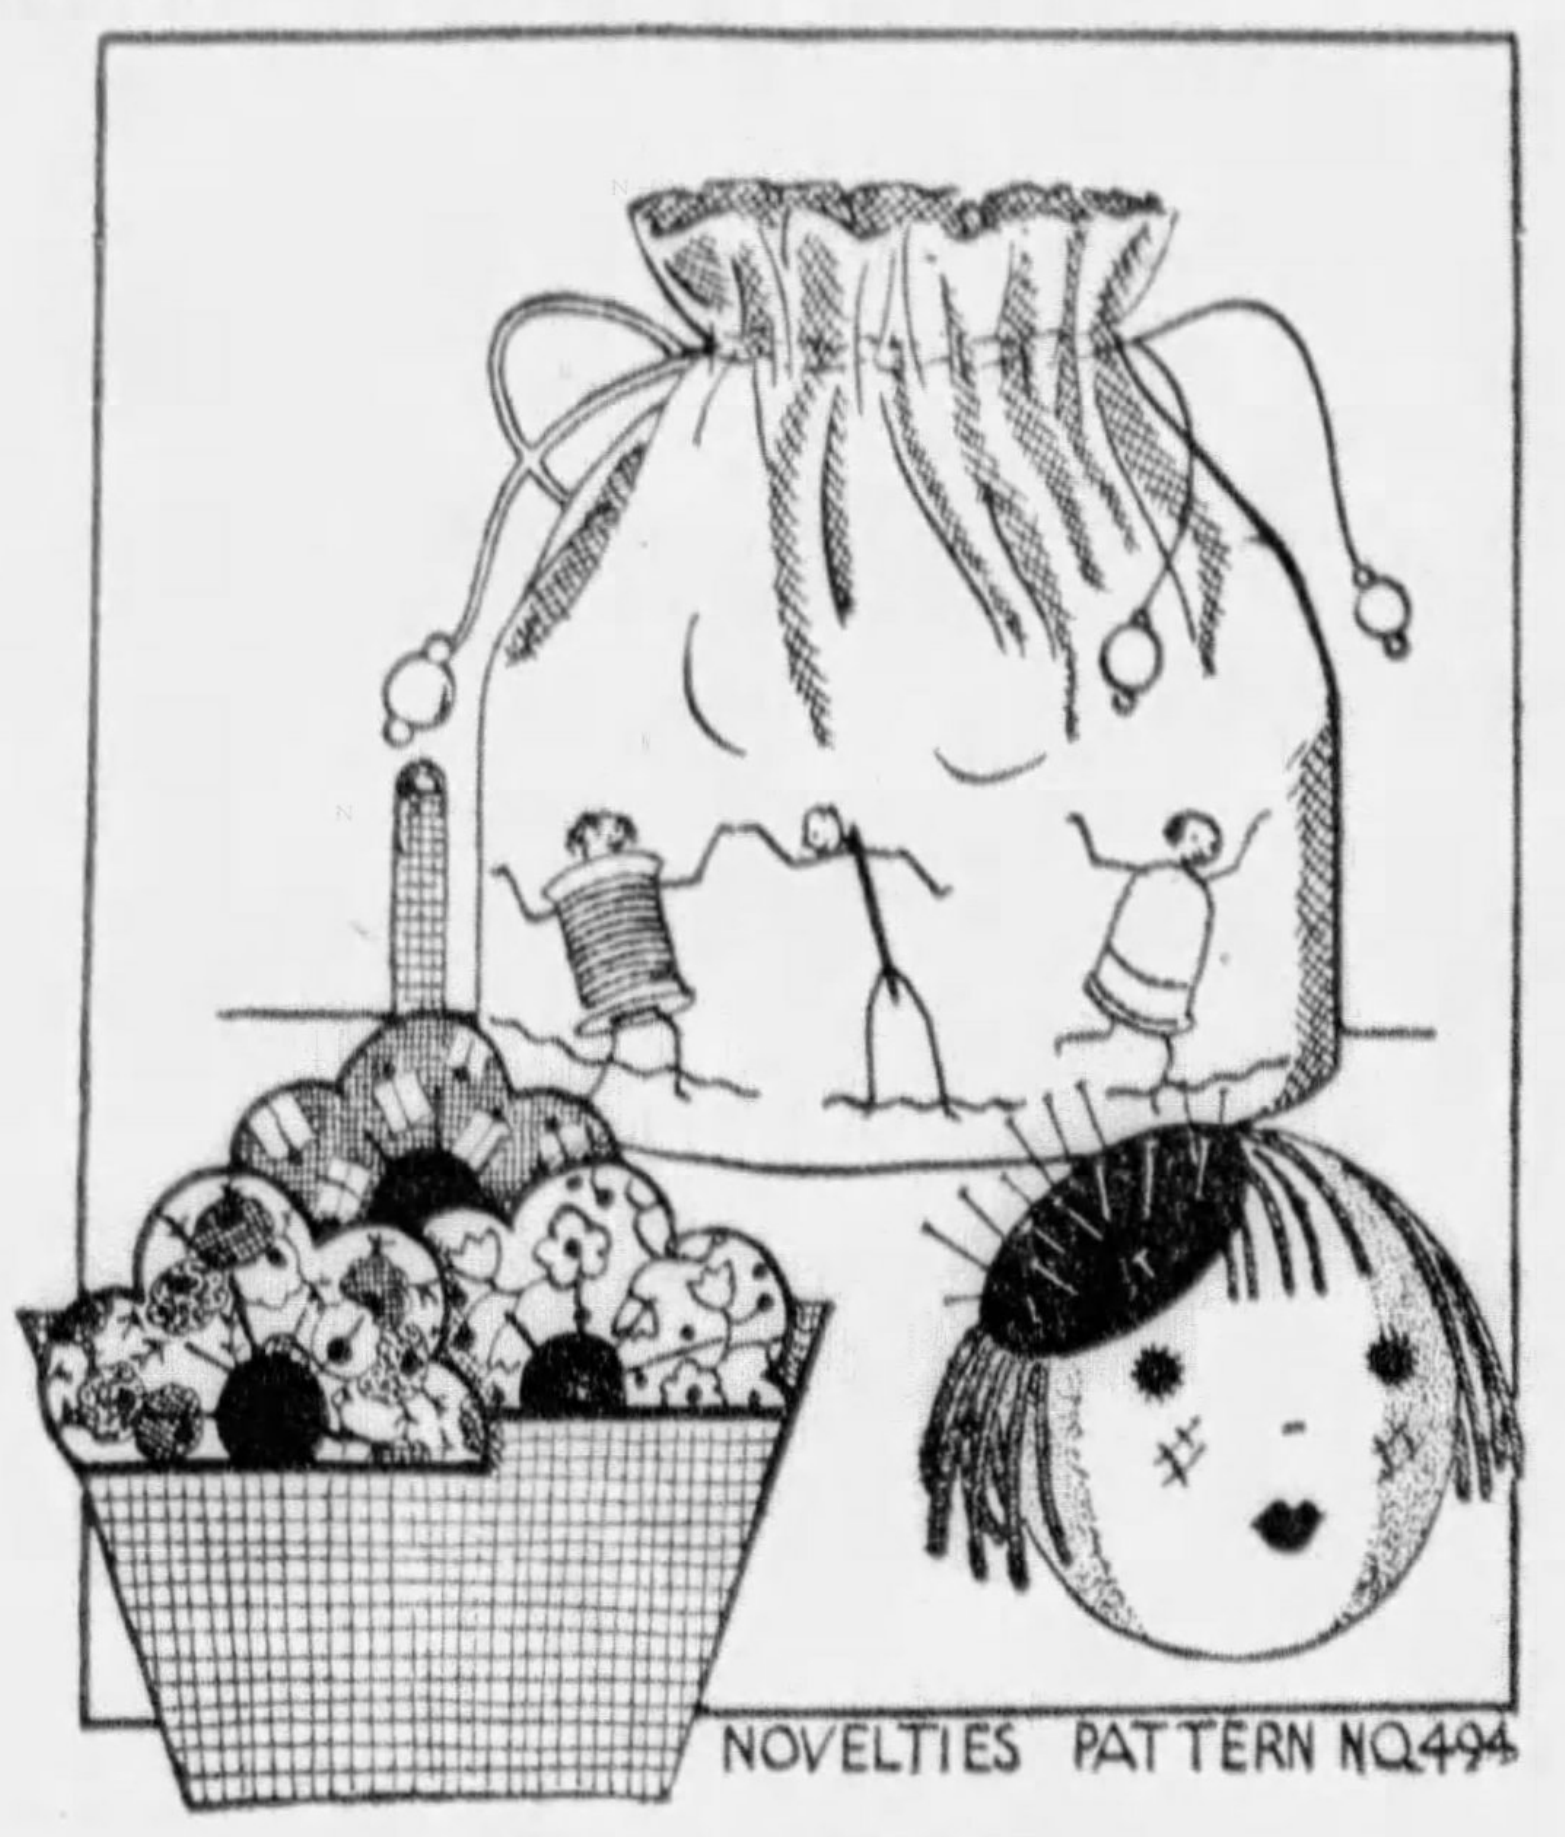
HOUSEHOLD NOVELTIES



NOVELTIES PATTERN NO.494

By LAURA WHEELER

In every home there are household tasks to be done that are not specially entertaining. Mending the family clothes and watching the dinner while it cooks can be made more inviting by these novel accessories. The work bag decorated in outline stitch has a droll decoration that should invite the hesitant mender to her task, while the quaint pincushion with embroidered face invites her to find a safe place for her pins. The flower pot-holders at hand in the basket container add a gay touch to the kitchen, and can be made of scraps of gay prints. Pattern No. 494 contains the embroidery motif for the bag, the face of the pincushion and the floral shapes for the pot-holder, as well as complete directions for making the three novelties shown.

Send 15c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Oh, BOY O BOY!

Look sharp, fellows; here comes the biggest Junior Patrol news yet!

We're going to have a picnic! Right, fellows—a genuine JUNIOR PATROL PICNIC at WEST VIEW PARK, Tuesday, August 1.

Put a great big red circle around that day on your calendars right now—it's a red letter day if there ever was one!

The JUNIOR PATROL PICNIC is a part of National Kiddies' Day, which will be celebrated all over the country. At West View, we are going to arrange the swellest picnic any bunch of kids ever had. We mean it!

West View Park is where the rolly coasters have an extra zip and where the whip has a snappier crack. There will be more fun and bigger eats than ever before at a picnic.

All the time, we are going to remember our Junior Patrol pledges, too. At this picnic, we are going to help others—we are going to see to it that every kid there has a good time. And we are going to play safe! The Junior Patrol Picnic is going to be a no-accident picnic if all the Junior Patrol members co-operate.

SPECIAL TO CAPTAINS AND LIEUTENANTS!

Talk about the picnic with all members at the very next meeting. We want everybody there, and here's a tip, fellows! There are going to be some of the swellest prizes you ever saw. Maybe one for the Patrol with the most members—maybe one for the kid who looks most like Junior, Spike and Snuggins. All those plans are being made now.

Captains should plan to have their Patrols there in a group. There will be races and championships of all kinds. And eats galore—maybe even Snuggins' favorite choc'late cake!

So don't forget the date! Tuesday, August 1, West View Park. There's a lake, too! Honest, we can't begin to remember all the ways Junior Patrol members are going to have one of the biggest, happiest times ever!

Guess we all forget once in a while. Anyway, here's a pledge slip come into headquarters from Johnstown with no name signed. The address is 43 Pittsburgh street. Please help Uncle Quin Hall out, Johnstown members, and look up this new member. Have him send in another pledge slip with his name properly signed.

Here's another letter today from Dolores Rectenwald, of 437 Walde street, Mt. Oliver. You remember, she wrote us a nice letter once before.

"Dear Junior, Spike and Snuggins:

"I am writing you this letter to tell you I am going to have a Junior Patrol Club. I, 'Dolores Rectenwald,' would like you to send me a Captain pin. I am sending you a pledge. I would like you to send me all of the pledges here to my address. Because I like to get mail. I listen to your program on Wednesday, and I think it's swell. Thank you.

"P. S. Some of the pledges don't have any birthdays or address because I don't know them."

O. K., Dolores, but the birthdays and addresses are important, and just as soon as you can, we would appreciate it if you would send them in. Just as soon as we get your complete roll, we will send you the Captain's armband—we do not have Captain's pins.

How about it, you other fellows who like to write and get letters? Dolores says she likes to get mail. Why not write to her?

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT
Twenty-Four Hour Service. Anytime, Anywhere

Dear, Sympathetic Aunt Bella:

Is it safe to say that the majority of people are honest?

Anxious.

Among one's friends, in a private gathering, as it were, the danger would perhaps be slight, depending, however, upon what kind of friends you have and what they need to tide them over the week-end. But in public, although free speech is permissible under certain circumstances, you must be very careful not to block the sidewalk.

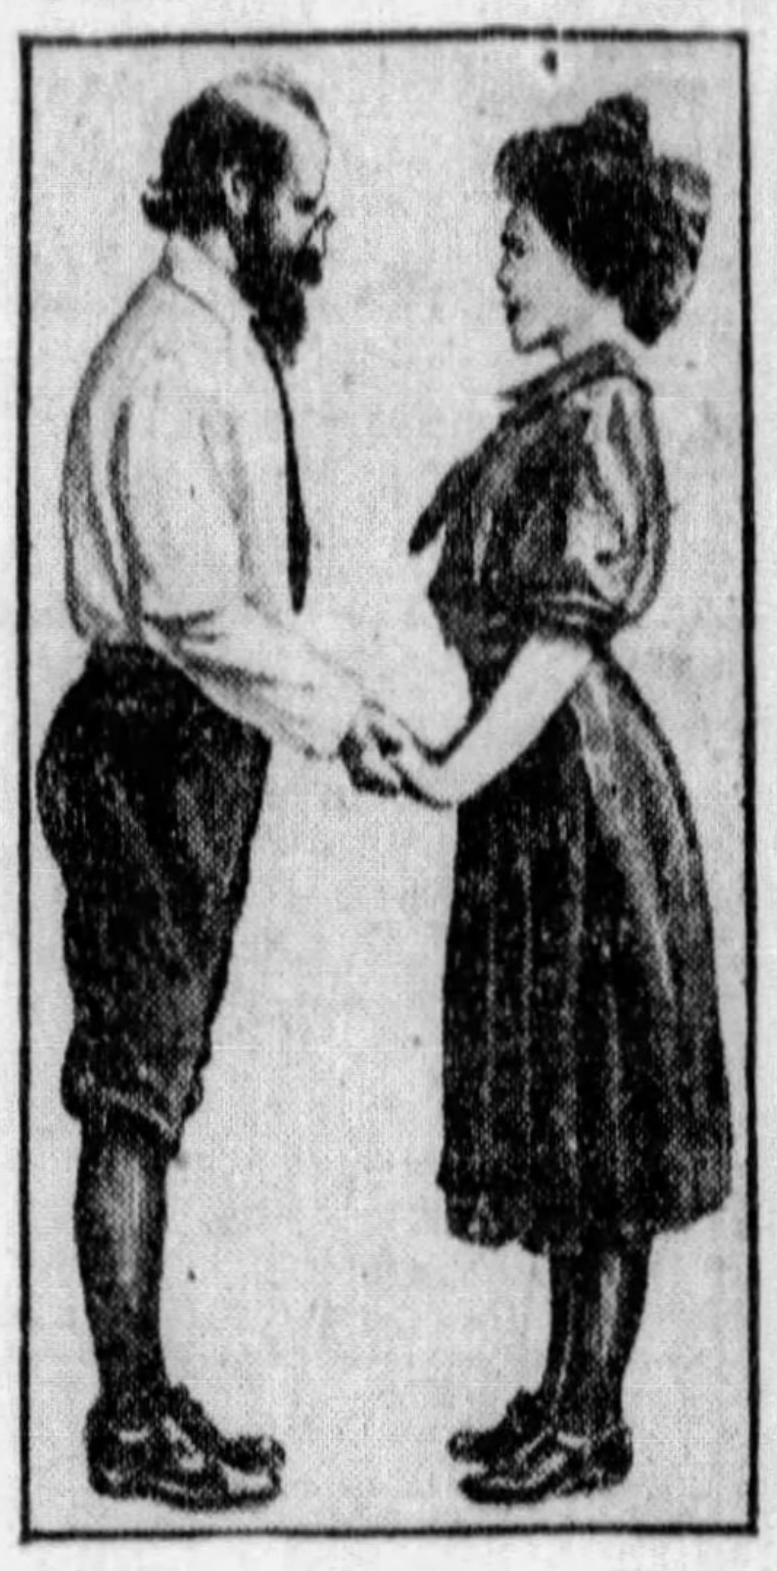
"Guess What I'm Thinking," Asks Scientist Frisby



WASHINGTON — Is thought electricity? This is the startling question that Congressman Frisby is asking himself. In order to make progress, Frisby is asking for 1,000 alert young ladies to aid him in experiments. "All I ask," says Frisby, "is a chance to prove my theory that thought is nothing but electricity. My favorite experiment is pictured above. I stand with both feet on the ground, grip the hands of one of my human guinea pigs and begin thinking. If the guinea pig guesses what I am thinking about, then it proves that thought is electricity—and if so, then does not the Power Trust control our every thought? I cannot but feel that I am getting somewhere."

Golfing in Many Languages

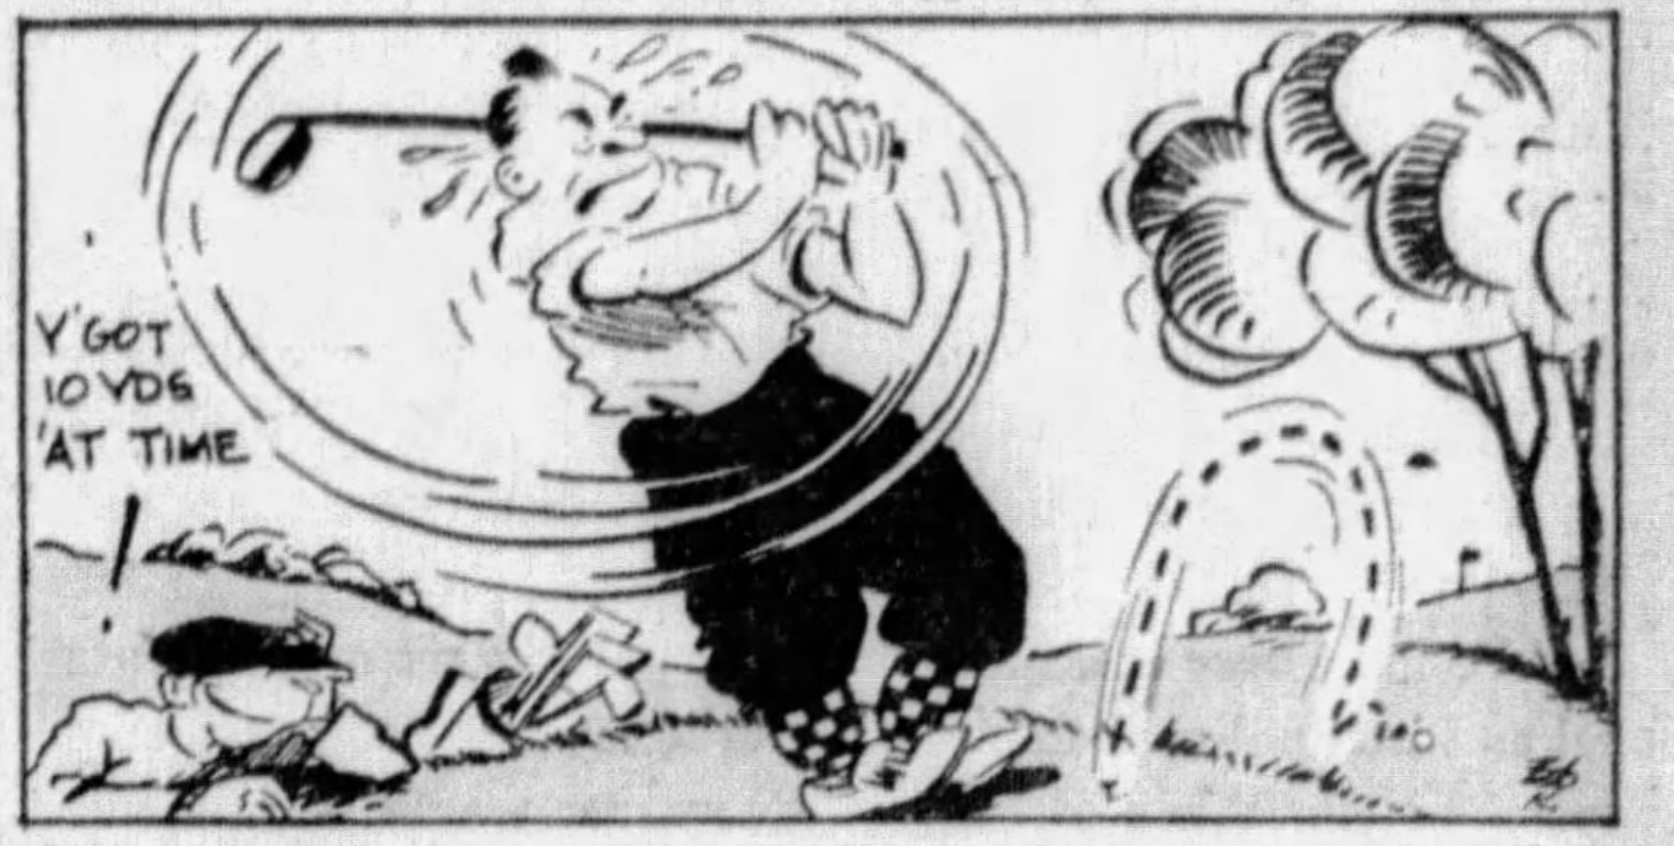
We have been much interested in Bobby Jones' shorts. We mean the movies and not lingerie.

We can't understand how the Georgia boy whangs those hooked bullets down the moss-covered fairway. He bopps them in the air 300 yards. The first bounce would be a drive for most golfers. The second is a sleeper jump. Then it rolls for another hundred yards and drops into the cup like an exhausted mouse going to bed.

We have watched Bobby's picture career with plenty of enthusiasm and have tried to apply the lessons to ourselves. We keep the left arm close to the body, we keep the body close to the club and we keep the club close to the divot. We perch the wrists, bend the elbow and accentuate the hips. We slow up on the back swing, follow through on the southern arc and transfer the weight from one broken arch to another.

But the ball only goes about 16 yards straight and true to the woods. That's what makes it tough for the duffer. Golf courses are mostly trees and President Roosevelt is planting more.

There have been many suggestions calculated to improve the game of the boys who want to play botanical billiards. We think it was Gene Sarazen who advocated a bigger cup on the putting green.



Y'GOT 10 YDS 'AT TIME

That was before Gene went to Chicago last month. After that, Gene went to England. His motto was, any place that Johnny Goodman can't get to in a box car.

We are in favor of bigger cups. They can make 'em steins if they want to. We are a five-putt man, being the only card shark who uses the Culbertson approach system in golf. We get there, foot by foot.

The next time we get out on the old divot ranch, next to the winter tee farm, we are going to double for Bobby Jones. We are going to keep the left arm straight, the head down and the weight of the body in both shoes.

We started golf as a July amusement and kept at it until it became a January New Year resolution. Our summer schedule calls for a game with Gene Brockhaven, in Cleveland; Judge Landis, in St. Louis; Jimmy Hatlo, in San Francisco, and Primo Carnera, on Long Island.

We're the De Lesseps of golfers. That's the bird who started the Suez and Panama Canals. And never got far with either.

The Oppressed Miners

Conditions Have Not Improved Much Since 1927, But the Outlook Is Hopeful.

Miss Elizabeth Wright, a Philadelphia social worker, has undertaken a survey of conditions in the coal mining towns of the Pittsburgh district for the Pennsylvania Security League.

This brings to mind the famous investigation of similar character made by Fannie Hurst, the novelist, for the Sun-Telegraph, in 1927. The Pittsburgh Coal Company barred Miss Hurst from Moon Run, thus inevitably giving the impression that there was something discreditable there which it wished to conceal. If our coal companies have grown in wisdom, they will not bar Miss Wright from their villages.

Fannie Hurst found the miners oppressed by their employers, and described their unhappy lot in articles that fairly sizzled with the heat of her indignation.

We have succeeded since then in getting rid of the brutal coal and iron police; otherwise conditions seem not to have improved much. We still hear of starvation wages, of interference with the men's liberty to organize, of the excessive prices at the company stores where the miners' families are compelled to deal, and of false weights by which the men are robbed.

Happily the outlook is hopeful for improvement. The New Deal promises better standards and the elimination of cut-throat competition. If the southern operators, whose low wages, low taxes and favorable freight rates enabled them to take the Lake Cargo and other markets away from Pittsburgh, are compelled by the code of fair competition to raise wages, the local operators will be under less temptation to reduce operating costs at the expense of the miners.

Pan-American Trade

President Roosevelt Wisely Moves for Closer Commercial Relations.

It was inevitable that the Presidents' attention and initiative should promptly reach the subject of a Pan-American trade alliance, and that he should recognize it as one of the most important features of his constructive program.

The Hearst papers have long advocated closer commercial relations with our sister republics of Latin America.

There is a vast opportunity in this field for mutually beneficial exchange, both of raw and finished products, to which the people of this country have been strangely insensible.

Our failure to investigate and develop the possibilities of profitable mutual trade with these logical and historical friends of ours is one of the most grievous shortcomings charged against American policy.

We have been guilty of exclusions and discriminations which have had no justification whatever. The result has been a sincere doubt on the part of many Latin American countries as to our real friendliness and genuine desire for closer relations with them.

These mistakes and omissions of the past, the President now proposes to set right.

His announcement that the United States is ready to enter into trade conversations immediately with the South American republics was followed by the information that Acting Secretary of State Phillips had already begun the exploratory work necessary to bring them about.

It is gratifying to be informed that the Department of State has already notified Argentina, Brazil and Colombia of the President's desire that study shall at once be undertaken of the possibilities of mutual trade agreements with each of them.

Chile is also included among the South American countries which the President has named for immediate overtures in this connection.

It is perhaps well that the exploratory work should at first be confined to a limited number of countries. We are pleased, however, to note that all the other countries of Latin America, including Mexico and Cuba, are within the purview of President Roosevelt's program.

If the procedure of the administration is as simple, direct and frank as it has been in other matters, it should not be long before this hopeful beginning is followed by tangible results.

Here is the logical answer to the Ottawa agreements, banning not only the United States but Latin America as well from natural and long enjoyed markets in the countries embraced within the British commonwealth.

Here is also an illustration of the power of straightforwardness in international dealings—somewhat of a contrast with the elaborate indirection and futility of the expiring economic conference in London, now nearing its end in confessed failure.

There will be difficulties, selfish and local interests will make themselves heard. The broad general gains of enlightened policy will have to run the gauntlet of resistance and sniping by relatively minor and particular interests. An attempt will be made to sacrifice great objectives to petty objectives.

But the spirit of the new deal will know how to cope with obstruction of this type.

Teachers' Institutes

An Old Custom Is Abandoned, As Some Others Might Profitably Be.

Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, is planning teachers' meetings as a substitute for the old-time county institutes held at the beginning of the school year.

The teachers' institutes cost the taxpayers much money, and the Legislature at its last session abolished them as an economy measure. Apart from the financial gain, the move was in the right direction because there is reason to believe that the institutes had outlived their usefulness.

Teachers' institutes were started in Pennsylvania in 1848, and legalized by an act of the General Assembly not long afterward. There were no normal schools in those days, and many of the teachers had not even graduated from high school. Hence it was desirable that they be given a little instruction in pedagogy before they began the year's work.

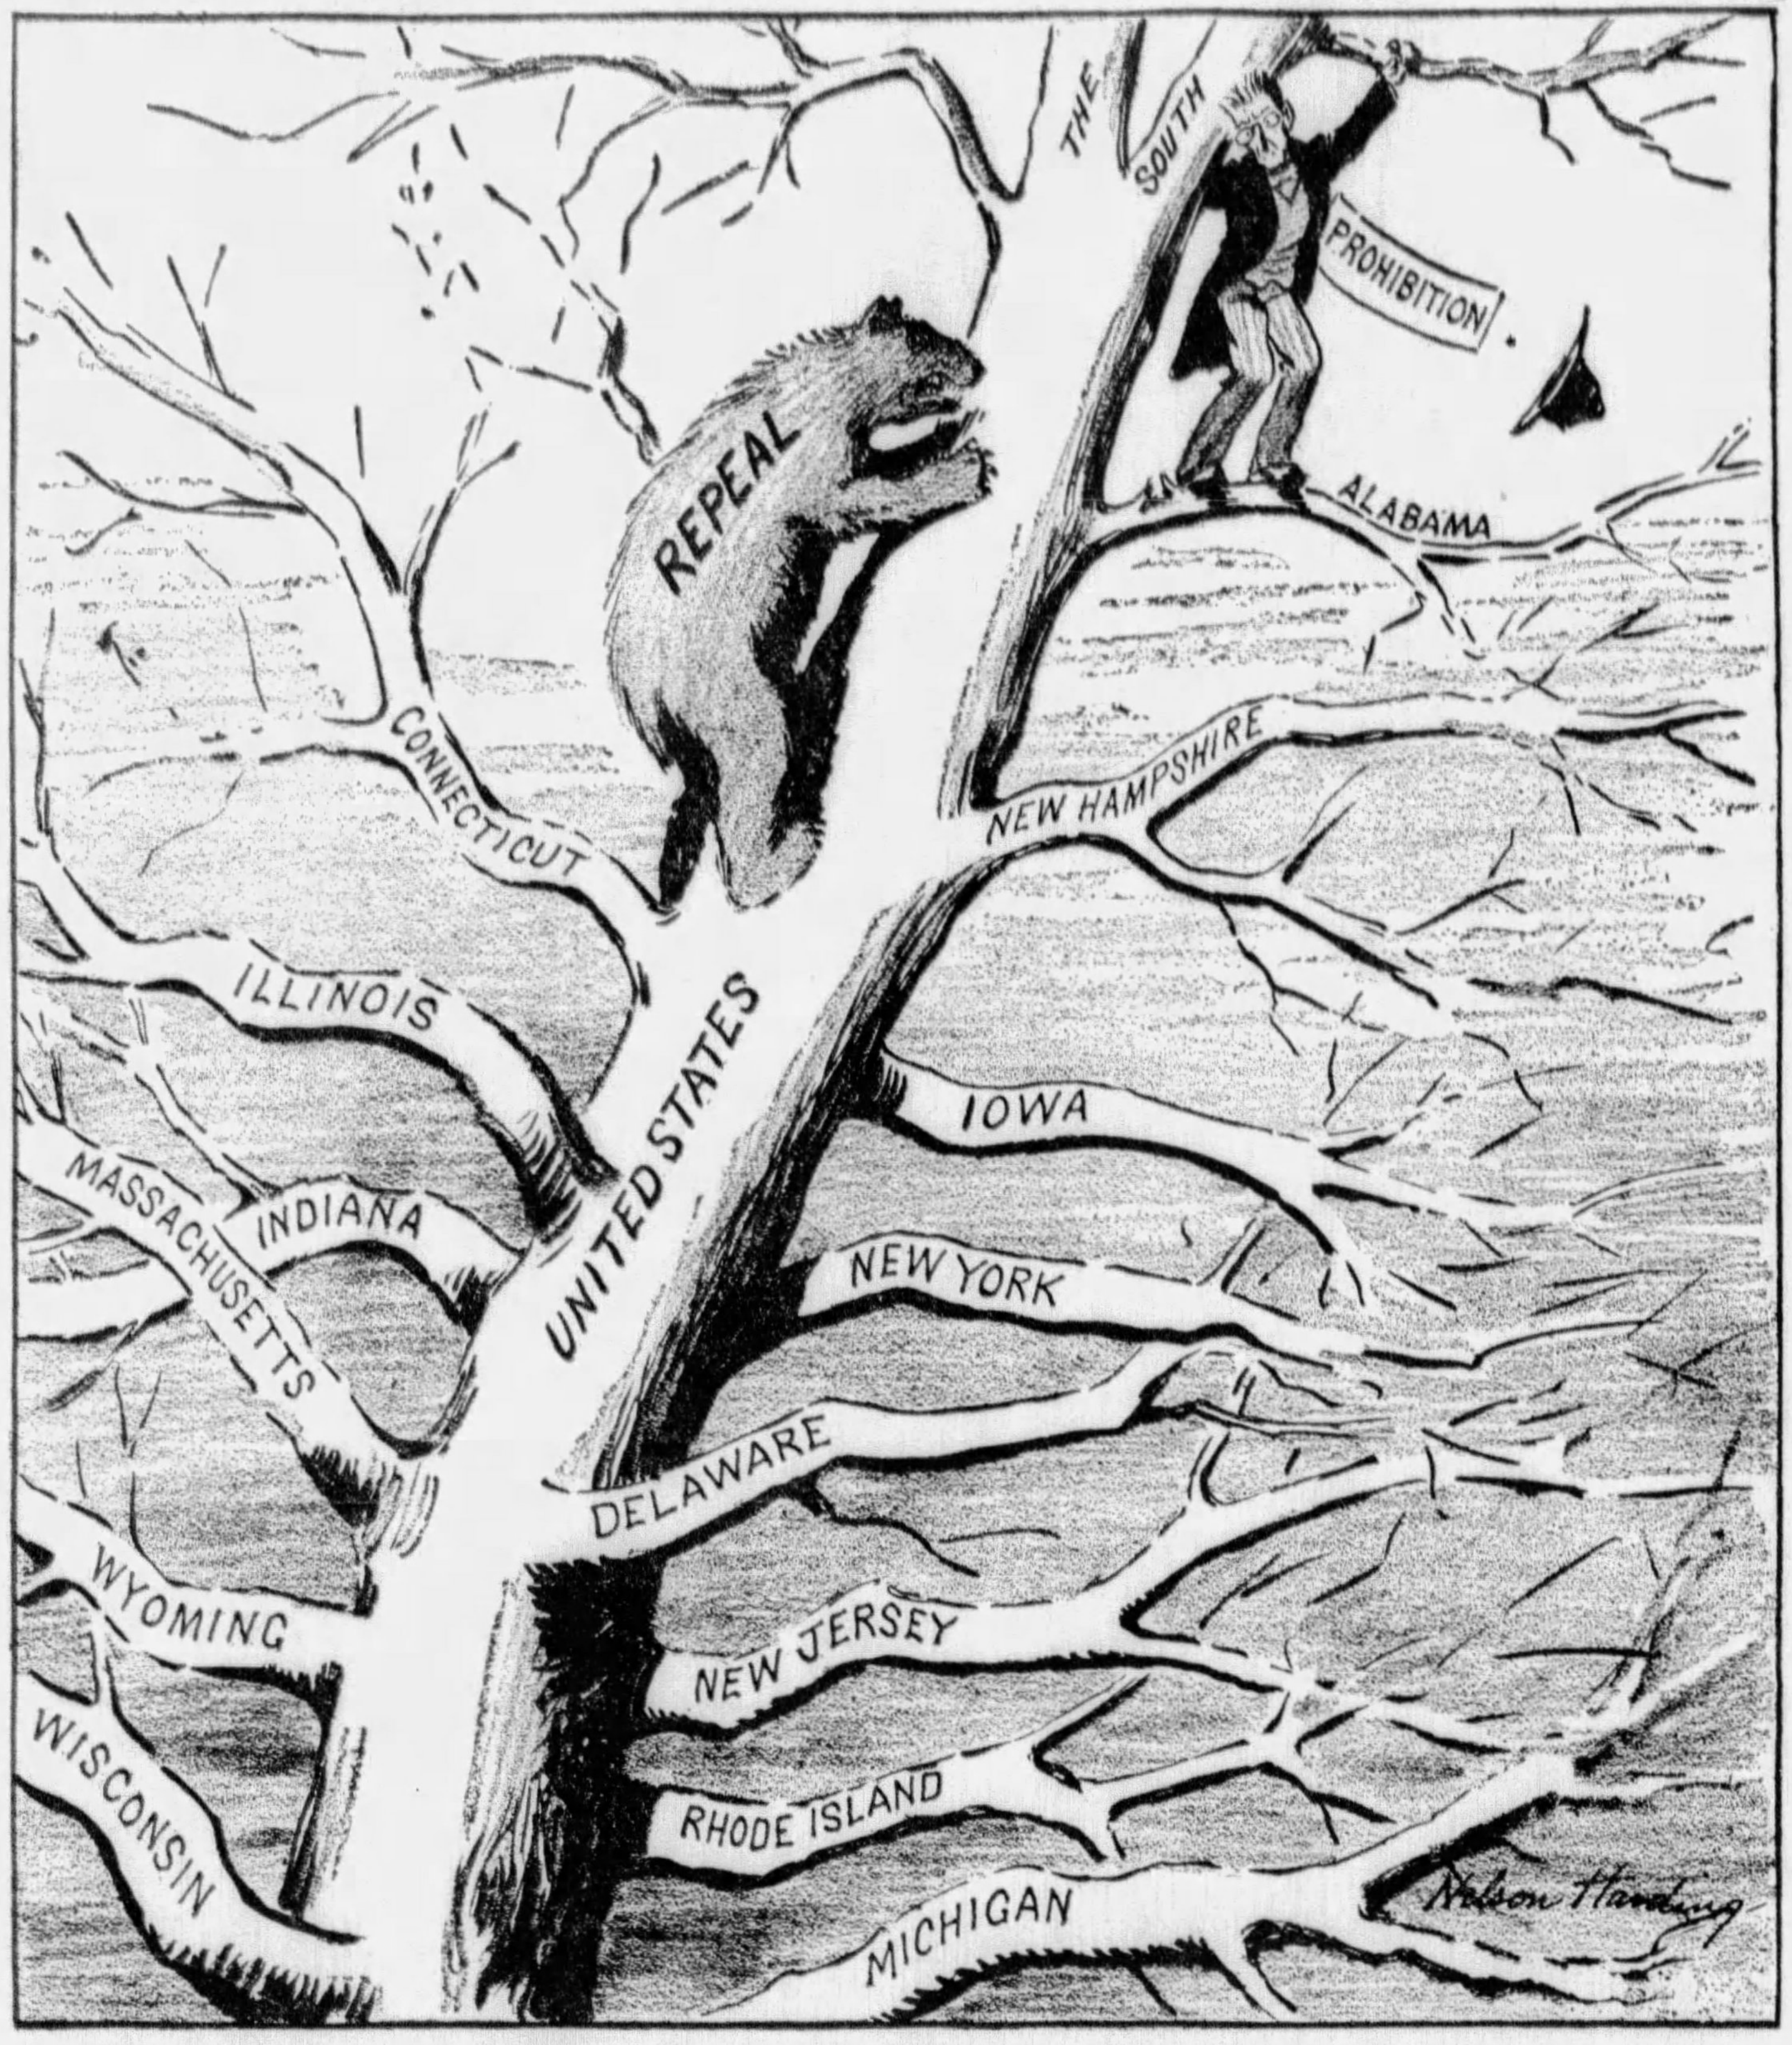
Age commands respect, and we hesitate to abolish a venerable institution, even though we suspect it is no longer of real service. And so Pennsylvania has retained the teachers' institute until now, notwithstanding that teachers, with rare exceptions, long have received years of training for their work before being placed on the public payroll.

Normal schools have made the institute unnecessary.

We have many outmoded institutions and customs, dating back to the period before automobiles and telephones and other commonplace things of the present era revolutionized life. These institutions and customs command respect because of their age, but some of them no longer are useful. They, too, might be abolished to advantage.

From Branch to Branch

By Nelson Harding



The chase goes on without a stop,
Branch after branch is passed;
And they grow thinner toward the top
Until there comes the last.

The limb the man was out on last
Was brittle as could be;
A few more limbs remain, but how
That bear can climb a tree!

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

"Man-Charming" Was a Racket

The greatest comfort and privilege which the modern woman enjoys is her freedom from the "observation ward."

* * *

Up to a decade or so ago, a girl was almost constantly in the position of a prisoner on parole, trying to make a good record by living up to some man's "ideals" . . . Or to meet the popular masculine notion of feminine charm.

DO I SEE POWDER ?

When men disapproved of "painted women," all nice girls went about with sallow cheeks and shiny noses their whole lives long. And, often died spinsters, just for the lack of a dime's worth of carmine! And if men vowed they liked them feminine and sweet, they choked back their opinions, smoked their cigarets on the sly, and blew the smoke out of the window.

* * *

Every girl's life was a continuous vaudeville show, in which she put on a different act, every few months, in the attempt to be the "ideal woman" for one man after another.

* * *

Then, marriage was a racket! And the average woman was such a whited sepulchre, that NO man knew what he was getting until he got it home, and the cellophane case came off.

* * *

But the modern girl has come to the conclusion that if a man doesn't admire her or love her just as God made her, then they just "don't click"—and he's not the man for HER.

YOU'LL TAKE ME AS I AM

Of course, every girl wants to be a "man's woman." Why shouldn't she? That's the only thing there is to attract. Or to MARRY! But even a moron can master the few simple rules, which apply to all men's likes and dislikes.

* * *

EVERY man likes a sweet-natured, good-tempered woman, and every man admires a well-groomed, well-bred, good-looking, dainty, graceful woman. Every man falls for a little flattery and can swallow a lot of it. (So can a woman.) And every man runs like mad from a woman who obviously pursues him—and promptly loses his taste and his enthusiasm for one that topples into his arms before he is ready to catch her. And tires of a woman who hangs around his neck.

* * *

Outside of those broad generalizations, there really is nothing TO this "man-charming business" and the more you struggle and strive to be an "It-girl," the less you'll succeed.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 20.—Broadway, like the village, has its odd characters whose orbit is bounded on the north by Columbus Circle and south by Herald Square. There is Artie Hitchborn, runner for a Times Square ticket scalpery, whose patois is as pure Broadway as a student of native dialect ever encountered.

He might have stepped from the page of a Damon Runyon legend of the street. Coxey, the insurance man, is seen where the fight crowds gather. Also Dr. Leo Michel, Rialto physician, at first nights. Leo Newman, silver-haired king of ticket brokers, has watched the flow from his cubicle shop 30 years.

Then Dave Levy, the haberdashery clerk, who knows everybody of importance from Max Baer to the ace star, Katharine Cornell. Crying Mary, a hooded Niobe with perfect tear duct control, who stands in the shadows asking alms. But owns four apartment houses in New Jersey.

Earl Carroll's shadow, "The Count." Oompah, the leather-lunged newsie, who says "dese and dose," but can quote the poets. Moe DuCore, well-plumed Broadway druggist, always with a fresh lapel flower. Sister Edith, the salvationist who is the image of Ethel Barrymore. And Dixie, the girl taxi charioteer.

J. P. Morgan, Sr., a neat connoisseur of fine wines, was once challenged on his knowledge of vintages by friends. They blindfolded the magnate and gave him samples of famous numbers of the period. He guessed all: Krug '96, the Chateauneff du Pape of a great year, a priceless Yquem and a comet year Charente. Finally they gave him a glass of water. Morgan ejected it in distaste, looked puzzled, rinsed his mouth with vermouth and tried again, seemingly puzzled. "Gentlemen," he said, "I can't quite place it, but it appears to be the fluid we brush our teeth with."

Maclin Marrow, Apollo of young Manhattan musicians and organizer of the Radio City Music Hall orchestra, boarded an uptown subway train with his violin the other day. At Seventy-second street a fellow fiddling for pennies got on and Marrow asked him, amusedly, if he knew the Bach concerto for two violins. The chap did and together they played it, strolling beneath the length of the roaring train, netting 45 cents. They each took two dimes and matched for the odd nickel. Marrow won. This compensated for riding by his stop and returning from One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

A real camaraderie springs up between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey. Wherever they meet, and it has been frequently of late, they indulge a familiar back slapping of long time friends. It is "Gene" and "Jack" between them, whereas for some time after their last battle they not only bowed aloofly, but Jack invariably scowled.

Thingumabobs: Mark Kelly, Los Angeles sport scribe, walks by O. Henry's hotel on Twenty-sixth street and lifts his hat when in New York . . . Lucius Beebe carries a monocle but only wears it abroad . . . Bernard Sobel sent the first copy of "Indiscreet Girl" to his school teacher . . . Major Bowes has the largest peony garden in Westchester . . . Henry Sell exercises by dropping in at 10 cents a dance places on his way home from work . . . Christopher Morley never visited a night club . . . Leopold Stowkowski goes on a diet of eggs for one day each week . . . Carolyn Wells collects kimonas . . . Hal Skelly was once a stooge in burlesque for Don Barclay . . . Messmore Kendall has one of the most distinguished guest books in town . . . Frank Case, who rarely leaves W. In a tea room a neat handed Phyllis served the meal and at the finish revealed: "My mother used to go to school with you!" She spoke a name I remembered and said her parents were living in a small town in the southwest. It was a pleasant experience but developed a problem of etiquet. What to do about a tip? After all, her livelihood depended upon such largesse. Yet I felt a diffidence not entirely Scotch. In the end I tucked two one dollar bills under my plate, trusting it would be considered more a gift from her mother's acquaintance. Today the bills were returned with a scribble: "Thanks!" I suppose it all simmers down to my being too sappy to be roaming at large.

The office stew tottered past the copy desk of a morning newspaper the other midnight. A veteran desk man, pointing with impious delight, cried: "Look, look! Old Joe Doakes, half man, half gin."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Every day a mountain of mail. Unhappy letters, most of them. Disappointed, resentful people, crying out against their loneliness. Railing against the indifference of the world. Wondering why they have such bad luck. Complaining because they never get their "chance." Blaming everyone but themselves for their bad breaks.

Hundreds of letters daily. Some typed, some written. Some on expensive bond, some on cheap pad paper. Each one telling a different story. Yet through them all runs one strange similarity.

NEARLY ALWAYS THE WRITING IS SO FAINT THAT IT IS DIFFICULT TO READ.

Faint writing—that may not seem a very important matter to you. It doesn't seem important to the writers. They may make a vague apology. "Please excuse the pencil; my pen isn't handy" . . . "I guess it's hard to read this typing. I should have changed the ribbon, but I didn't want to take time."

Feeble apologies, which they really don't mean, for they don't care if their faint writing is hard to read. That's the other fellow's bad luck, and, to them, only their own bad luck matters.

Nevertheless, if they but knew it, their writing tells the reason for their bad luck. For writing is more than a bunch of letters. It's a clue to character. You can nearly always find the reason for a man's story in the way he writes it.

Why aren't these unhappy people getting the breaks? Why can't they make the world stop, look and listen? That's why.

THEIR RECORD IS TOO FAINT!

Not only the record of their dull pencils, their shabby typewriter ribbons—BUT THE RECORD OF THEIR OWN CHARACTERS, WHICH IS REFLECTED IN THEIR PENCILS AND RIBBONS AND IN EVERYTHING ELSE THEY USE AND DO.

They have a real story to tell, those miserable souls. A sad story of disappointment and discouragement, failing hopes and fading dreams. They want and need help from the other fellow.

BUT THEY "CAN'T BE BOTHERED" TO PUT THAT STORY OR THEMSELVES INTO SHAPE SO THAT THE OTHER FELLOW CAN KNOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT.

Why can't they be bothered?

Partly because they're too lazy to do a little work on themselves.

Partly because they are actually getting a secret bang out of Being Miserable—and would far rather sob through life than snap into it.

THEN THEY WONDER WHY NO ONE "SHOWS THEM ANY CONSIDERATION."

BUT WHY SHOULD THE WORLD GET BUSY FOR THEM? IF THEY WON'T GET BUSY ON THEMSELVES?

We ARE "our brothers' keepers." Our neighbor's bad luck IS our concern. But unless he's a child or an idiot, it's up to him to do his part first. It's up to him to know what he wants, and then state it so it can be heard.

And it's also up to him to consider the other fellow's rights, if he wishes to have his own considered.

Meaning what?

Meaning that it's no particular treat for the other fellow to assume your burdens. And if he does so you—not he—are the debtor.

If you want your neighbor to help you, meet him half way. No use huddling way back in your deep, dark hole; "dasting" him to come and drag you out; blaming him if he doesn't. That will buy you nothing but more grief.

THE WORLD'S TOO BIG AND TOO BOTHERED TO WASTE ITS TIME PLAYING HIDE-AND-SEEK WITH A DELIBERATE GLOOM.

IF YOU WANT ACTION, SHOW SOME!

Mary Akeley Carries On Her Husband's Work In Africa—A Woman Lama—Mysteries of the Orient

By EDWIN C. HILL

CARL AKELEY, sculptor, naturalist and African explorer, who first proved that the gorilla is a shy creature and that the lion is a gentleman, has gone to his reward. But his charming wife, Mrs. Mary L. Jobe Akeley, who adventured with him into the deepest jungles of the Black Continent, remains to carry on his great work.

To meet her in the new African Hall of the great American Museum of Natural History, you would scarcely credit that this gentle-spoken, beautifully dressed and most attractive lady had walked at her husband's side in rough khaki, rifle in hand, daring perils that most men would flinch from.

When Carl Akeley died suddenly in Africa, while collecting the magnificent specimens of African wild life that now fill the new African Hall, the expedition was left without a leader. But Mrs. Akeley, then in the Kivu mountains jungle, two miles high, stepped resolutely into her dead husband's place and carried his work on to success.

A Bryn Mawr and Columbia girl, she had adventure tingling in her blood. An explorer in her own right, she has made 10 expeditions into the high Canadian Rockies. A mountain there is named after her, "Mount Jobe." She mapped the headwaters of the Frazier River. She knows Africa as few old hunters know its mysteries. She can wear, if she pleases, the order of the Crown of Belgium.

She tells me that African wild life is fast disappearing—elephants, lions, giraffes, all the great creatures. The only hope of preserving it is to establish in Africa a chain of great game-preserve parks.

A White Woman Who Became a Lama

OF ALL the adventurous ladies of the times, the one who had the most thrilling experience, I think, was Mme. Alexandra David-Neel, who spent 14 years as a professed Buddhist in mysterious Thibet. She is the only white woman who was ever made a lama, or high priest, of the Buddhist faith.

In that Land of Snow, far up in the Himalayas, she came in touch with the unknowable, the incredible, the old magic of the East. With her own eyes she saw the priests and magicians of Thibet make light of the laws of nature. She saw them sit naked in the frozen snow, at heights of 10,000 feet, 15,000 feet, and melt the snow around them with the bodily heat they were able to create at will.

She saw them crouch in pits and spring straight upward 11 feet, with bodies that defied the law of gravity, made so light by the sheer power of the human will that they had to be loaded down with chains to keep them on the ground.

She tells the story in her fascinating book, "The Magic and Mystery of Thibet." It is the story of the wonder-workers who have mastered some ancient secret of breathing, by which they make their bodies as light almost as the air itself; by which mountain runners can cover in a few hours distance it would take a galloping horse three days to make; by which they can go for days in the terrible cold of the high Himalayas with no clothing whatever, and yet remain as warm as if clothed with furs.

Uncanny and mysterious as it is, the Thibetans deny that there is anything supernatural about their amazing magic. They told Madame David-Neel that all the so-called wonders depend on the clever handling of little-known laws and forces of nature. They said to her: 'Gods, humans, and the whole universe, are but a mirage which exists in the mind, springs from it and sinks into it."

After 14 years spent among these masters of the old mysteries and old secrets, Madame David-Neel knows that they have the power of projecting their spirits great distances, while the body itself remains behind fully awake, conscious, even active—but soulless. The soul has been sped forth on its appointed errand.

Perhaps this accounts for the strange fact that long before there were telegraph wires, much less radio, news of great events was known from end to end of India, in the Buddhist temples, within a few hours after it occurred—weeks, sometimes, before it reached the white men.

But of all the mysteries of Thibetan magic, there was one for which there was no possible explanation to satisfy the shaken mind—the summoning back of life to the bodies of the dead; the dreadful power to recall, from whatever bourne to which it had taken wing, the freed and unshackled soul; to hear, above the muttered incantations of the magicians, the thin and reedy lament of lagging and reluctant spirits.

New Discoveries In Egypt and Mexico

WHAT fascination there is in the discovery of old cities and the eloquent relics of old peoples who lived so far back in time that the last echoes of their civilizations ceased to reverberate a thousand years ago. In Upper Egypt patient archaelogists have come upon the tomb of some forgotten king. Upon the head of the king rested a crown of solid silver. In his right hand was a sword of iron with a silver hilt. At his side was a spear of iron with a silver shaft. And all about were warriors and slaves slain on the spot to keep their master company as he passed into the other world.

In Upper Egypt they have found, also, the beautifully sculptured head, in marble, of the most beautiful woman who ever lived in Egypt—not Cleopatra, but the great Queen Nofretete, whose beauty was so dazzling that men veiled their eyes as from the blazing rays of the sun.

Down in Mexico the men who make the past live again, with all its fire and color and romance, made just the other day the greatest find in years. Seven feet underground they came upon the tomb of a little girl of 9 or 10, and around her were her toys—very much such toys as children have today—a red tiger with a ruffled collar, a doll baby, tiny cooking vessels and a red owl which whistled when she blew into it. And, standing in the tomb of that little girl of ancient America, one of the men of science raised the red owl to his lips and blew into it, and it whistled shrilly, the first sound that had come from it for more than a thousand years.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

At the first tournament of the country club season a certain member, upon meeting another for the first time since last fall, was heard to remark: "One of the most important reasons why I belong to this country club is the fine spirit of give and take, the banter and comradship which I find here."

Here is a club member who is getting real enjoyment out of his club affiliations.

He likes to mix with people interested in what pleases him.

Mutual interest in a certain sport and a spirit of good-natured fairness makes his club members stand out even when they are scattered.

Are you getting happiness out of your club membership?

Isn't it true that you mingle with about the same crowd in your sport that you do throughout the winter social season.

You are a member of a certain little clique, even in your summer sports, and you hold aloof from other members.

Undoubtedly you do know a lot of good fellows in your club.

You find them most companionable and interesting.

They may or they may not hold as responsible positions as you.

Sometimes they are just as high class fellows as any of those among your most intimate friends, if you'd take time to find it out.

Isn't It So?

Eloquence is the mistress of all the arts.

Nature is grand until one is disappointed in love.

There is many a slip when the cup touches the lips too often.

It's easy for a man with a pleasing personality to borrow money.

Much of our knowledge is learned from the experience of others.
